Bombs After Deadline

Times News Services

Turkish planes were still dropping bombs in Cyprus following the ceasefire deadline agreed on by both Turkey and Greece, the United Nations Security Council was told today by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Waldheim said Turkish planes struck at Nicosia airport after the 10 a.m. EDT deadline and that one bomb had hit a UN installation, wounding a British soldier.

As the fighting continued for the third day, concentrated along the northern coast, there were radio reports out of the Turkish capital of Ankara that Greek military officers had staged a coup against the Athens regime and arrested strongman Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ionnides.

Three hours before the ceasefire deadline, Turkey was reported flying in fresh troops, and two hours later the deadline, Turkey's armed forces general staff indicated that some bombing might continue.

At the deadline, monitors in Beirut, Lebanon, heard the Greek, Greek-Cypriot radio broadcast orders for the Greek-Cypriots to stop shooting.

Earlier in the day both Greece and Turkey announced their forces on Cyprus would observe the United Nations sponsored ceasefire.

And in London, Foreign Secretary James Callaghan announced the two countries have ageeed to meet with Britain in Geneva to discuss a new Cyprus peace settlement.

The Turkish general staff in Ankara claimed Greek-Cypriots were slaughtering Turkish-Cypriots in the areas of Paphos in the western part of the island in Lefka in the north.

The general staff said that unless this stopped, the Turkish air force would bomb the areas heavily.

In a censored dispatch from Nicosia an Associated Press correspondent said Turkey had landed massive reinforcements by sea and air on the north coast as fighting raged for control of strategic areas.

Heavy pre-deadline fighting was reported around the seaport of Kyrenia where witnesses said at least 12 Turkish air force C-47 transport planes dropped a new wave of paratroopers on the beaches. Other troops charged out of amphibious landing vessels and from at least 30 helicopters.

The witnesses said they saw at least seven Turkish naval vessels lying off shore. Some five of them were in the destroyer class and one was a large troop carrier which discharged at least four landing boats.

There was no immediate confirmation of the reported coup from the Reuters news agency correspondent in Athens, who had earlier denied news agency reports that tanks were moving on the capital.

The Ankara radio report, said the coup had been led by a Gen. Davos and that Gen. Joannides, strongman of the army-backed Greek regime, had been detained. It said the Greek head-of-state, Gen. Phaedon Gizikis, was "trying to calm the people."

The reports quoted by the radio, which originated in Belgrade, said troops had surrounded Athens today.

In London, Callaghan said he had won agreement from the Turkish and Greek leaders to attend the proposed tripartite talks.

Callaghan told Parliament the Greek foreign minister informed him today of his willingness to attend the proposed conference with Britain and Turkey.

"This afternoon the prime minister of Turkey has indicated his agreement with Geneva as the meeting place," Callaghan said.

"I trust these talks will begin either tomorrow or Wednesday," he added.

Callaghan said he had continuous discussions throughout the weekend with U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and separate talks with the Turkish and Greek leaders.

"A great deal has to be done to ensure the return of constitutional rule in Cyprus which was destroyed last Monday and to devise arrangements which will produce the necessary confidence among all concerned that this willl be maintained in future," he said.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Sunday the United Nations peacekeeping forces in Cyprus will not withdraw from the island "at this time."

The UN forces, including the 480-troop Canadian contingent, were performing "a useful function" on the strife-torn island.

Sharp added that the Canadian contingent was doing "very fine work." The troops had worked to stop the spread of fighting and helped to achieve local ceasefires on the island.

He confirmed reports that nine Canadian soldiers had been wounded but said there were no severe injuries.

Meanwhile, Canadian civilians in the Cyprus capital, Nicosia, were being evacuated to Dhekelia in the south of the island.

Glycol Snapped At $10 Gallon

Panic-buying in anti-freeze has reached Victoria, pushing the price to nearly $10 a gallon from a high of $4.85 last winter.

Woolco Department Store has sold 200 gallons in the past week at $9.97 a gallon and expects to quickly sell its remaining stock of 800 gallons at that price.

"When it's gone I don't think we will be getting any more at all," Woolco automobile centre manager Gordon Kawecki said today.

"We don't expect to get another order even for winter. We have been told that we should not expect any more. At this time last year we had a good supply and it was on sale at $1.99 a gallon."

Other retailers reported thay had almost no supplies left and little hope of obtaining a new order right away.

The sudden escalation in price is due to warnings of a possible shortage due to a scarcity of ethylene glycol, a key ingredient.

The two major Canadian manufacturers of anti-freeze, Dow and Union Carbide, say they expect sporadic shortages across the country this winter but are hopeful of supplying most of the demand.

They said motorists should not have to pay more than $8.50 per gallon for anti-freeze this year.

However, dealers in Vic-

Officer Beaten

Seven youths were arrested and an RCMP officed beaten after a Metchosin baseball diamond turned into a battlefield Sunday.

Const. Bill Biden received a cut ear which required seven stitches.

Sgt. Ted Foster of Colwood said today the young people had been playing in an unorganized game about 6 p.m. at Dunsmuir School, 3341 Painter.

The constable, he said, stopped at the field after noticing players drinking beer.

While questioning one player, several others interfered and Biden was knocked to the ground and kicked, Foster said.

Two persons living near the school called police, who sent two Colwood and four Saanich officers to the scene.

The fight was over by the time the Saanich officers arrived.

One of the arrested persons who had been handcuffed escaped from a police cruiser with the aid of a woman, Foster said, but he was recaptured.

Appearing in court this morning, on various charges of obstructing and assaulting a police officer and possession of liquor in a public place, were: Wayne Boldo, 22, of 318 Benhommer; Daniel Makow, 20, of 4075 Metchosin; Patrick Heslop, 19, and David Heslop, 21, of 1321 Sussex; John Heslop, 22, of 1340 Sussex; Reginald Wall, 18, of 487 Dressler; Terry Lee, 18, of Belmont Auto Court.

They were remanded to July 29 for plea and all but one released on bail.

New Leases Scare Seniors

Many elderly tenants of the Orchard House highrise apartment in James Bay are moving out because they are anxious about tenure and feel "intimidated" by the owner's offer of 99-year leases on their suites, The Times learned today.

A spokesman for the tenants, who preferred not to have her name mentioned, said 21 tenants of the 210-suite building have given notice since June 1 and none had intended to move.

Despite reassurances from the tenants' committee, she said, tenants are "frightened and bewildered" as to their future, and their rights if they choose to decline the lease offer.

In many cases the residents are refugees from the strata title conversion of other apartments, including Bickerton Court, and they are afraid that they will have to move yet again, she said.

The woman said she has written to Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen and Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson, seeking official assurance that tenants are not obliged to vacate if they reject the lease offer.

In the letter to Pollen, she says a rumor circulating the building since the end of May was confirmed July 8 when copies of an unsigned, undated letter from Pacific Strata Services Ltd. were received by most tenants.

The circular letter begins: "As we expect you are aware, long-term leases are now available in Orchard House, but this in no way changes the month-to-month tenancies of present occupants.

"Pacific Strata Services Ltd., as agent for the owner, is preparing a program for the sale of long-term leases on all vacant suites and these will, of course, be available to present tenants. Tenants may also purchase long-term leases on the suites that they are currently occupying."

The woman spokesman told the Times that despite the firm's assurance concerning maintenance of existing tenancies, there has been a tendency for "rumor to feed on rumor" resulting in growing doubts and suspicion.

As she put it in her letter to Pollen: "Since then (July 8) tenants have been inclined to panic and move to whatever other accommodation they could find, thus playing into the hands of the landlord.

"The majority of tenants here are retired and many 65 and over. One can therefore understand their reluctance to live with an axe hanging over their heads."

In her suite today, and with a neighboring tenant supporting her stand, she said she would like to imbue tenants with a "fighting" spirit and encourage them not to panic.

She said the 99-year leases are absurdly high, and even if the term or price didn't deter elderly tenants they would find it a far better proposition to move into a new condominium, where suites were generally larger and better than the Orchard House units.

She said the figures quoted by the firm range from $21,700 for a studio suite on the 12th floor to $45,000 for a two-bedroom suite on the 17th.

The terms of the offer require a minimum $5,000 down-payment with the remainder carried on a mortgage at 10 per cent over 30 years.

IT'S TOUGH TO WIN $500,000

TORONTO (CP) — In Horatio Alger's stories, the poor but honest hero always adjusted perfectly to sudden riches, but it appears to be more difficult in real life.

Last week, Jim MacLean, a 26-year-old printer, had $53 in the bank, and his telephone had been cut off because he was unable to pay his $160 bill.

Last Tuesday, he won $500,000 in the Olympic lottery.

His financial record now impeccable, he was welcomed at his bank and with a loan and an extended credit-card allowance, went on a shopping spree, spent $1,200 on clothes and traded in his Volkswagen on a $4,800 Dodge Charger.

Then, off to Montreal to claim the prize and all the headaches that go with it.

It wasn't until he reached Montreal and checked into a luxurious hotel that the worries began.

How to handle all that money?

Where should it be invested? What interest rate? What about the family? Will it change me?

All those questions and more went through Mr. MacLean's mind.

"I feel excited all the time now," he said in a weekend interview. "I can't sit still."

Although Mr. MacLean worried about hiring an accountant or even a lawyer, Julien Cote, a lottery official, sat down with him and offered counsel.

"You're young, if you invest your capital properly, you'll never have to use it," he said. "But you'll have to be careful."

Mr. Cote told tthe winner to shop around for the highest interest rate he can get.

When Mr. MacLean said he had been offered 10^3_4 per cent by his bank manager, Mr. Cote urged him to be tough.

"That's when you were sitting on the other side of the table," Mr. Cote said. "Now you're in the driver's seat."

"Call up the other banks and say: 'Boys, I have $500,000 for five years. How much are you going to give me?'"

Then, Mr. Cote offered a list of accountants from across the country, suggesting the winner hire a firm to handle his income taxes, leaving the choice of a lawyer until he entered business deals.

And Mr. MacLean headed back for Toronto, with a long list of questions that Horatio Alger's heroes never seemed to worry about.

IMPEACHMENT DEBATE ON TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives voted today to allow live television coverage of the final stage of the judiciary committee's debate and vote on impeachment of President Nixon. (Earlier story Page 2)

The action permits the committee to decide which vote to let cameras record during the panel's historic debate, expected to start Wednesday.

HIGH... AND DRY

TUB START CHURNS NEAR-TIDAL WAVE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dan Downer rub-a-dub-dubbed his fibreglass tub across the Strait of Georgia in less than two hours Sunday to win the Great Nanaimo-to-Vancouver bathtub race that started in a near tidal wave and ended in a light chop.

A total of 241 tubs on plywood frames, plus their escort boats and sight-seeing pleasure craft, churned up 10-foot waves in Nanaimo harbour in a wild mass start.

When the spray cleared for Downer, a 21-year-old unemployed truck driver from Nanaimo, one hour, 53 minutes and three seconds and 36 miles later he had the trophy for which he had been racing for seven years.

By the time race officials packed up their clipboards and stop watches for the afternoon at Kislilano Beach here, only 100 of the bathtub sailors had crossed the finish line.

And organizers said late Sunday they won't know exactly how many completed the mad dash until they find out how many turned back.

About a dozen tubbers were reported swamped in the wake generated by the mass exodus.

New Zealand champion Philip Atkinson had to duck-dive to get a rope on his submerged tub. But he managed to refloat it and finished 65th. Others were towed back to Nanaimo Harbour after their small horsepower motors gave out a few miles from the starting line.

Downer and Cecil Van Sickle, 18, of Squamish, who finished three minutes and 25 seconds behind the winner, were running a nose to faucet battle for the first 12 miles of the eighth annual event.

Van Sickle, first off the starting line, was fighting a heavy chop when Downer got by him. He just couldn't catch up again.

Downer's winning time was more than four minutes off the record of 1:49.0 set by David Lyle of Nanaimo two years ago. He wasn't entered this time.

Cable TV Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission has approved an application by Glenn I. Naylor to operate a cable television service for Parksville and Qualicum Beach.

Applications by Mid-Island Cable TV Ltd. and William D. Messer for the same territory were rejected in a decision released today.

The CRTC said Naylor's cable firm must begin local community programming as soon as possible. The applicant had suggested the firm would start in its fourth year of operation or sooner if financially possible.

Nixon Trial Expected

Times News Services

With the House of Representatives judiciary committee preparing to start its impeachment debate Wednesday, few Republicans appear to believe President Nixon can avoid an impeachment trial in the Senate.

"The White House has taken a count and they know they've lost the committee," said one Republican member last week. "Their only hope is to keep the vote down and try to pull it out in the house."

Second-ranking committee Republican Robert McClory of Illinois was merely saying out loud what his fellow colleagues have been saying privately when he predicted that impeachment articles would attract four or five Republican votes on the committee. If the Democrats stick together, this would mean a nearly 2-to-1 vote for impeachment.

McClory went on to say that he believed the House would in all likelihood accept the committee's recommendation.

Before Wednesday the committee will decide whether to change House rules to allow the television cameras into committee sessions. A resolution proposing the change is scheduled for House action shortly before the committee meets this afternoon.

At an earlier closed session, arguments against impeachment were to be made by the deputy minority counsel, Sam Garrison, insteadof chief minority counsel Albert Jenner.

Jenner has been removed from his post because he "seems to have forgotten who his client is in this case," two committee Republicans said Sunday.

In a broadcast interview Sunday, Robert McClory of Illinois and Rep. Charles Wiggins, R—Calif., said Jenner was not representing the Republicans.

McClory said Jenner "is out of tune with the Republican members, and Garrison, but I would say unanimous action of the minority members, is being designated as the minority counsel."

The move to dump Jenner came after the Chicago lawyer joined with Doar in reccommending several proposed articles of impeachment.

"He has taken a strong position for impeachment and falling in line with the Democratic leadership and it seems to me he has to serve that position," McClory said.

In another development, judiciary committee transcripts released during the weekend show that President Nixon expressed concern that he may have inadvertently ignored a Watergate cover-up plot. The transcript was of a June 4, 1973, conversation with presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler, in which Nixon discussed conversations he had in February and March, 1973, with former aides.

Nixon is quoted as saying to Ziegler: "I mean, God, maybe we were talking about a coverup — Watergate. I really didn't know what the hell —I honestly didn't know."

Boom in Anti-Freeze

toria and Vancouver say the price could go to $15 or higher, depending upon the supply situation when demand reaches its peak.

A spokesman for Imperial Oil said a few gallons of anti-freeze are available at some Victoria service stations and the current price range is between $8 and $10.

He said his company would have only a maximum of 70 per cent of last year's supply on hand this winter, which means a shortage almost inevitably will develop.

"But there is no reason for panic. Motorists buying anti-freeze before December should be able to get it and the price range should be $8 to $10. After that, we just don't know."

Imperial will begin delivering anti-freeze to its service stations later this month in preparation for an expected brisk fall sale.

Shell Canada also will fill only 70 per cent of its order and the expected price will be about $8.50 a gallon.

A Victoria spokesman for Gulf Canada was confident it could market anti-freeze at $6.99 a gallon starting in September and the supply situation would be quite good.

Newsman Dead at 49

Funeral services will be held Wedensday in Langley for Terry Hammond, veteran B.C. newsman and former city editor of the Daily Colonist.

The Vancouver Sun's business editor since 1969, Hammond died of a heart attack Saturday in Vancouver. He was 49.

Educated in Vancouver and Victoria, he spent the early 1960s as the Colonist's legislative reporter before taking over the city editor's post and later moved to Vancouver as a special assignments writer at the Sun.

The service will be held at 11 a.m. at Henderson's Funeral Chapel and his family asks that donations be made to the B.C. Heart Foundation in lieu of flowers.

ment itself and about $50 a month for maintenance."

And the maintenance payment itself would almost certainly go up within a few months, she added.

Her neighbor said he can't understand how anyone would be "stupid enough" to accept the firm's offer, and added that to his knowledge no suites has yet been leased although the firm is not re-letting vacant suites.

The man said it appears the company is doing nothing illegal or improper, but he noted that a yet-to-be-proclaimed section of the new Landlord and Tenant Act requires any landlord wanting to enter into more than a three-year lease to seek approval from the municipal council or regional district concerned.

That provision, he added, would be retroactive to June 1.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department confirmed the tenant's point, and stressed that under the new act tenants can't be evicted for refusing to sign a 99-year lease.

Sometimes the best place to talk to your Imperial Life man isn't the best place.

Meeting at the office to talk about your insurance program puts a very personal matter in a very business-like setting. And maybe that's not how you like it.

Maybe you'd like to meet with your Imperial Life agent where you feel comfortable enough to discuss every aspect of your family's immediate and future plans. Like at home with your wife. Or over lunch. Or anywhere you feel at ease and free to talk personally.

Because the more you can tell us, the more we can help you.

And that's when you'll notice your Imperial Life man isn't just an insurance salesman. We put him through an extensive training program. We teach him all he has to know about life insurance. And he has on call a team of experts — lawyers, accountants, estate planning specialists.

We continually keep him up-to-date on all the new developments. He can talk with you about Registered Savings Plans. Government pensions. Effective use of your company group benefits. Tax laws.

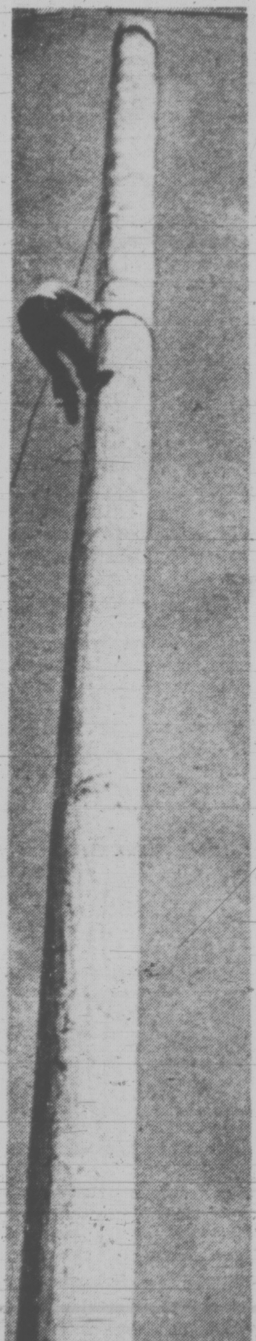
Hartill Top Chop

CLOWNING and serious side of Saturday's action in Sooke is captured by photographer John McKay above and below. On top, doing a headstand 90 feet in the air, is Art Williams of Ladysmith, a professional climber. Below, Jack Adams of Aberdeen Wash., nears the summit during the spar climb, a relay event.



Burly Sooke logger Ron Hartill proved Saturday that he could still throw and axe, chop a block and choke a log better than anyone else in the area.

For the third time in two years, the tall, bronzed, square-shouldered logger who looks like he was born with an axe in his hands, walked away with the honors at the 41st annual All Sooke Day.

Hartill, 37, who still has the lilting accent of his native New Zealand, won the best all-round logger trophy after he placed first in two events, second in three and fourth in one.

The legend of All Sooke Day, that it never rains for the event—lived on this year as temperatures hit the high 70s and the crowd, estimated by officials at more than 10,000, ate its way through pounds of barbequed beef and salmon and drank its way through 500 cases of cold beer.

The logger judged the best sportsman of the event didn't get to pick up his trophy. Jack Adams of Hoquiam, Wash., collapsed on the ground after he had made two successive climbs of the 100-foot-high spar pole.

Adams had won the choker race, placed third in the speed climbing event and went up the pole again as the first man for his relay team.

He reached the 80-foot mark that was necessary for his team to keep going, but he couldn't get back down the pole. He stayed up for three or four minutes then slowly made his way down, obviously exhausted by the heat and exertion.

He reached the ground and collapsed. While he was being looked after by a doctor and several ambulance attendants, his son Jack Jr. picked up his trophy for him.

Adams was helped to an ambulance, but apparently recovered later and was not taken to hospital.

The color of the logging competition was added to by two Sooke sisters who competed against each other in the women's log birling contest.

Elaine has won the event for the past three years, perhaps helped along by her mismatched knee socks which she says might "hypnotize my opponents."

Both girls, and all others in the log birling event, got a good dunking in the small birl pond for their efforts.

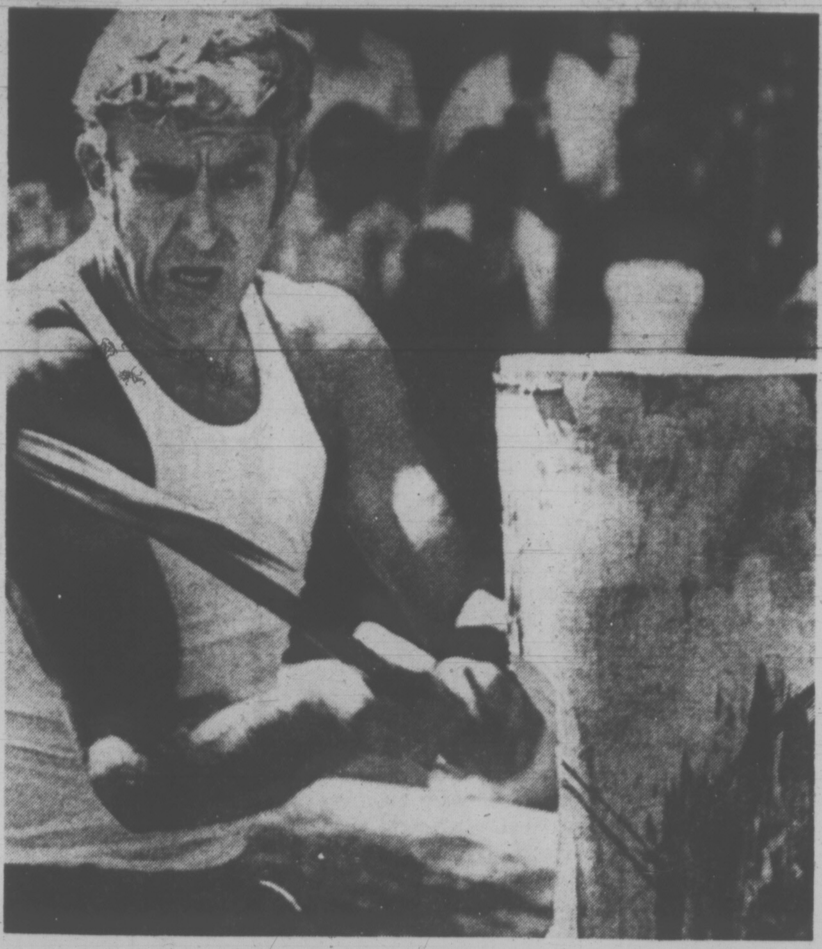
All the color and excitement of All Sooke Day was recorded by a three-man crew from NET-Asahi Television in Japan. The crew is travelling coast-to-coast in Canada to make up a 13-part weekly series on the country to be aired in Japan this fall. The men spent Friday in Victoria, Saturday in Sooke and Sunday in Nanaimo for the annual bathtub race to Vancouver.



BEST ALL-ROUND LOGGER this year is Ron Hartill, now a Sooke faller and formerly from New Zealand, whose flashing axe is making short work of sturdy log. He scored two firsts, three seconds, and one fourth in the course of a busy day.

REVIVING with the help of oxygen after collapsing from exhaustion is competitor Jack Adams of Aberdeen, Wash. He was announced as best sportsman of the day.

'BEST BABY' in Victoria Times competition is 15-month-old Matthew Halliday, son of Don and Vicki Halliday, 1214 Alan Road.

What's behind Finbar's Colour TV Guarantee?

When we first sat down to put together our supplemental guarantee, we wanted to give our customers something of value. With so many companies having abused the term, most "warranties" are judged by people as meaningless or a selling gimmick.

And rightfully so.

But at Finbar's things are different. The only colour TV's we sell are Hitachi. These 100% solid state sets are considered by many experts to be the finest available in the world. And we at Finbar's are convinced that you can't buy a better set. That's why Hitachi products are all we sell.

It is this confidence in quality that forms the basis of our guarantee. We give two years parts and labour on the picture tube, and five years parts and labour on everything else in the set. Sounds too good to be true? Well, it's as simple as that, and we think it's the best coverage in Canada.

Best of all, Finbar's doesn't charge you extra for this protection. It's included for the regular retail price.

So when you're ready for a colour TV, come see Hitachi at Finbar's. The best sets, with the best written guarantee.

Let's Take the Plunge at Thetis

The Capital Regional Board has added two excellent feathers to its cap with the announcements that the new thousand-acre parkland in the Highlands district is now available to the hiking public, and that negotiations are almost completed to purchase the 225 acres adjacent to Thetis Lake park that are needed to prevent pollution on the watershed.

The Thetis Lake addition has long been in the discussion stage and the benefits to be derived have been eloquently argued by the Thetis Lake Nature Sanctuary Association and other concerned individuals and groups. If the current talks result in purchase by the provincial government, an excellent addition will have been made to a park already famous for its botanical variety, and a necessary safeguard will have been provided for the lake which is one of the finest recreational bodies within easy reach of the city.

The Highlands district acquisitions, proceeding quietly over the past three years, will add a major area to the Regional District's admirable chain of parks. About a quarter the size of the 4,000-acre East Sooke Park, the still nameless parkland embraces three lakes — one of them, Durrance, still owned by the city — and has the added advantage of saltwater frontage in McKenzie Bight on Saanich Inlet.

The value of these assets is difficult to estimate in monetary terms, but whatever it may be today, it can be only a fraction of the total in a few years when the growing population of the southern end of the Island will need the type of outdoor recreation which only such semi-wild areas can provide.

The provincially supported Capital Regional District parks acquisition program is one of the shining achievements of the past decade. It should be capped by a sensible agreement with Victoria to transfer the title to Thetis Lake Park from city to Regional District, making Thetis a key area in the regional parks system and relieving the city of expenditures for improvements and upkeep which should logically be paid by the larger body.

There is concern by some Victoria aldermen that the City would lose the bookkeeping value of the asset as a basis for possible bonded debt at some future time, if the property were to be turned over to the Region for a nominal sum. It is this attitude, too, which has deterred the city from making Thetis Lake safe for all time by officially dedicating it as parkland. At the moment a shift from the very insecure "watershed" category to "park reserve" status is being considered, but the full step should be taken and all trace of threat — present or future — to the incomparable Thetis property be removed.

As a dedicated park the Thetis area would be priceless, yet without commercial value inasmuch as it could not be put on the market for subdivision or any other purpose. So unless some members of Council nurture a secret thought that some day Thetis, or part of it, might be disposed of for cash, there should be no hesitation in making it secure.

Surely in the interests of safeguarding the asset, Victoria could work out some sort of plan, such as a commitment by the provincial government to back city bonds to the book value of Thetis in the most unlikely event that at some distant time the City might be in such desperate straits that the park would have to be put up as collateral.

Let's face it: Thetis Lake can never be anything but park. Let's make sure that it never will be.

An Ad Hoc Idea

The provincial government is going to have a full investigation into British Columbia food prices. Just how, when or where, the investigation will be effected is vague, but nevertheless Agriculture Minister David Stupich is committed to a full enquiry.

At first Mr. Stupich suggested the possibility of a royal commission. Then he veered towards expanding the investigative role of the B.C. Food Advisory council until reminded that supermarket representatives as well as consumer groups form the council. And finally the agricultural minister said that it will probably be at least a year before the investigation begins, because of other provincial plans in the general area of food costs.

Mr. Stupich is an able minister but when he does his thinking out loud it is not reassuring. Like so many other provincial government decisions the enquiry into B.C. food prices seems to be an ad hoc idea, tossed out on the spur of the moment without adequate forthought. The agriculture minister is correct when he says that producer incomes seem to be declining as prices become higher. But what can the provincial government do?

The federal Food Prices and Review Board issues periodic statistics, expresses dismay and appears unable to find the culprit responsible. Perhaps there is no culprit other than excessive demand and short supplies. Certainly the federal review board, with its lack of power, seems little more than a device to take the heat off the national government.

If Ottawa is really serious about finding out if profiteering exists — something which the anti-profiteering legislation leaves in doubt — it has the power to get the facts under the anti-combines legislation. But when the provincial government stumbles into the arena announcing an enquiry one year hence, even Beryl Plumptre's review board begins to look like a straw to clutch in the inflationary wind.

Ghosts of Valencia Stirring

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — There were ominous signs this past week that a situation paralleling the Spanish civil war of the 1930's might be developing in the Cyprus of 1974.

A left-leaning government, with supporters in much of the communist world, underwent a rebellion by extreme right-wing military men. The rebels gained control of much of the country.

External governments hastened to take sides, threatening to intervene. A regional, and possibly a global, crisis began to develop. Even expeditionary forces like those sent to Spain by the Nazis (to aid Franco) and the communists (to aid the republicans) were not absolutely ruled out in Cyprus.

So the men in pin-striped suits who conferred in the carpeted lounges and meeting rooms of UN headquarters this past week had the lessons of a prolonged and bloody past to sober them in their work.

No Reminder Needed

They did not need the reminder. The crisis was already bad enough. Turkey's threat to invade Cyprus if necessary to prevent enosis (union with Greece) proved all too true. Twice before, in 1964 and 1967, a Turkish invasion force had been assembled but not launched.

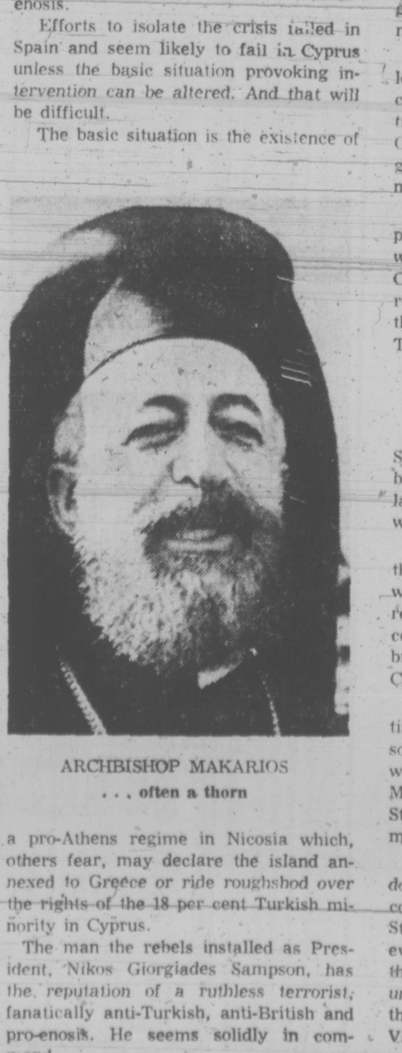
And Turkish invasion could almost inevitably trigger a Greek-Turkish war. Athens would not sit quietly and let pro-Greek leaders, commanding the Greek Cypriot National Guard, be overrun, much less see the island, which Greece covets, face partition.

War between Greece and Turkey, or even some serious brinkmanship, would jolt NATO and weaken its stance in the Eastern Mediterranean, where a critical power struggle between East and West is in progress with the oil of the Middle East as one of the stakes.

As in the 1930s, one of the responses of the international community is an attempt to isolate the fkghting — a "non-intervention committee" (though it will not be called that) to bar external manpower and materiel and to discourage other forms of intervention, including enosis.

Efforts to isolate the crisis failed in Spain and seem likely to fail in Cyprus unless the basic situation provoking intervention can be altered. And that will be difficult.

The basic situation is the existence of a pro-Athens regime in Nicosia which, others fear, may declare the island annexed to Greece or ride roughshod over the rights of the 18 per cent Turkish minority in Cyprus.



ARCHBISHOP MAKARIOS
. . . often a thorn

The man the rebels installed as President, Nikos Giorgiades Sampson, has the reputation of a ruthless terrorist, fanatically anti-Turkish, anti-British and pro-enosis. He seems solidly in command.

Since Athens had much to do with his seizure of power, he may be prepared to do Athens' bidding. And what the Greek government in Athens wants him to do might be subject to external influence.

The United States has not lost all its leverage in Athens, as some other NATO countries have done. Washington's controversial policy of retaining ties to the Greek government despite the latter's gross violations of human rights could now pay off.

The most the United States could expect to extract from Greece, however, would be agreement not to annex Cyprus. Washington could not force the restoration of Archbishop Makarios to the Presidency or assure civil rights for Turkish Cypriots.

Restoration Unsure

It is not even clear that the United States would wish to restore the Archbishop, if Sampson were to take a conciliatory line toward the Turks. Makarios was often a thorn in NATO's hide.

So Sampson seems likely to remain in the Presidential palace, and if he does so without proclaiming a policy of national reconciliation and independence, there could very well be a new "international brigade" of "volunteers" fighting in Cyprus.

The danger is that Britain, dissatisfied with partial concessions by Sampson to deflate international criticism, will join the Soviet Union in working for Makarios' restoration, while the United States, satisfied, will back Athens and its man in Nicosia.

A split between Washington and London, on top of Greek-Turkish strains, could really rock NATO. The United States, Britain, Greece, Turkey, and even the Soviet Union have been trying this past week to avoid a split and act in unison. But it would be a near-miracle if they were to succeed. and the ghosts of Valencia are stirring once again.

BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Case for Mr. Stanfield

The pundits of Canada, who have been generally wrong so far, are now saying that Robert Stanfield must retire from the leadership of the Conservative party because, in the great game of political baseball, he has struck out three times. Since even the pundits cannot be wrong all the time, their latest pronouncement is perhaps correct.

If so, it is nothing to cheer about. For in Mr. Stanfield, I venture to think, the Conservative party had found the only leader since R. B. Bennett who was really qualified to govern the nation.

Governing a nation and winning elections are, of course two very different things. John Diefenbaker, for instance, knew how to win elections. He did not know how to govern. Arthur Meighen was superbly gifted with everything except luck, but he did not know how to win elections. In fact, Robert Borden (who had previously struck out twice) was the single Conservative of this century who could be called a completely successful prime minister, in both election and government.

Two Myths

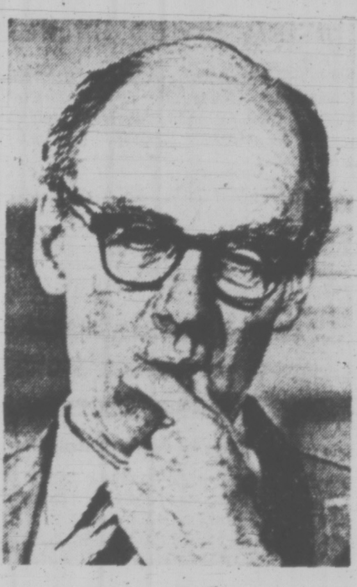
The case of Mr. Stanfield demonstrates again two remarkable laws, or myths, of Canadian politics.

In the first place, no provincial premiers, with the exception of Charles Tupper and Sir John Thompson, and they for a few brief months, ever reached the highest office. A kind of ancient Pharaoh's curse seems to forbid the transference of power from any province to Ottawa. One might suppose that provincial government was the best training ground for national power but it has always been a fatal handicap, real or imagined.

In this reporter's experience six premiers came to Ottawa, two of them Conservative Party leaders and four of them Liberals who hoped to succeed Mackenzie King. On both sides of politics they failed in their ambition, though all were able men. Now Mr. Stanfield, the invulnerable premier of Nova Scotia, has also failed, not in the test of character but in the luck of the game. The ancient curse still holds and already casts its shadow on the ambitious young premiers of Ontario and Alberta.

All this may be mere accident for later reversal but a second Conservative failure, or curse, is of greater importance to the nation.

More than any of his predecessors since John A. Macdonald Mr. Stanfield tried to understand Quebec, to speak its language and defend its rights when he could have won easy votes elsewhere by an anti-French attitude, at the cost of splitting a dual society, perhaps beyond repair. Rejecting this old temptation, he did not win Quebec or federal office, but he gave the nation a service which it will appreciate in the long aftertime and meanwhile he has the final comfort of his own conscience.



ROBERT STANFIELD

In any case, the exclusion of the Conservative party from Quebec, for familiar reasons beginning with Louis Riel's execution, is a grave misfortune to the nation, as doubtless Mr. Trudeau, or any honest Liberal, will agree. For this exclusion (like the Liberal exclusion from the Prairies) disrupts the two-party system, the best system of parliamentary government.

After all the recent Liberal triumphs in Quebec and Ontario, a grim fact remains — the nation, eager for majority government, has been unable to recreate a truly national party, on either side, with broad support in all its five distinct regions.

Apart from that immediate fact, the two-party system cannot be said to work very well in longer terms when one party has held office for 33 of the 39 years and held it, primarily, because it dominates one great region.

You need not be a Conservative to understand such obvious facts. You need not have Mr. Trudeau's intelligence to understand some other facts — among them that his deepest troubles are only now appearing. He has a mandate, power and a certain genius but he has no solutions to Canada's most urgent problems, which will get worse before they get better. He governs a people who, as a whole, are not yet ready for any basic solutions, even if he could offer them, because the solutions, at best, will be highly unpleasant for many Canadians and, at worst, could involve a worldwide economic calamity.

Problems Remain

It is under these conditions, with no basic problem solved, no real national policy defined, only the partisan control of Parliament settled, that the Conservative party must consider its future leadership.

That is its own busjness but to a remote observer, who has known most of our major politicians in the last half-century, Mr. Stanfield seems so much better qualified than any visible successor that it will be difficult if not impossible to replace him adequately, in the short term anyhow.

By the rules of the game he may go and wish to go. If he goes, his party may find, some day, a man who can win elections and govern successfully too, but it will not find a man of higher personal qualities. Actually it has found no credible substitute at all up to now.

This is lucky for a Liberal party, whose luck has been almost incredible, but not for the nation. Besides, the events of the next few years, or months, may well prove that Mr. Stanfield was basically right about the nation's most pressing problems and the government wrong. In the larger game beyond the game of partisan Canadian politics only the first minor cards were played in the election. The big face cards and trumps of the world have yet to fall.

Company Statistics

I have always understood that the front page of a newspaper is reserved for news, while the editorial page is the place for editorial opinions. In Saturday's Times (July 13) you highlighted an item "Barrett Told Half the Story" which is strictly opinion — not news. It is not even accurate according to your own statistics. If your statistics are correct, then Barrett told 93 per cent of the story, which is much more than half.

You quote Barrett as saying that business in B.C. is prospering under the N.D.P. government and giving as his evidence that the rate of incorporation of companies in B.C. during the first six months of 1974 is up 842 over the rate for the same period in 1972. You then point out that he did not mention that the rate of companies coming into B.C. from outside had dropped by 56 in the same period.

If this is true, there is still an over-all gain in the 1974 rate of 786 over the rate in 1973. By these statistics, Mr. Barrett has given us 93 per cent of the story. Surely this 93 per cent is also the most important part. The 7 per cent he omitted has to do with outside companies. Many Canadians feel very strongly that we should be encouraging the development of our own locally owned and locally managed industries.

Aside from the statistics which prove your headline to be very inaccurate, I hardly feel that such material merits front page treatment, or fits in the category of news.—J. Philip Fawcett, 57 Wellington St.

Street Musicians

Although I have never written to a newspaper before, the letter from Thomas A. Caron (musicians) demands a reply.

I agree with Alderman Christie completely in this matter. As Mr. Caron suggests I have stood more than once on Douglas Street to see if I could discern any tune or melody being played. But it was just chording or "strumming." How could anyone "come away . . . feeling happier and more at ease with things . . ?"—Mrs. F. E. Hill, 850 Cook St.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of July 22, 1914

When the city council met in special session this afternoon as a committee of the whole on the Johnson street bridge question an unexpected situation faced the aldermen. This was owing to the request of the B.C. Electric railway to have modifications made in the plans for the bridge in order to widen it to 47 feet, and to provide for passage over the bridge of freight cars. The company's officials also desired to have the bridge made stronger beneath so that heavy cars might be conveyed across it in safety. As far as the mayor was concerned the company had not offered to increase its contribution which from the beginning of negotiations had been placed at $50,000.

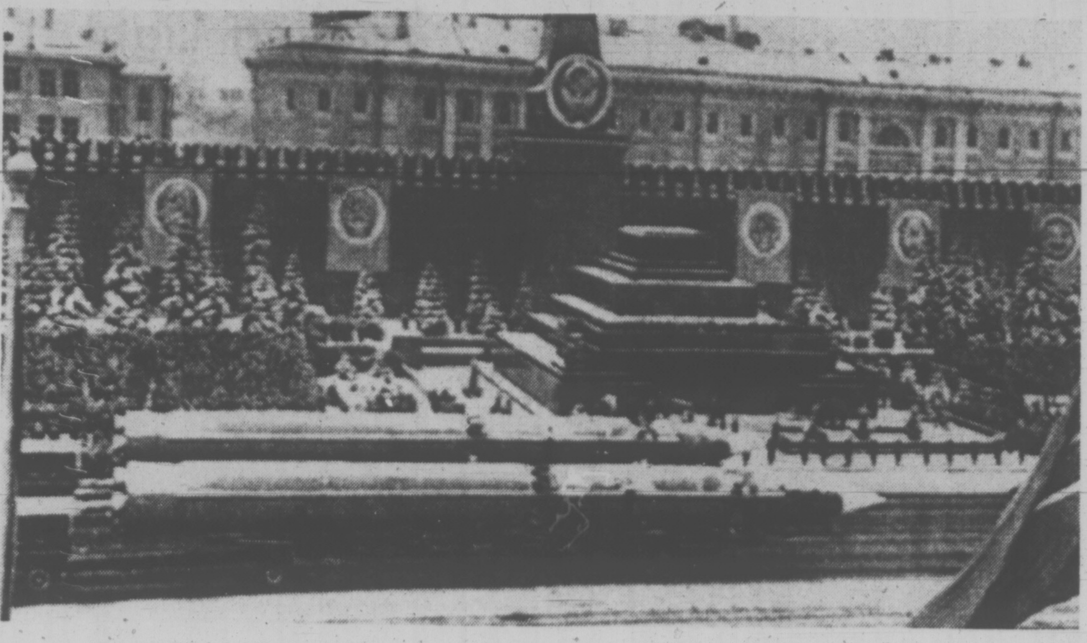
That Old Military-Industrial Complex Still at It

By SIMON HEAD
New Statesman



Soviet ICBMs in Red Square parade . . . the threat is being overplayed

Two months ago Henry Kissinger reiterated President Eisenhower's famous warning about the dangerous powers of the "military industrial complex" in the United States. The complex, Kissinger warned, is still very much alive and is indeed out to destroy the detente with the Soviet Union which he himself has so carefully constructed. The hero of Cambodia and Hanoi-Haiphong may be the last person entitled to talk about the menace of the military-industrial complex, but Kissinger's warning must nonetheless be taken seriously.

The military and their allies are undermining detente, and they are doing so by fuelling the expensive, futile and dangerous nuclear arms race between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. The current U.S. defence budget reveals the hardliners in full cry, clamouring for money to develop newer and more devastating weapons.

Meek Agreement

There is every sign that the Congress, intimidated by the trumped-up Soviet "threat" which the defence establishment conjures up every time its budget is presented, will meekly agree to everything which is requested of it.

The effect of these plans on Russian behavior can be predicted with some confidence: the Russians will conclude, correctly, that the hawks are riding high in Washington, and that they are intent on getting as far ahead in the arms race as they can. The Russians can only respond with a stepped-up arms program of their own.

Both the current deadlock in the negotiations on strategic arms limitation at Geneva (SALT 2) and the failure of the recent Nixon-Brezhnev summit to agree on anything beyond peripheral issues (i.e. an agreement that neither side will build the second ABM site allowed under the SALT 1 agreement, and that neither will test nuclear warheads above a certain megatonnage, but no agreement to limit MIRV deployment and no permanent agreement on how many missiles each side should have) are ominous signs that the new arms race is already under way. Such competition can only hurt detente, but that may be precisely what the military and their allies want.

The constituents of Kissinger's latter-day military-industrial complex have not changed since Eisenhower's time, nor have their objectives. At the heart of the complex lie the great armaments corporations of America: Boeing, Grumman, North American-Rockwell, McDonnell-Douglas — each with its own special relationship with a particular branch of the armed services. Grumman is a Navy corporation, Boeing and North American-Rockwell are Air Force corporations, while McDonnell Douglas caters to both.

There are the leadership of the armed services themselves, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, their acolytes in the Pentagon, and their powerful allies in Congress: Herbert, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, men who share their militaristic world view. In a special category are the latter-day cold warriors whose estimate of Soviet intentions has barely changed since the 1950s and who share the military's obsession with "strength." Senator Jackson is the prima donna among these hardliners.

Before describing how the military and its allies have fermented the arms race in the past, and how they are now striving to ferment it still further in the future, one needs to define an important term which features in any dicussion about nuclear war and the arms race.

Senator Jackson and his allies often warn about the potential "superiority" of the Soviet missiles forces, which will 'imperil' the security of U.S. landbased missiles. The issue of whether the USSR or the U.S. has 'superiority' is at the heart of much debate about arms control, and it is therefore important to understand exactly what 'superiority' means.

No Winners

It does NOT mean that the side which is "superior" has the capability in any sense to "win" a nuclear war. Since anti-ballistic missile systems were strictly limited under the SALT 1 agreements, there is universal agreement that nuclear wars cannot be "won". For example, a first strike by the U.S. against Soviet cities and land-based missiles would still leave Soviet submarine-based missiles untouched. These missiles would then be launched in retaliation against U.S. cities, and in the absence of any U.S. ABM, the cities would be destroyed. Thus both sides would 'lose.'

"Superiority" as defined by Senator Jackson and others refers to something much less drastic; it describes a situation in which the land-based missiles of one side are significantly more vulnerable to a first strike than the land-based missiles of the other; the latter would then have "superiority."

The existence of this "perceived inequality" as it is termed would not tempt the stronger side to attack the weaker; the victim's submarined-based forces would still be beyond reach, and the aggressor would have no ABM protection against them.

But the "perceived inequality" would, it is argued, have an effect at the political and diplomatic level: the stronger side would be endowed with a psychological advantage which would bend the outcome of any negotiations in his favour, and which in the longer run would alter the global balance of power. Enough cold-war paranoia survives in both the Soviet Union and the United States for each to strive hard and long to deny such an advantage to the other. To this extent the Jacksonian notion of "superiority" is of a practical importance.

Throughout the last decade the greatest single threat to the health of the military-industrial complex has been the mediocre performance of the Soviet missile program. How can the introduction of immensely expensive and sophisticated missile systems be justified when the threat which might make them necessary never materialises?

There has been much alarmist talk about the increase in the number of Soviet missiles deployed and the enormous size of the warheads on some of the larger Soviet weapons, but the truth is that these innovations have served only to accumulate a vast megatonnage of useless "overkill" for the Soviets, while the effectiveness of Soviet missiles against U.S. missile targets (the criterion for assessing 'superiority') is only marginally greater now than ten years ago.

This mediocre Russian performance reflects the inferiority of Soviet missile technology vis-a-vis the U.S. The SS-11, which now constitutes the bulk of the land-based Soviet missile force (ICMS's), is acknowledged by the Pentagon to be a relatively inaccurate weapon with no capability against U.S. missile sites (or 'hard targets' as they are called).

Inaccurate

The same is true for the submarine-launched missiles (SLBMs) which the Russians have developed (the SS N-6 and the SS N-8. The much larger SS9 ICBM has some effectiveness against hard targets in virtue of its huge megatonnage alone, but it, too, is an inaccurate missile, and between one quarter and one third of even these monster weapons would probably land too far away from their 'hard' targets to do much damage.

Had the Russians been able to MIRV these missiles i.e. give them multiple independently targeted warheads their effectiveness — against hard targets would have been higher, but between 1963-73 they failed to do this.

Given the inaccuracy of Soviet missiles, the U.S. could for the last ten years have maintained strategic parity with the Russians simply by retaining the forces it already possessed in the early Sixties.

The immense discrepancy between the modest missile force which the U.S. could have deployed, and the immensely powerful, expensive and sophisticated force which it in fact has deployed, is a tribute to the skill with which the military and its allies have been able to frighten the American Congress and people into paying for weapons systems designed to deal with threats which exist only in the imagination of the military planners themselves.

The Minuteman II ICBM has been replaced with the larger Minuteman III, each equipped with three MIRVed warheads. Some of the Polaris submarines have been re-equipped with the more sophisticated Poseidon missile system also MIRVed and the Poseidon-fitted submarines themselves are about to be replaced with a new submarine — the "Trident" — firing missiles with a longer range and a larger warhead.

The B-52 bomber will be replaced at enormous expense with the B-1, a supersonic plane better equipped to penetrate Soviet air defences. By the time these superfluous programs are completed their cost to the U.S. taxpayer will be well over $100 billion.

As a means of whipping up congressional and popular support for these costly and unnecessary schemes; the military and its allies have invented what might be called the "great leap forward" theory of Soviet missile development — the advocates of higher expenditure on strategic forces seize upon some new Soviet missile program, grossly exaggerate its strategic potential, then argue that once it is deployed there would occur a mighty "great leap forward" in Soviet capabilities. To maintain the necessary U.S. superiority, the theory concludes, the U.S. itself should immediately begin development of more powerful strategic weapons.

Chicanery

A perfect example of this intellectual chicanery at work is provided by the reaction of the hard-liners to the Soviet deployment of a primitive ABM in 1964 and its testing, three years later, of the high megatonnage SS 9 ICBM. The first stage in this grand deception was to think up the absolutely "worst case" scenario which might conceivably follow these deployments — no matter how wild and unrealistic the assumptions involved. The second was to talk about this scenario as if it was bound to happen.

Thus it was predicted that the Soviets would very soon MIRV their SS 9s, transforming them into effective counter-force weapons, capable of destroying the bulk of the U.S. land-based ICBMs. It was predicted too that the Soviet ABM system might well develop into a gigantic defensive missile screen which would protect Russian cities against incoming U.S. missiles.

The possession of both these weapons — comprehensive ABM defence, MIRVed SS 9s — would, it was argued, give the Russians something approaching a capability to 'win' a nuclear war: Soviet heavy missiles launched first would destroy most of the U.S. land-based ICBM force; Soviet ABM and air defences would shoot down whatever missiles and bombers the U.S. might send back in retaliation.

Wild Arguments

The Soviets, with their remaining missiles, would then be able to destroy U.S. cities without fear of any further U.S. retaliation. Wild and far-fetched arguments such as these were used to justify the deployment of Minuteman III and Poseidon, and the development of Trident and the B-1.

The actual effect of these deployments by both sides was to widen the existing gap between Soviet and American capabilities; while the Soviet missiles which were newly deployed turned out to be inaccurate and ineffective — the Russians were never able to MIRV their S9s, the ABM was unreliable and was abandoned as part of the SALT 1 agreement — the weapons the U.S. introduced in response were all highly successful and indeed achieved for the U.S. that "great leap" forward which was meant to have benefited the Soviet side: the U.S. successfully MIRVed most of its land- and sea-based missiles, and achieved a high degree of accuracy for the individual warheads; research and development of the B-1 bomber and the Trident submarine was successful and testing of prototypes begins in 1975.

As from mid-1973 therefore the "superiority" which Senator Jackson believes is so important lay overwhelmingly with the United States; with MIRVs on both its Minuteman III and Poseidon missiles the U.S. was already in a position to destroy a high percentage of land-based Soviet ICBMs: while the Russians, without a MIRV on either their land or sea-based missiles, were only slightly better off than in 1964.

The existence of this great discrepancy between U.S. and Soviet capabilities makes it all the more astonishing now that the U.S. military and its allies should now be toying again with the "great leap forward" theory. Yet they are doing so; once more there is talk about dangerous new Russian weapons which, when fully deployed, will turn the entire strategic balance upside down and endow the Soviet Union with Jacksonian "superiority."

By the beginning of the next decade, Schlesinger grimly predicted, the U.S.S.R. will have replaced all of its existing ICBMs with these new types, at an estimated cost of over $40 billion. These missiles, he also predicted, would be as accurate as their American counterparts and, once deployed in large numbers, would give the Russians a very formidable "counter-force capability" against U.S. land missile sites. To provide itself with "bargaining chips" to prevent the Russians from going through with these aggressive plans, or, if the worst came to the worst, to keep up with the Russian advance, Schlesinger warned that the U.S. must now take counter-measures of its own.

Although these projects will cost only $248m. in the fiscal year 1974, a paltry sum by Pentagon standards, their eventual impact on the overall strategic balance will be out of all proportion to their cost. These innovations will improve the accuracy of U.S. missiles to the point where each will have something approaching a 100-percent chance of destroying a Soviet "hard" target. The U.S. may therefore soon reach the point where it can be confident of wiping out virtually the entire land-based Soviet missile force. "Superiority" would have reached its outermost limits.

These counter-measures would be necessary and desirable if there was any reason to believe that Schlesinger's alarmist predictions were well founded. All the evidence suggests that they are not.

Paper Tiger?

All this means that the U.S. position is much more secure than Schlesinger has let on. American power is rooted in deployments which have already taken place or will take place in the near future (Trident and the B-1 bomber). The Soviet power which Schlesinger is worried about does not yet exist and will not exist for at least eight years.

Even then it may turn out to be a paper tiger. In the ongoing SALT 2 negotiations on arms limitation the U.S. therefore already has all the bargaining chips it needs and has no need to acquire new ones in the form of more accurate and deadly missiles.

Family Feud Dogs Picasso Estate

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

His friend and legal counsel, Roland Dumas, says he warned the painter one day that his refusal to make a will would lead to "terrible complications."

Dumas now recalls how Picasso stopped him short with a loud laugh and a wave of his hand.

"Whatever terrible complications you can dream up," Dumas said Picasso told him, "the reality, when it comes, will be infinitely worse."

Picasso lived to the age of 91, driven by a frenzied creativity until the day of his death, April 8, 1973. Several unfinished paintings stand on easels in his studio near Mougins on the French riviera.

His widow, Jacqueline, 47, has become a virtual recluse, Dumas reported. She lives partly in the chateau of Vauvenargues near Aix-en-Provence, where Picasso is buried in the garden, partly in the house at Mougins, Notre Dame de Vie (For Our Lady of Life) where he died. The studio and other rooms habitually used by Picasso have remained locked and untouched since his death.

The house is crammed with most of the 1,300 paintings left by Picasso, many of them dating back to his earliest styles. Armed French gendarmes permanently patrol the grounds.

"The value of these pictures is impossible to estimate," Dumas said. "Nonetheless, because a friendly settlement within the family seems unlikely, we will have to start some day to put an arbitrary value on them one by one, with the help of experts. It will be a monumental task."

Even if Picasso had left a will, the complications would have been enormous. His heirs come from two marriages and two liaisons that produced children.

Paloma Picasso — a daughter by Francoise Gilot.

The inheritance will ultimately be shared in varying proportion by Jacqueline, Paulo who, at 53 is six years older than his stepmother — and the three acknowledged illegitimate children.

For the moment, the French courts have acknowledged the claims of the five to a share in the fortune in pictures that some experts believe will eventually have a theoretical value of several hundred million dollars.

Jacqueine and Paulo made a brief and futile attempt to lay sole claim to the pictures. They broke with Claude and Paloma long before Picasso died. The artist was infuriated by a book written about him by Claude and Paloma's mother, Francois Gilot, now married to Dr. Jonas Salk.

Jacqueline carried on the feud, refusing to allow Claude and Paloma to see their father's body or attend his funeral.

The "terrible complications" that Dumas warned Picasso about are further compounded by Paulo's separate claim to the estate of his mother, Picasso's first wife, Olga, who died in 1955. Picasso instituted divorce proceedings against her in 1935 — a date of crucial importance in the settlement of the estate.

A legal separation was granted in 1941, with equal division of the couple's property. By common agreement, Picasso held the pictures in trust for Paulo. It affects all pictures in the inheritance painted before 1935 probably the most valuable part of the collection. As a result, Paulo has a double claim to the treasure, one share from Picasso and another from Olga.

The law provides that Jacqueline, as the widow, receives one half, while the four children share the other half. But illegitimate children get only half the amount they would have received were they legitimate.

Of the children's portion, each would get one-fourth were they all legitimate. In fact, Maya, Claude and Paloma get only half as much, namely one-eighth.

Thus, of the whole of Picasso's estate, Jacqueline receives one-half, Paulo receives five-sixteenths and Maya, Claude and Paloma get one-sixteenth each.

Paulo was Olga's only heir, so one-half of all the pictures painted up to 1935 go to him and are excluded from the calculation of the other shares.

Before any decision can be taken on how to divide the estate, inheritance taxes must be settled. French law allows the state to collect "in kind" and the tax settlement will undoubtedly enrich French museums by some 2 per cent — by value — of Picasso's pictures.

In Dumas' safe is a hand-written note by Picasso declaring that the Guernica "belongs to the Spanich Republic."

Gen. Francisco Franco, who led the forces that overthrew the Spanish Republic in the 1930s, has ruled Spain ever since. He has set in motion a decreed return to a monarchy after his death.

Also excluded from the manoeuvring is Picasso's collection of paintings by other artists, including all the great names in impressionist and modern painting.

In accordance with a verbal request made by Picasso before he died, the 58 pictures were presented to the French national museum, the Louvre, where they are to be permanently shown as the Picasso Collection. As a gift to the state, the pictures are exempt from inheritance tax.

EARMUFFS that permit normal speech and noise levels to be heard, yet cut out any excessive noise above a present level were introduced recently in London, England. The ear defender muffs have a built-in controlled sound transmission channel comprising a microphone-amplifier-earphone combination, arranged so that they reproduce normal speech intensities but will not pass very high noise levels to the ears. Each ear is supplied via a signal channel that is independent of the other enabling the wearer to determine the direction of sound.

CHICAGO (AP) — Farm commodity futures rallied late on the Board of Trade today after early selling had sent soybeans, corn and soybean oil futures to limit declines.

A strong speculative demand lifted nearby soybean oil options to 100 points above the previous close. Two options had a range of some 200 points.

The rally set in after July options had expired at noon. There appeared to be no particular outside influence at work on the rising prices, but as prices advanced much short covering developed.

Some selling came early on reports of rain in the Midwest on a somewwhat bearish soybeans crush report. The National Corn Growers Association, however, said it had conducted a survey that indicated this year's corn production might be as low as 5.518 billion bushels compared to the government's estimate of 5.950 to 6.350, on the basis of July 1 conditions.

At the close, soybeans were 2 to 8½ cents higher, August 7.52; Chicago wheat 7 lower to 6 higher, September 4.47; Gulf wheat 5 lower, September 4.55b; corn 1 to 6 lower, September 3.27; oats unchanged to 1¾ lower, September 1.70¼.

Money Merely 'Scorekeeper'

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Richardson Securities of Canada's highest paid salesman lives in Charlottetown and to him "money is the way we keep score."

Stockbroker David Hyndman, 33, says: "The stock market is my life. I enjoy it. It's a fascinating game. I look forward to coming into the office every morning."

It may surprise some people to find the company's best salesman in this quiet capital, but Hyndman says: "I have no wish to go to Toronto or Montreal. They are no place to raise kids. The only reason I would go there is for the challenge, nothing else."

"Dave's as knowledgeable as anyone when he talks about potatoes," says Jim McKnight, a Richardson official in Toronto.

A graduate of King's College in Windsor, N.S., and the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, he says he worked "damn hard" when he started five years ago.

It was not unusual for him to work day and night all week.

"I was lucky. Some of my first clients recommended me to their friends."

He has the confidence of some of P.E.I.'s most influential potato growers, a confidence shared by his company.

"They allow me to spend more," he says. "they allow me to call New York and Chicago when I want to. "When I phone a client I have to be able to give him my opinion on whether he should buy or sell. My opinion is formed on the opinion of our research experts, the stock exchange, my clients, and the news and other factors.

"You have to separate the wheat from the chaff."

Although he handles regular stocks, most of Hyndman's business transactions are done on the speculative side, namely potatoes.

"Most of my clients have a speculative urge. They have the money. Farming is the avenue they make money to invest in the market."

Depending on the season, he may handle thousands of dollars a day.

"Spring and fall is when trading is the heaviest. Farmers want to know how the planting and harvesting are. That's when it gets hectic."

The pressure does not bother him. "I have always been interested in financial matters. When I was a kid, I read every book I could get my hands on. There aren't too many I haven't read."

The market "is my niche in life. I couldn't leave it. If I were to retire, I would always be here. I'd go crazy if I weren't."

Inco Profit Up 66%

Sales for the half year totalled $741.8 million against $534.4 million a year earlier.

Inco said major factors for the increase included improved deliveries at higher prices for nickel, copper and rolling mill products.

Second-quarter earnings were $78.1 million or $1.05 a share compared with $56.4 million or 76 cents a share a year earlier.

Three Firms To Seek Oil In Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — Three American oil companies have signed $53.5 million worth of agreements for oil exploration in Egyptian territory. A total of 4,788 square miles will be explored.

The companies, Union Oil, Amoco and Mobil, also agreed to pay a total of $14 million in bonuses to Egypt with signature of the agreement. They also will provide production assistance of $27 million.

Mobil will spend $21½ million over eight years looking for oil in a 903-square-mile area. It will pay $6 million as a signature bonus and $12 million if oil is discovered.

Amcoc received an offshore concession south of Ras Ghareb in the Suez Gulf. The company agreed to invest $2 million in the work over two years, to pay a $3-million signature bonus within 30 days and a $5 million production bonus.

Union Oil of California will explore a 3,846-square-mile concession in the Benas area along the Red Sea coast and spend $30 million over 10 years. The company agreed to pay a $5-million signature bonus and a $10-million production bonus.

Under all three agreements, Egypt will take 80 per cent of the production once oil is found in commercial quantities.

Egyptian Oil Minister Ahmed Hilal said Egypt will give concessions to several more American and European oil companies, after ratification by parliament.

Lumber Market 'Sour'

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

The market for British Columbia lumber has turned sour and there is no hope of improvement before 1975, according to forest industry spokesmen.

Prices have dropped by as much as 25 per cent from the boom market in April and volume of shipments is down.

"Stocks of lumber on hand are very high," a spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel told the Times.

"There are many requests for deferment of shipments in all markets and it is difficult to see any turnaround in overseas markets until well into 1975."

In most cases, B.C. lumber producers agree to requests to defer their shipments when the purchasing nation can show duress in the form of surpluses.

Prices received by the company for western white pine two-by-fours is down 25 per cent since April.

Other producers also report lower prices and requests for deferments of shipments.

Fir two-by-fours are down at least 14 per cent and spruce two-by-fours at $163 per 1,000 board feet, and nine per cent below the $180 price in early June.

MacMillan Bloedel sees a continuing slump in the housing market in the United States resulting from high interest rates and a North American shortage of mortgage funds.

While there are some indications of a downturn in the prime lending rate in the U.S. this might not happen in time to strengthen the market before the normal slump in winter construction begins.

Severe inflation in overseas markets of Japan and western Europe has led to a reduction in house construction in those countries as well.

Housing starts are also down in Canada, although this is a minor factor in the outlook for the B.C. industry which relies heavily on the export market to survive.

The main customers are on the Atlantic coast of the United States. British Columbia has a competitive advantage over producers in Washington and Oregon because under the Jones Act American lumber must be shipped on U.S. freighters when destined for another American port.

B.C. exporters can lease cheaper foreign vessels.

Interior lumber producers are also experiencing a slump because of the decline in the U.S. housing market. Almost all interior lumber designed for export moves into the U.S. by rail.

Ironically when demand and prices were high earlier this year there was a shortage of boxcars.

Now there is a sufficient supply of boxcars — in fact more than are needed in view of the requests for deferment of orders.

Fifth Jump For AMC Auto Prices

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. has announced a $33 average increase in auto and jeep prices — the firm's fifth price increase in the 1974 model year.

The firm cited increasing cost pressures in increasing the United States price of its compact Hornet models $75 to $2,824 for a four-door coupe and $50 to $3,049 for a Sportabout wagon. Jeep truck prices were raised $100 to $3,102 and AMC's Matador was boosted by $50 to $3,199, the firm said.

Increases averaged only one per cent throughout the AMC line because the prices of some models, including the Javelin and subcompact Gremlin were not raised.

New prices take effect Sunday, but orders placed by Saturday night will not be subject to the price increase, AMC said.

AMC officials in Canada were not immediately available to say whether the price increases apply in Canada.

AMC boosted prices in September, December, March and May previously. The increases for the model year now total an average $349 a vehicle in the U.S.

Utilities Earnings Up

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian Utilities Ltd. has reported net earnings of $11,185,000 or 97 cents a share for the first half of 1974, up three per cent from the same periods in 1973.

An additional four cents a share, or $418,000, was reported as non-recurring gain from the sale of various utility distribution facilities.

Natural gas revenues were $49,136,000, an increase of 11 per cent from the first half of 1973. Increased growth was attributed to 17,000 new customers and greater consumption.

Electric revenues increased by 15 per cent to $22,466,000 in the first half of 1974.

Income Increases

WINNIPEG (CP) — Versatile Manufacturing Ltd. of Winnipeg reported an unaudited after-tax income of $2,564,804 or 88 cents a share for the six-month period ended April 30, compared with $1,502,919 or 52 cents a share for the same period last year.

Versatile is a publicly-owned company with shares traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Gibraltar Earnings Show Drop

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gibraltar Mines Ltd. reported net earnings for the six-month period ended June 30, 1974 of $11,350,000 or $1 per share, down from the same period in 1973 when net earnings were $20,959,000 or $1.84 per share.

Earnings were lower primarily due to provision for provincial royalties, reduced shipments and higher operating costs, the company said Friday. Calculation of the royalty charge was revised as a result of amendment and further clarification of the Mineral Royalties Act.

Only one shipment of copper concentrate was made during the quarter and inventory increased to 30,500 tons. The company expects shipments in the third quarter to reduce inventories to normal levels.

Production was reduced by a wildcat strike which halted normal operations at the mine for 12 days.

Prices are now returning to normal in response to slower industrial activity and levelling consumption the company said.

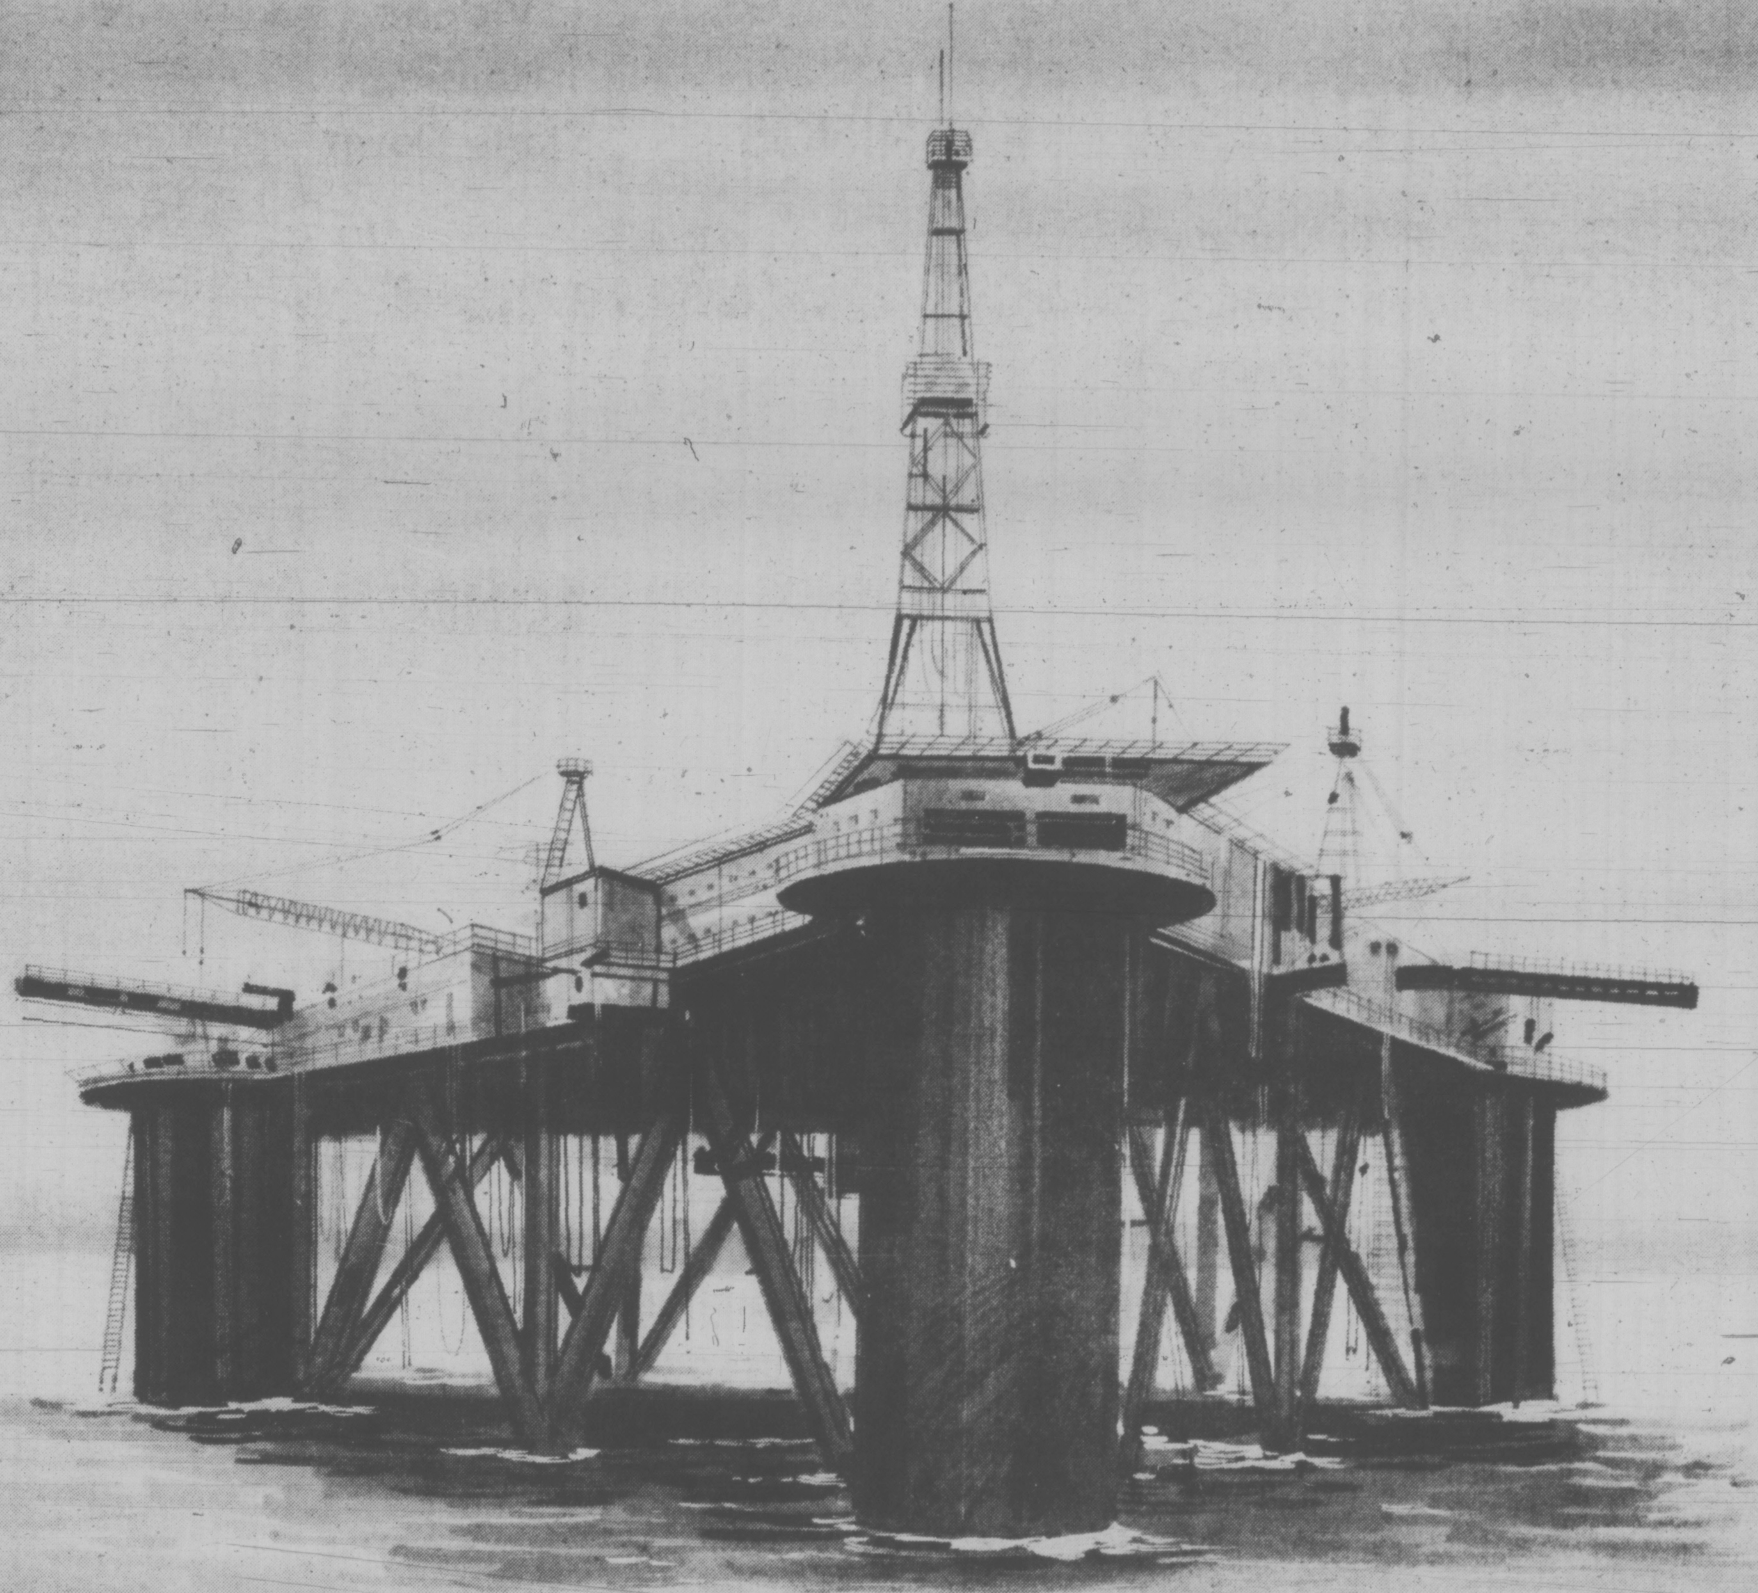
Canada is now facing an era of 'tough' oil.



So far as finding crude oil is concerned, the 'good old days' are over. Today most of our undeveloped Canadian oil reserves are in remote areas of the Arctic, locked in the Athabaska tar sands, or are far out under the sea off our coastlines, requiring multimillion dollar costs to develop. That's why we say that Canada is now into the era of 'tough' oil. Tough to find, expensive to get.

The bright side to this picture is the fact that Canada does have sufficient potential oil reserves to see us through for many years to come. The trick is to get to it and get it out. And that takes time, technology and money. By way of example, the petroleum industry has already spent more than four billion dollars in the last 10 years in the search for oil reserves. The result of this search is that knowledgeable estimates can be made. Fortunately, these indicate that we have in Canada potential oil reserves on a scale comparable to those of Arabia!

But it is going to take a great deal of money to get at these new reserves, and so keep Canada self-sufficient in oil – 60 billion dollars in the next 10 years!

Some from Profits

Some of the money that is needed must come from earned profits of the oil companies. In spite of the erroneous statements that people have made about oil industry profits being "too high", this is not so. Last year the average return on capital employed by the four largest integrated oil companies in Canada amounted to only 12.2%! Considering the investment needs of our industry – and comparing with the level of return one can get from investments in less risky industries and even from no-risk government bonds – this average return is not "excessive" – or even sufficient.

Our Company on average realizes net earnings of not much more than one cent a gallon on all the petroleum products we sell.

It does seem to us that a cent a gallon is a reasonable amount for manufacturing the many different petroleum products required, and making them conveniently available to our customers. We hope you agree.

It is a fact that profits have to be made or a company cannot stay in business. Companies that only make losses are not around long. The best "job insurance" our employees – and their families – have, is the knowledge that they work for a company that makes a profit. You need profitable companies to serve you and to create employment.

Most, from new investment!

Canada's oil industry needs many new investors if we are to continue to spend vast sums exploring for oil in hard-to-reach places, and developing both the technology to get at it and the equipment to get it out to where it is needed.

What is required is a fair return on money invested and an opportunity for growth in relation to the amount of risk. So, it is very important to Canadians that governmental policies encourage massive investment of risk capital.

Tough or not – it CAN be done!

All this is not going to be easy, but with the right incentives and public policies that recognize the size and difficulties of the job ahead, the oil industry can continue to meet Canada's future energy needs. Even though, like we said, we are now in an era of 'tough' oil.

Mediator Set In Mill Dispute

Appointment of a labor department mediation officer today has stalled the threat of a strike by 96 stationary engineers at nine B.C. mills including Victoria Plywood Ltd.

William Kadey, business manager for Local 882 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said he received notice of the appointment of mediator Ken Albertini by mail this morning.

"It looks like we can't do anything for a while," he said.

Strikes and lockouts are prohibited during the term of a mediation officer's appointment. Albertini's appointment applies to Vancouver Island as well as mainland mills where the engineers union holds bargaining rights, said Kadey.

Meanwhile, negotiators for southern interior members of the International Woodworkers of America said on the weekend that employers representatives have rejected proposals for agreement worked out by provincial labor department officials.

Sonny Alexandre, president of the IWA Kamloops local, and Wyman Trineer, spokesman for the negotiating committee, said the union has set a strike deadline of noon Wednesday for about 10,000 members.

FUN FOR SOME BUT OTHERS...

MUNCHO LAKE, — Two young, stranded campers were flown off the flood-mangled Alaska Highway Sunday to Fort Nelson, for medical treatment.

The two girls, both about 8, were flown out by a twin-engine Navajo aircraft, one of a number of aircraft which had brought food to people camped along the highway. One of the girls was believed suffering from appendicitis and the other had kidney problems.

But Gunter Tauers, owner of a lodge at this community 100 miles south of the B.C.-Yukon border, said Sunday other stranded travellers "are having a ball."

"The weather is good, people are fishing and sunbathing, some are coming in with sunburns," he said.

"We've got no beer left, but there's still lots of rye."

Murray Stevens, administrator for the Prince George zone provincial emergency measures program, said Sunday crews were working 24 hours a day to repair the Muncho Lake-Fort Nelson stretch of the highway.

He said about 130 workers from the federal department of public works and from Fort Nelson construction companies had repaired about 150 miles of damaged road, with about 20 miles left to be done.

In Fort Nelson, where roadblocks are halting all northbound traffic, tourists have swelled the normal area population of about 3,500 by nearly 1,000.

Dailly Likes Proposal For Council

Education Minister Eileen Dailly thinks the National Council of Education Ministers is a good idea, despite criticism from the retiring president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation.

Jim Killeen of Vancouver, speaking at the federation's annual meeting in Calgary last week, said the council is dangerous and outrageous because it meets in private and is collectively accountable to no electorate.

Dailly said she does not find Killeen's criticism valid because the council is not basically a decision-making body. She said the council primarily is a vehicle by which the ministers can share information.

No Merger At Duncan

DUNCAN — Eagle Heights-Koksilah residents voted 187 to 75 against merging with Duncan Saturday, scuttling amalgamation for the third time.

Over-all 301 residents in the two areas voted for the merger compared to 292 voting against, missing the mandatory majority of 50 votes needed.

In another vote held Saturday, Duncan residents backed a $385,000 renovation bylaw for the rebuilding of the town's old post office into a city hall. The bylaw was backed by 269, while only 45 voted against.

Local Rider Among Top

Sugar Output Up; Prices in Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — World sugar production is climbing again but United States government officials are cautious about predicting an easing in high prices which have reduced sugar consumption in some countries, including Canada.

Total world output is estimated at a record 83.7 million metric tons in 1974-75, up from last season's 81.2 million, the U.S. agriculture department says in a report to be published today. Increases are expected in most of the sugar-producing countries.

The most optimistic sign was that new production estimates will surpass expected needs by 2.2 million tons. In 1973-74, when prices soared, production exceeded demand by only 1.7 million tons, the report showed.

Officials put estimated 1974-world sugar consumption at 81.5 million tons, compared with 79.5 million last season.

One official said the supply still will be relatively tight despite the indicated buildup in world stocks. Thus he said, it would be difficult to predict sugar prices on the basis of the new estimates.

Ironworkers Second Last To Settle

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ironworkers in B.C. and the Yukon voted to accept a $2.90-an-hour increase over two years in a new contract with the Construction Labor Relations Association.

Local 98 president Pat Paterson said in an interview Sunday that he was particularly pleased with the $1.10 increase in the first part of the package, retroactive to May 1, the date the old contract between the association and the union's 1,400 members expired. Base rate under the old contract was $7.27 an hour.

Paterson said the contract, which the workers approved by 60 per cent, also has better fringe benefits, including an increase in mileage rates.

He said this increase was important because many ironworkers drive extensively throughout B.C. and the Yukon to get to their jobs.

Ordinary foremen will receive 25 cents more than the first minimum increase, said Paterson.

The union, the International Association of Bridge, Structural Ornamental and reinforcement Ironworkers, did not go on strike when other construction unions left their jobs May 1.

The 800 members of Local 359 of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers are the only construction union members who haven't yet signed a new contract with CLRA.

POT ARRESTS COSTLY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite wide assumptions that police agencies have been easing up on pot users, almost 70 per cent of all drug arrests last year in the U.S. were for marijuana, according to previously-unpublished FBI figures.

The cost of those arrests in "wrecked lives" is "staggering," says the head of a group fighting for decriminalization of pot.

Keith Stroup, director of the National Reform Organization, estimated that the cost of the arrests in terms of law enforcement resources was between $250 million and $600 million.

6 Seattle Women Vanish

SEATTLE (UPI) — Police are puzzled over six young women who disappeared without a trace in separate incidents.

They all vanished since January without taking luggage or possessions and the missing cases have now been given to homicide inspectors.

To aid the investigation, police agencies across the nation were contacted to see if they have encountered similar cases.

A missing persons unit sergeant in Phoenix, Ariz., responded that it appeared a "real nut" was loose in the Seattle area.

The latest disappearance occurred July 14 when Janie Ott, 23, and Denise Naslund, 18, who did not know each other, vanished during a Sunday outing at Lake Sammamish State Park, just east of Seattle.

Mrs. Ott was seen talking to a man wearing a cast on his arm. A witness said she heard her agree to help him load his sailboat and left on a 10-speed bike. She was never seen again.

Miss Naslund left her boyfriend and another couple to go to a restroom and never returned.

Four other young women described as "serious and responsible" have vanished without any motive, police said.

LIGHTS ON FOR BIKES

OLYMPIA (AP) — The state patrol hopes a new law going into effect next Wednesday will make motorcycles and motor scooters easier to see.

The law required the two-wheeled vehicles to have headlights and tail lights on even in daylight and is designed to make the vehicles more visible during daylight hours, to reduce right-of-way crashes.

Patrol spokesmen said other states with lights-on laws for motorcycles have had a reduction in motorcycle collisions and deaths.

WARSAW (UPI) — Leonid Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party says he is dissapointed with the results of last month's summit with President Nixon in Moscow.

"I can tell you that we wanted more and were prepared for more," Brezhnev said Sunday in a speech to the Polish parliament marking the 30th anniversary of the Communist regime in Warsaw.

Robbed Of $20,000

Cleaning woman Ella Patzold, 60, manages to smile bravely in Cleveland despite the loss of $20,000-$30,000 in cash. She told police she was carrying the money—her life savings—in a shopping bag when four women, one holding a gun, held her up. Mrs. Patzold said she didn't keep the money in a bank because she didn't want to pay taxes on the interest it would draw.

Island for a Beauty Queen

MANILA — Amparo Munoz of Spain today began her year's reign as Miss Universe, a title that brought her $10,000 cash, a $10,000 personal appearance contract and the use of a resort island for a year.

The 20-year-old movie actress from Malaga, Spain, who measures 33-22-33, said one of the first things she did after besting 64 other contestants for the crown Sunday was to telephone her boyfriend, actor Maximo Gonzalez Malverde.

"He said he was very happy for me but sorry for himself since he will now see less of me," the brown-eyed beauty said.

Propped up in bed in her four-room hotel suite and wearing a blue silk robe and her Miss Universe Crown, Miss Munoz was served a seven-course breakfast that included caviar, smoked Canadian salmon, tropical fruit and champagne.

STANDOFF, Alta. — Striped to the waist and painted colors of the Blood Indians Premier Lougheed smoked the peace pipe Saturday with band leaders who welcomed him as honorary chief Crop Eared Wolf.

In the colorful ceremony first performed in 1919 Lougheed assumed the name of the Blood Indian who led the band from 1900-1913. He was the grandfather of the current band chief, Jim Shot Botah On Sides.

MOSCOW — The Soyuz-14 cosmonauts returned in triumph Sunday to Zvyozdni Gorodok (Star City), the space training centre 20 miles east of Moscow, the Tas news agency said.

Col. Pavel Popovich and Col. Yuri Artyukhin, both 44, spent nearly 16 days in space, most of the time aboard a Salyut-3 orbiting laboratory. They returned to earth in Central Asia Friday.

PRINCETON, N.J. — Vice-President Gerald Ford has emerged as the leader among Republicans and independents for the 1976 Republican party's presidential nomination, the latest Gallup Poll says.

The survey indicates that Ford's appeal has grown since earlier this year, when he and other prominent Republicans were in close contention for the lead.

Live Burials For Children

WASHINGTON (WP) — Senate investigators have discovered the defence department is paying for treatment of emotionally disturbed children of military personnel that includes beatings, burying children in shallow graves and injecting them with their own urine.

At one institute, the University Centre in Ann Arbor, Mich., the investigators found widespread use of drugs and punishments that include locking boys in a basement solitary confinement room called "The Dungeon" for extended periods.

At another institution, the Green Valley School in Orange City, Fla., the investigators found boys had been forced to dig shallow graves for themselves and then spend the day and night in them as punishment.

Rev. George von Hisheimer, superintendent of Green Valley, in a telephone interview defended the practice of burying boys as "symbolic punishment" because "their souls are dead." The punishment was picked in a democratic way by the other students, he said.

"I conducted a mock funeral for four of them at once last August," said von Hisheimer, a lay minister of the Brethren Church.

"I'm a minister. I think it is a beautiful symbolic thing for the kids to go through. It's a way of forcing them to look at themselves."

The Senate permanent investigation subcommittee will open hearings Tuesday on what chairman Henry Jackson (Dem.—Wash.) called "horrible and outrageous abuses of children."

At least half of the patients in both the University Centre, which is not connected with the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, and the Green Valley School, were covered by the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services which is run by the defence department.

The Michigan centre has about 30 patients, the Florida institution about 75.

Although the investigation focussed on the two schools, Jackson said, "We are not finding isolated incidents but a pattern that has been going on for years.

"The department of defence must be held accountable if it has failed to exercise control over a program administered by it and funded by millions of federal dollars."

Thoughts on Adventure Or Why I Ain't A-Going

Comes a time in the life of every man, I suppose, when the call to adventure, once a trumpet blast, becomes so muted that it's hard to hear even with an ear-trumpet.

That time seems to have come to me. To tell you the truth I don't know whether to weep or laugh.

The adventure in my life at this red hot moment is limited to painting the kitchen ceiling in something called Light Caprice Yellow which strikes me as pretty daring. But it's been a week when I've been constantly reminded of what a clod I've become.

For one thing the Haighs — Ernest and Val — are back from their five-year circumnavigation of the globe in their 45-foot sailing trimaran, Tryste. They visited no less than 21 different countries. We've been hearing all sorts of exotic stories about their experiences.

Time was when such yarns would get the adrenalin pumping rather furiously in my veins. Now I just feel a curious lassitude. Indeed, I had just spent an evening hearing about the Haigh's adventures — and had progressed to the kitchen walls (Ramona Green) — when the mailman brought me the missive that causes today's true confession.

The letter was from my old friend, Mark Gibson, the Montreal writer and photographer, an inveterate searcher of life's thrills, who, it seems, has himself purchased a sailing boat and plans to venture under canvas down the St. Lawrence, thence to the Panama Canal and then north to Vancouver.

"I realize that you are probably getting somewhat long in the tooth," he writes (we are, in fact, exactly the same age), "but if you want to sign on as cook and first mate the position is open. Break those chains, man. Time is running out on both of us."

I gave it some thought, all of 45 seconds, but down deep I knew I wouldn't be going and, what's more, that I didn't really want to go all that much. Not so long ago I'd have idealized it all quite madly, pictured the glinting seas and the warm sun and swimming in the blue lagoon at Acapulco, but now I was just thinking only of hidden reefs and hungry sharks and sudden hurricanes. I did not say it in my declining letter to Mark, but clearly the time has come to hang up your dreams when reality intrudes on fancy.

True adventurers, I suppose, are more apt to be born than made. I've chronicled the stories of a good many of them. Almost always they've turned out to be men (or, occasionally, women) who were clearly fated for lives of excitement and fierce challenge, just as some men are fated to paint kitchens.

The appetite, itself, is there with most of us. I daresay if you could gaze with X-ray eyes into the skulls of any bus-load of stony-faced commuters going into the city each morning, those apparently most dutiful and dull of the world's male species, you'd find them full of fantasies. The deeper a man gets into a rut the more he's apt to reflect on what life might be like out of it.

There have been, of course, instances when this imagery was powerful enough to be translated into action. I remember an old police court reporter named Dennis Clarke who dreamed of soft seas and soft maidens in Tahiti and astonished us all by actually going there, though I've heard that, like Gauguin, he died a rather horrible death soon afterwards. But usually that lust for adventure remains permanently bottled and, like champagne of great age, eventually goes sour.

Even when it is attempted it will fail miserably if the person is not truly of the adventurous breed, like the Haighs.

The saddest misfit I ever met was a Torontonian in the Mexican resort of Mazatlan who'd rather courageously acted on the cerebral whimsy that "going native" would be the way to a carefree life. He was sick. He hated the dirt that was part of the price of his beach-comber's existence. He was purposeless and plagued by the guilt of it. In short, he couldn't take the adventure when it became the truth.

Strikes me, too, that those who seek challenge are very often on an ego trip, that many of the people you see standing on the summit of the highest peaks or rafting the worst rapids are there mainly to say, "Wow! Look at me!" I strongly suspect, looking back on my own adventures, that that was the real motivation. If it was that may explain why it's now so easy to give it up.

It does me no good to make the confession, but there it is. I must find my consolation in the fact that any man who would combine Light Caprice Yellow with Ramona Green is living just a little bit dangerously.

Sunday Was One Of Those Days...

Sunday was no ordinary day for K. C. Clarke, 860 Rockheights.

Vandals stole $19 from his office and fire did its best to take the rest.

Clarke was called to office at 497 Garbally about 8 a.m. by police who reported that vandals had broken a door window, gained entry to the office and stolen $19.

He swallowed that piece of luck, repaired the door with a piece of plywood and left, only to be called back 20 minutes later when fire broke out in the office causing $5,000 damage.

Fire department spokesmen said the blaze started in a carton at the front door. The cause is still under investigation.

Later Sunday a blaze at Seaforth near Robert broke out at a demolition site.

Cause of that fire hasn't yet been determined, but deputy Victoria fire chief Carl Coates reports there was no damage.

Playing the Art Market Pays Big Dividends

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

There's a story about a Vancouver man who phoned an art gallery and bought three Toni Onley paintings at $600 apiece, sight unseen.

When they were delivered to his home he put them in his safe and locked it.

Today, about a year later, each painting by the B.C. artist is worth $750.

The story may be apocryphal but it says something about the state of the art business in B.C. today.

There's a lot of money in it.

British Columbia's artistic geniuses are not starving in attics selling their paintings for a few dollars to pay the grocery bill.

If they're good, and sometimes even if they're not, today's artists see their works rise in price every year, at rates that far outstrip the national inflation rate.

Paul Wong, a Vancouver art dealer in contemporary art, states flatly that the painting of any artist he represents will be worth 20 per cent more in a year, and could more than double in value.

Art is a safer investment than the stock market these days, Wong said in an interview.

Any painting his gallery sells can easily be resold by the buyer, never at a loss and almost always for a profit, he said.

Wong tells of selling a painting by Group of Seven painter Lauren Harris for $300 in 1958. Today, he said, that painting would be worth a minimum of $50,000.

Illyas Pagonis, Art Gallery of Greater Victoria curator, said he ordered some prints by American artist Andy Warhol last year at $3,000 each.

By the time the prints arrived, two months later, they were worth $7,000, he said.

A Victoria family this spring sold an early Emily Carr painting at an auction for $27,000. While she lived Carr herself never made that kind of money, and had to support herself by running a boarding house.

The situation is largely a matter of demand far exceeding supply.

A resurgence in interest in Canadian culture has brought Canadian art works in great demand by the public. At the same time, both provincial and federal governments compete strongly in the market for paintings.

Add to that galleries and corporations building up art collections.

Pagonis said galleries today buy everything, just in case their artistic judgment should err and they miss buying a great new artist.

But the artists in demand can't step up their production to meet the demand, unless they become blatantly commercialized. A good artist can't really do more than 100 paintings a year, said Wong.

One international artist that success has affected is Salvador Dali, according to local art dealer Brian Klassen.

"A lot of his things are getting very commercial," Klassen said. He said he considers paintings by local artists like Bruce Crawford a better investment than a Dali lithograph, which the famous artist now turns out by the hundreds.

The thing that really makes art prices jump is the death of the artist, Wong said. That doubles the value of all his works in no time.

A painting by Jack Shadbolt, at 65 B.C.'s best-known living artist, today sells for $5,000, which Wong considers amazingly low for a man of Shadbolt's stature. The reason — he's still alive and painting.

Of course Shadbolt's paintings have doubled in price in about the last year, Wong said.

Another area that is a surebet investment if you know what to buy is antiques.

Local antique dealer Peter Cotton recently bought back for $400 a chair he had sold a man for $200 several years ago.

Cotton said he knows people who have bought antiques strictly as an investment, but said most who buy them like them so much they can never bear to sell them again.

"Right now early clocks are being very sought after," he said. This pushes up the prices, and Cotton has old clocks on sale for close to $700.

Quest Gets Boat

Former Sooke teacher Tom Dykes will make his third attempt to send a boatload of students on a field trip along the B.C. coast in September.

And this time, he swears, nothing but the boat sinking or a world-wide depression will stop him.

Dykes heads Project Quest, a non-profit society that twice has tried, and failed, to organize eight-day cruises along the coastline to Alaska for high school students.

This time, he said he's got the money and the boat—and nothing to stop him. The boat is the Edgewater Fortune from New Westminster.

The 11-day trip is scheduled to start Sept. 15, with 40 high school students from Saanich school district and Eugene, Oregon, on board.

Ten faculty members, including teachers from both districts, people from the University of Victoria, Provincial Museum, University of Oregon and other places are also going.

They include a geographer, biologist, historian, anthropologist and artists who will make the trip an interdisciplinary experience.

Students will learn about marine life, see different resource industries along the way, and study communities as large as Vancouver and as small as Bella Bella.

On the boat they'll help prepare meals and learn something about seamanship by watching and helping out the crew.

Eric Olds, a Eugene environmental studies teacher, is organizing the Oregon students, who have already started corresponding with Saanich students involved in the excursion.

Each student pays $375 for the trip.

The trip will be filmed as a record for other trips.

Dykes said he can "sink a bloody battleship" with the letters he's received praising the idea of the cruise, but could find no organization willing to help support the first one.

The two previous attempts, one in May and the first the previous spring, were to charter the Princess Patricia and take 300 students at a time.

Project Quest has been given use of an empty store in the Mayfair Shopping Centre by Mayfair owners and Dykes has set up an information display about the cruise for the public.

CRUSHED CANS — 15 tons of them — are loaded into rail car at regional recycling depot in Saanich by Tracy Yeend, 14. They will travel by barge to Seattle where they will fetch about $30 a ton, money used to help finance the recycling program. Regional depots collect about 70 tons a year. Cans, cleaned, stripped of labels and flattened, can be brought to depot at Borden and McKenzie Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Irving Strickland photo.)

BULLDOZER HITS MAN

A 48-year-old construction worker is in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital after he was struck by a bulldozer this morning at a Donald Street construction site in Saanich.

Police report Rennie Scott, 1334 Pembroke, was shovelling earth when a rock got stuck in the tread of a nearby bulldozer, throwing it off course and against Scott.

The bulldozer, owned by Maddison Paving, 727 Johnson, threw Scott against the wall of an adjacent building at 3155 Donald.

Severance Pay, But Jobs Kept

About 360 employees at the federal Veterans' Hospital will receive severance pay — a week's salary for each full year of service — when ownership of the hospital is transferred to the province next month.

But the employees, while technically being laid off, won't lose any work because they are being transferred along with the hospital to provincial jurisdiction. Many will be earning higher provincial rates of pay for doing the same work.

They would have received the severance pay sooner or later in any event, he said, because it is payable at retirement.

The contract provides severance pay of two week's salary for the first year and a week's pay for each additional full year in the event of layoff or at retirement.

Employees look upon the severance pay feature of their contracts as one of the accumulating benefits they earn over years of service, he said.

If they quit, the contract calls for a half-week's salary in severance pay for each full year of service.

The employees at Veterans are being technically laid off because there is no other machinery to complete this sort of move, the spokesman said.

The severance pay feature is common to all jobs in the federal civil service and employees at Veterans are coming under contracts that do not currently have such a benefit, he added.

The same severance pay situation prevails at Shaughnessy Hospital in Vancouver, where the transfer from federal to provincial jurisdiction takes place in a week.

Federal veterans' hospitals across Canada are in the process of being turned over to the provinces or already have been in recent years.

Cabinet Okays Spectrum

Approval was granted by cabinet order today for construction of Spectrum Community Secondary School for $3.7 million, to be repaid within the next 25 years by Greater Victoria School District.

The cabinet order sanctions borrowing of $3 million for the building, $112,000 for the site, $205,000 for equipment and $335,500 for fees and contingencies.

The cabinet also approved a change in expenditures for Saanich School District in its 1974 building program. The amount of spending for North Saanich Elementary-Junior School was increased from $240,000 to $256,000 and for Beaver Lake Elementary School, spending is reduced to $8,300 from $28,300.

The total outlay remains the same at $421,600 and eliminates work at Bradley Dyne Elementary and the school board offices.

Sex Killings Don't Dim Lure of the Open Road

Young people who line the roads leading out of and into Victoria, smiles on and thumbs out, are not about to give up their "cheap, easy and interesting" way of travel because of warnings that it may be dangerous.

Hitch-hikers interviewed in Victoria agreed that Attorney-General Alex Macdonald's warning was something to consider, but all said they would not give up hitching.

Macdonald said last week he is in favor of an education program to warn the public of the dangers. His warning came as a result of the recent sex slayings of seven young B.C. women along provincial highways. Some of the women had been hitch-hiking.

"I think it's kind of like locking up everything you own — if you're always going to be paranoid about things like this, then you're really not going to have much of a life," said Lisa McMinning, 18, of Regina.

Lisa and a friend, Janice Orley, 17, also of Regina, were standing thumbs out, at the entrance to the Trans-Canada Highway Friday afternoon. On their way to Long Beach after a one-day stay in Victoria, they had both heard about the murders and Macdonald's warning.

"We heard a lot of people talking about it in a hostel we stayed at in Vancouver, but it didn't seem to really bother anyone and it doesn't really bother me," McMinning said.

Both girls said they had had occasional invitations out for dinner or a drink from men who had picked them up," but most people are really friendly and they stop for you because they probably hitched themselves sometime," Orley said.

"I guess I hitch because it's cheap and you get to know an area better and meet more people," she said.

Mary Stanley, 22, of Vernon and a student at University of B.C., and Jack McIintock, 24, of Vancouver, also a UBC student, were on their way back to Vancouver after staying with friends in Victoria.

Neither had heard about the murders or the warning, but both said they wouldn't give up hitching.

"I haven't really heard anything about this thing, but why should only one person who's doing these things all of a sudden make everybody think they're going to get killed," Stanley said.

She admitted it was easier to get rides when she was hitching by herself or with another girl, but said nothing "really bad" had ever happened to her.

"Sure I've had some guys say some stupid things to me, but if you're not expecting that to happen at least once, then you shouldn't be hitching.

"My parents will be really worried when they hear about these murders, but sure, I'll keep on hitching. "It's the only way to go."

She said her main reason for travelling by thumb was the "simplest in the world — I get bus sick."

Ferguson Leads Reps on B.C. Golf Team

VANCOUVER — Victoria City amateur champion Cec Ferguson has wrapped up his first appearance on a British Columbia Willingdon Cup golf team.

The 24-year-old Ferguson, topping all qualifiers in six trial rounds, was named to the interprovincial team Sunday along with three Vancouver golfers — Bob Mitchell, Jim Nelford and veteran Johnny Russell. Willingdon Cup matches are Aug. 19 and 20 at Winnipeg Niakawa.

At the same time, the B.C. Golf Association named Nanaimo's Sandy Harper and three Vancouver players to the junior team. Harper, the provincial junior champ, will have Gordon Harder, Joe Limoli and Kelly Murray as his teammates for the national junior team matches to be played at London, Ont., next month.

Brad MacLeod of Victoria's Uplands club was named the alternate for the junior team, to be captained by Ben Parsons of Vancouver.

MacLeod and city junior titleholder Jim Rutledge were named to a four-man junior "B" team scheduled to compete in an annual B.C.-Alberta series at Calgary July 30-Aug. 1. The 14-year-old Rutledge, however, is expected to pass up the Calgary trip because the dates conflict with his entry into the Junior World Championships at San Diego.

Ferguson's selection was all but sealed Saturday when the husky Gorge Vale belter fired a one-under-par 71 at Seymour. He was the only player to break par Saturday.

He scored a three-over 75 at Capilano Sunday and wound up with a six-round total of 436, two strokes better than Russell.

The four rounds in the B.C. Amateur, where Ferguson finished as runner-up to Mitchell, and the two weekend rounds determined selection.

Six strokes ahead of the field after five rounds, Ferguson's "commercial 75" allowed the veteran Russell to move into the spotlight on Sunday. The Point Grey ace was well off the pace after the B.C. tournament but came through with two excellent rounds while other contenders faltered at the weekend.

Russell fired a 72 Saturday and a three-under-par 69 Sunday to win the 36-hole Invitational series with a 141 total. That put Russell into overall second place.

Mitchell had a disappointing 80 Saturday and a 75 Sunday but, thanks to his three-stroke victory over Ferguson in the provincial test, took third place with a 442 total, a whopping five strokes ahead of Nelford.

Last year's B.C. junior champ, Nelford scored a final-round 73 to beat out Steve Berry of Vancouver for the fourth berth. Berry was named the team alternate.

Also in golf, Stuart Holroyd defeated Brad Palmgren on the first extra playoff hole to win the Gorge Vale junior title Saturday . . . The two 17-year-olds wound up with 79s, one stroke better than Ed Beauchemin . . . Randy Deboiee took low net honors on a count-back after tying Don Marshall's net 65 . . . Veteran John Johnston of Vancouver's Marine Drive fired a two-over-par 74 Saturday to win the 54-hole Penticton Open with a 222 total . . . He finished two strokes ahead of Rusty Goepel of Vancouver Shaughnessy, and three ahead of Penticton's Ron Stone . . . Laurie Kerr of Royal Colwood wound up with a 227 and in a four-way tie for fourth place.

'Straight' Role Works for Moe

CALGARY (CP) — Sticking to the basics of the game, hitting the ball down the middle, veteran Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont. shot a closing round 68 Sunday to win the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship by two strokes over defending champion Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont.

"All you have to do is keep it straight, keep it straight," said Norman. "That's what I do."

He won the $6,000 first prize money in the $30,000 event.

Norman, playing with clubs he said are not good enough for the Canadian Open later this week at Mississauga Ont., finished at 271 for 72 holes, 13 under par over the tightly treed par-71 Willow Park course where he won the CPGA title in 1966.

Norman's 68 was his second in as many days. He led Panasiuk by one shot going into the final round.

Panasiuk, CPGA champion for the last two years, had his last chance to win on the 17th, but knocked a long putt about 10 feet past the hole and missed his putt coming back. Norman, in the threesome behind Panasiuk, used a three-iron to kock his second shot through a trap to the fringe.

He laid his approach close and popped it in. That gave him the two-stroke margin that stood up through the par three 18th and left Panasiuk with $4,500 for his second-place finish.

It also ended Panasiuk's hope of becoming the first to win the CPGA title three years in a row since Stan Horne of Montreal did it in 1936-38.

Panasiuk, 32, led the first two rounds of the tournament at 133, two shots ahead of his pursuers, to boost his claim of leading the tournament to 10 consecutive rounds. He won in Hull, Que., in 1972 and Burlington, Ont., in 1973.

"It had to end sometime," said the personable Panasiuk. "Moe played well."

It was obvious in the early holes that nobody would launch a serious challenge against the front-runners, but Tape presented a continuing promise. He eagled the par five 14th hole to go nine under par and raise the prospect of a three-way fight through the final holes. But when his short putt for a par stayed out on the 16th he faded from the lead contention.

Tape, 27, earned $3,000. He also posted a 67, tied for the best round of the day.

Also at 67 was Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, a veteran of the United States professional tour, who vaulted into a tie for fifth place with talented young Ben Kern of London, Ont.

Herb Holzscheiter, little-known pro from Ashburn, Ont., fired a 68 that included identical nines of 34 to retain sole possession of fourth spot with 277, seven under par.

John Morgan, playing out of Victoria's Uplands club, led the West Coast contingent. Morgan closed with a 71 Sunday for a 280 total and pocketed $766. Another stroke behind came Bill Wakeham of Cowichan, who won $475.

Title Settled By 35-Footer

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Richie Karl, who grew up near the 10th fairway of the En Joie Golf Club, sank a 35-foot birdie putt Sunday on the first extra hole to win the B.C. Open tournament in a sudden-death play-off with Australian Bruce Crampton.

Crampton came from six strokes behind with nine holes to play and caught Karl at the end of the regulation 72 holes with a 273 total. Crampton played the last round in five-under-par 66 while Karl posted a 68.

Karl missed a 15-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole that would have given him the title. It set up the playoff that began on the par-four 15th hole, which plays at 465 yards.

Karl drove the fairway but Crampton, winner of 14 titles on the American tour, got his tee shot in the rough and was just short of the green in two.

Veteran Ray Floyd, who once got to within one shot of the lead, had a 66 and was third at 275.

Rod Curl followed with a 65-276 while Curtis Sifford, who shared the 54-hole lead with Karl, tied with John Schlee at 277. Sifford had a last round 72 Schlee 70.

Sandra Wins By Stroke

LA GRANGE, Ill. (AP) Sandra Haynie's 15-foot putt on the final hole after her 70-foot birdie putt on the 71st gave her a one-stroke victory Sunday in the United States women's open golf championship.

Miss Haynie's finish gave her a closing 75 and 295 total, seven over par. It wrestled the $6,073 first prize from Beth Stone and 1965 open champion Carol Mann.

Miss Stone was in the clubhouse with a 296 after her one-under-par 71 on the La Grange Country Club course, while Miss Mann, had a 75—296.

During the stretch drive, a streaker appeared on the 15th hole and sent Sandra Post, formerly of Oakville, Ont., into laughter as she played in the same twosome with Miss Mann. Miss Post finished sixth at 298 after shooting a 74.

New Zealanders Race to Sweep

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

"Quick" might be a more logical preference, and quick is how the three pitchers worked Sunday to help New Zealand's touring national women's softball team find its winning form.

After opening its 20-game Canadian tour by suffering four straight losses to the Canadian champion Green and Louie squad in Vancouver earlier in the week, New Zealand came back Sunday to defeat Victoria Vicettes 1-0 and the Victoria Senior Women's League All-Stars 6-3.

While coach Harry Atkin found pleasure in the sweep at Royal Athletic Park, others discovered equal delight in the New Zealanders' style. It was especially so with Kemp, Bowles and Keating.

They do not waste time. There is no squaring of hats, tugging at stockings, rubbing resin and-or dirt, and all the other nonsensical delaying movements that is evident in North America.

As a matter of fact, on several occasions the pitch came at Victoria batters when they weren't quite ready. The let's-get-on-with-it style wound up the first game in 70 minutes and the second "dragged out" 12 minutes longer.

The 18-year-old Kemp shut out the Vicettes on three hits and spiked an all-star comeback in the second game with a brief relief performance. only run in the 1-0 game, getting on base on a fielder's choice and then scooting home on Robyn Storer's triple.

She also scored the game's only run in the 1-0 game, getting on base on a fielder's choice and then scooting home on Robyn Storer's triple.

In the second game, she struck out three of five batters she faced to chill All-Stars comeback hopes.

New Zealand took advantage of three All-Star errors to strike for four runs in the second inning. Victoria made it 4-3 in the sixth but back-to-back home runs by Pat Farrow and Barbara Simpson put the game on ice for the visitors in the seventh.

The New Zealand pitchers would fare well with any Canadian club side but, on the strength of one day's observation, generally seem to be on a par with Vicettes' Rosemary Fuller.

The Victoria teenager allowed only two hits and her performance led to a decision that Vicettes be allowed to participate in tonight's series-concluding game at Royal Athletic Park.

The game, starting at 7 p.m., ends New Zealand's three-game stand here. The visitors then head for Edmonton, Saskatoon and Toronto before heading for Stratford, Conn., and the world championships in August.

Port Angeles pulled out of a tight, four-way argument for the final two playoff berths and moved within 1½ games of leading Century Inn by scoring a three-game sweep over Royal Oak Sporting Goods, at the weekend.

The losses — 2-1, 4-1 on Saturday and 6-4 on Sunday — dropped Royal Oak into sixth place, three full games out of the fourth and final playoff position.

Sid Krumpe gained credit for two of the victories to boost his won-lost record to 11-4.

Steelers Score

Jon Nadeau emerged as the individual star as William Head Steelers tripped Esquimalt Police 3-2 in a nine-inning exhibition game Sunday at Heywood Avenue Park.

Nadeau connected for four hits in four turns at bat, including a second-inning home run, and scored the winning run.

The game, organized by the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League in aid of the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for handicapped children, realized $116 and the league chipped in the balance to make a total of $150.

BATES CAPTURE ALL FOUR

VANCOUVER — Victoria Bates finished up their regular season in the Northwest International Fastball League in fine form by winning a pair of doubleheaders against Vancouver Vikings at the weekend in South Memorial Park.

Victtoria climbed to within one game of leading Seattle Pay 'n' Pak by dropping Vikings 1-0 and 2-1 Sunday as well as 5-4 an 2-0 Saturday.

In the 1-0 decision, the deciding run came in the top of the seventh inning. Harvey Stevenson singled to get pinch-runner Reg Underwood to first. Underwood gained second on a passed ball, went to third on a fielder's choice and was singled home by Scott Sinclair.

Dave Ruthkowski was the winning pitcher.

* * *

Victoria scored both runs for the 2-1 victory in the fourth inning as catcher Bob Burrows doubled, Don Lancaster doubled to drive in Burrows and, in turn, came home with the winning run on a single by pitcher Clay Allinotte.

Stan Kern registered both Saturday wins.

He won in relief as Bill James belted a 10th-inning home run for the 5-4 decision and claimed the 2-0 shutout by striking out 12 batters while yielding only three bases on balls.

Bates, the reigning provincial champions, don't plan to be idle while waiting for the B.C. tournament in Victoria, Aug. 10-11. The Victoria club will be competing in the annual Apply Classic tournament this coming weekend in Yakima.

Cosmos Falter In Title Bid

Special to the Times

KELOWNA — Gordon Head Cosmopolitans of Victoria dropped both ends of a doubleheader Sunday and Trail wound up with the B.C. 13-year-old Babe Ruth baseball championship.

Trail, coming out of the losers' bracket in the double-knockout provincial tournament, won the opener 10-2 and took the nightcap 4-1. A win in either game would have given Cosmos the title.

Dennis Vanelli went the distance for Trail in the first game, scattering seven hits as his team-mates sewed up the victory with four-run outbursts in the first and sixth innings.

A three-hitter by Ran Duncan sent Victoria down in the second game, decided in the fifth inning when Trail counted three runs tob reak a 1-1 tie.

Triangle Loses Stamina

Triangle won what is believed to be the longest Little League baseball game ever played in Victoria Saturday but ran out of stamina and lost Sunday in district tournament playoffs at Allenby Park.

Triangle shaded Beacon Hill 3-2 Saturday in 15 innings, nine more than regulation for Little League. The game lasted three hours and 45 minutes.

But Sunday, Esquimalt-Vic West beat Triangle 8-0 on a two-hitter by Mike Bull, who struck out 11 and walked only one. Both hits off him were second-inning singles.

Lake Hill, meanwhile, edged Gordon Head 5-4 in an extra inning Saturday night.

Esquimalt-Vic West collected eight hits in its Sunday victory, including a second-inning solo homer by Russ Hafer.

Saturday's marathon was decided by an unearned run when Torrie Robertson, whose two home runs accounted for all of Beacon Hill's scoring, made an unsuccessful bid to glove a sinking line drive by Mike Wiedman that scored Robbie Rye.

Saturday, Gordon Head won its opening game 3-0 over Prince George on Rogers' three-hit pitching performance and Mark Lum's two runs-batted-in.

Victoria Colts Triumph

Terry Armstrong wielded a mighty bat Sunday to lead Victoria to a 7-5 victory over Vancouver Capilanos in the final game of the Colt League baseball zone championship tournament at Topaz Park.

Armstrong had four trips and drove in three runs as Victoria finished the tournament undefeated.

Victoria, the defending provincial champion, edged Capilanos 6-5 Saturday but the Vancouver club bounced back through the losers' bracket with a 7-5 decision over Surrey.

Kevin Gill bunted to score winning-pitcher Ron Arcuri from third base in the final inning to produce the Saturday victory for Victoria, which now advances to the provincial playoff starting Aug. 3 in Mission.

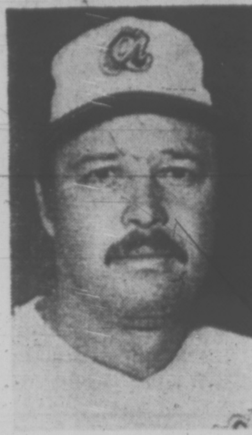
Eddie Matthews Fired as Braves Pilot



EDDIE MATTHEWS
. . . came as surprise

Times News Services

Two members of Atlanta Braves shared the spotlight today on the eve of baseball's annual all-star game — Eddie Matthews and Hank Aaron.

Matthews, didn't make Tuesday's all-star game. In fact, he didn't survive as manager of the Braves. He was fired Sunday after his team dropped its fourth straight National League decision, 6-2 to Pittsburgh Pirates. Atlanta has a 50-49 won-lost record.

"I didn't have an inkling this was going to happen," he said, "But it's over and done with. I'm sure it wasn't done on the spur of the moment."

Aaron, chosen to the National League all-star team for the 20th straight season, expressed surprise at the firing.

"Personally, I thought he did a heck of a job," Aaron said. "I've seen many managers fired but this one touched me personally."

A capacity crowd of more than 50,000 is expected at the all-star game at Three Rivers Stadium and an estimated 49 million will watch on television, NBC says.

Game time is 5:15 p.m. PDT.

Aaron, hitting .240 this season with 12 homers and a career total of 725, was expected to play right field for the first three innings.

The AL has lost 10 of the last 11 all-star meetings and has 11 victories and one tie against 28 losses in the series. The AL last won in 1971.

AL president Lee MacPhail has taken steps he hopes will make the junior circuit a winner this year. AL clubs have gone along with MacPhail's directive to change their pitching rotations so that an all-star pitcher wouldn't work on Sunday.

This prompted all-star pitcher Wilbur Wood of Chicago White Sox, who worked Saturday instead of Sunday with just two days off, to ask:

"What is the objective of the American League races, to win in a division or to win the all-star game? Why should the Sox or any other club be deprived of using a pitcher on Sunday?"

Cleveland's Gaylord Perry, who fell one game short of the AL record by winning 15 straight this season, was expected to get the starting nod. In addition to Perry and Wood, the AL also has hurlers Mike Cuellar of Baltimore, Jim (Catfish) Hunter and Rollie Fingers of Oakland, Luis Tiant of Boston, Steve Busby of Kansas City, and John Hiller of Detroit.

Berra has Andy Messersmith and Mike Marshall of Los Angeles, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia, Ken Brett of Pittsburgh, Buzz Capra of Atlanta, Jon Matlack of New York Mets and Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis.

Joining Aaron in the starting lineup in the outfield are Pete Rose of Cincinnati and Jim Wynn of Los Angeles. Other starters are Dodgers Steve Garvey at first base and Ron Cey at third, Larry Bona of Philadelphia at shortstop, Cincinnati's Joe Morgan at second base, and Johnny Bench of the Reds behind the plate.

Oakland's Reggie Jackson, leading vote-getter in both leagues with nearly 3.5 million, Bobby Murcer of New York Yankees and Jeff Burroughs of Texas will start in the outfield for the AL. Dick Allen will start at first base with Minnesota's Rod Carew, the majors' leading hitter, at second, Bert Campaneris of Oakland at shortstop, and Baltimore's Brooks Robinson at third. Thurman Munson of the Yankees will catch.

Karpiuk Man of the Hour

Terry Karpiuk emerged as the man of the hour at Lambrick Park while leading Greaves Movers to a 2-1 decision over Vancouver Eldorado of the Vancouver Metro League in an interlocking game. The win moved Greaves into first place in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League.

In the night game, Eldorado blanked Gorge Hotel, 5-0.

Karpiuk stretched his league-leading record to seven wins in eight decisions by striking out 11 batters, scattering two hits and allowing five bases on balls.

Karpiuk also had two hits in two trips. He singled in the second inning, hit a sacrifice fly to centre in the fourth to drive in Walt Burrows with the tying run, and singled home Burrows again for the winning run in the sixth.

Carnarvon Takes Title

Carnarvon scored a short but sweet victory Sunday to retain the south Vancouver Island 14-year-old Pony League baseball title and gain a berth in the B.C. tournament starting Aug. 5 in Capilano.

The Carnarvon club hammered in nine runs in the fifth inning en route to a 15-3 decision over Triangle in the final of the double-loss elimination zone tourney at Triangle Park. The game ended in the same inning because Carnarvon had more than a 12-run advantage.

In games Saturday, Carnarvon blanked Layritz 5-0 in a winners' bracket game while Triangle fought through the losers' bracket with an 8-7 nod over Sidney and a 4-3 edge over Layritz.

Ross Just Followed Instructions

PORTLAND — In car racing, it's customary for the pit crew to pass pertinent information to the driver by means of a blackboard at the side of the track. Usually, the board shows the number of laps left to go.

But that wasn't the case here Sunday for driver Ross Surgenor and his Victoria pit crew in the final race of the International Drivers Challenge series for unlimited stock cars.

Throughout the closing stages of the 100-lap race, all that was chalked on the Surgenor blackboard was "easy."

Surgenor was coasting along in fourth place at the time and the crew was simply telling him to take it easy because a fourth-place finish would give him enough points for the series driving championship. The last thing anybody wanted was a spin-out.

Surgenor, piloting his 1969 Torino, followed instructions to the letter, finishing fourth. He wound up the six races, including two at Victoria's Western Speedway last week, with 718 points. The driving title was worth an extra $550.

Second in the points derby was another Victoria driver, Terry Forsyth, who ammassed 652 for $300. He finished 12th here Sunday after having to pit with mechanical problems for two laps.

Third in the series was Leon Fox of Bremerton with 587 points while Victoria's Roy Haslam and Lonnie Stark of Port Angeles tied for fourth with 527.

Sunday's race was won by Hershel McGriff of Bridal Veil, Ore., in a '69 Chevelle. He started 21st in the field, caught second-place finisher Ron Eaton on the 49th lap and led the rest of the way.

Eaton, from Tacoma, finished ahead of the third place Rick O'Dell of Victoria. O'Dell was close most of the way but was lapped by the two front-runners near the end.

South African John Eagleton and Mexican John Rsgado (CCT) downed Bob Amis of Edina, Minn., and Bob Braun of Chicago 6-3, 6-4 in the men's doubles final. Clare Schmoyer of Arlington Heights, Ill., and Isa Ortiz of Colombia ousted Cherrie Kay of Costa Mesa, Calif., and Jennifer Geedes of Santa Ana, Calif., 7-6, 6-0 in the women's doubles championship.

In the seniors, Kirkland's Steve Bard surprised San Francisco's Gil Howard 6-3, 6-4 for the men's 35 crown and Dodo Cheney of Santa Monica, Calif., took the women's 35 title with a 6-3, 6-0 victory over Sonja Shumaker of Walnut Creek, Calif.

EARLY 'BREAK' DECIDES RACE

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

Roy Smith of Victoria couldn't help wondering if the finish might not have been the other way around Saturday night at Western Speedway if he had beaten Don McLeod of Tacoma out of the pack.

McLeod edged Smith, driving the Daffodil Special owned by Jeff Vantreight of Victoria, in the 40-lap Strawberry Cup race for Washington Racing Association modified sprint cars.

He did it by breaking out of the 13-car field on the 10th lap, one ahead of Smith.

"I think if it had been the other way around, if I had broken out in the lead, it might have been different," Smith said at the conclusion. "I just didn't seem to have enough traction to catch him."

He had enough to stay on McLeod's tail from lap 11 on, however, as both drivers pulled steadily away before a crowd of 2,500.

Smith qualified for Saturday's race with the fastest time, 15.88 seconds, and as a result started at the back of the pack. But he moved up quickly and was pleased with the way his car responded.

He was breaking in a new engine which had taken 16 hours to install after blowing a motor a week ago at Evergreen Speedway in Munro, Wash.

"We got it going at a quarter to three this morning," he said Saturday night.

It became evident early in the race that traction was all-important with the small open-wheel sprint cars. McLeod cornered almost flawlessly, going wide only once about three-quarters of the way through the race. Smith nearly sneaked past him, but McLeod recovered to keep the lead.

Third place went to Ross Fontes of Lynwood, Wash., while Dick Wilskey of Seattle was fourth and Ray Pottinger of Nanaimo, piloting Barry Bunyan's Island Pacific Special of Victoria, was fifth after spending the night trying to pinpoint a fuel injector problem.

"A" Trophy Dash: 1. Cliff Spalding, Seattle; 2. Ross Fontes, Linwood, Wash.; 3. Roy Smith, Victoria; 4. Mik Blackstock, Linwood.

"B" Trophy Dash: 1. Gordie Stewart, Alderwood Manor, Wash.; 2. Dennis Anthony, Seattle; 3. Dick Wilsky, Seattle; 4. Ray Warne, Sattle

NASCAR Protest

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The results of the Nashville 420 Grand National stock car race will not become officially known until today when the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing Commission (NASCAR) meets in Los Angeles to unravel the problems of Saturday's race.

After Cale Yarborough received the checkered flag, Bobby Allison — who was a few car lengths behind passed Yarborough and claimed the trophy.

Allison said he was two laps ahead of Yarborough because Yarborough had illegally gained a lap during a caution light and because Yarborough lost a lap during a spinout later in the race.

"Bobby Allison is just making claims that aren't true," said Yarborough, who has won seven grand national events this year.

Allison Survives Rally

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — A late charge by Norm Lelliott of London, Ont., fell just short and enabled Bobby Allison of Houeytown, Ala., to win the $25,000 Export A Mosport stock car race Sunday.

Allison had built a comfortable lead in the latter stages of the 40-lap, 100-mile race until he made a pit stop for fuel on Lap 34. By the time Allison returned his lead over Lelliott had shrunk to six seconds from more than 20.

Lelliott closed that gap to one second until Allison set a track record for stock cars with a time of one minute and 32.9 seconds — 95.293 miles an hour — on Lap 39 to pull away and win by five seconds.

Saanich Midgets Win Title

Saanich Midgets swept to 20-5 and 22-0 victories over Courtenay at Pearkes Arena on the weekend to capture the Vancouver Island 16-year-old lacrosse championship and a berth in the B.C. finals in North Vancouver Aug. 9 and 10.

Goalie Mike Duch earned the shutout Sunday while Stu Rhodes and Murray McLaren, each with four goals, and Wayne Reeve, with three, paced Saanich.

Hunters Edged

Saanich Hunter Construction outshot North Vancouver 72-50 Sunday at Pearkes Arena but wound up dropping a 17-16 decision in B.C. Junior "B" Lacrosse League action.

Brothers Wayne and Keith Baker combined for nine of North Vancouver's goals, five of them by Wayne. Top Saanich marksmen were Peter McCresh with four goals, Gordie Horth with three and Al McLaren and Mike Jardy with two each.

Spokane Jets To Sit Out WIHL Season

SPOKANE (CP) — Spokane Jets will sit out the 1974-75 Western International Hockey League season.

Owner Ralph Redding said the team requested a one-year leave of absence to review its financial situation before attempting to re-enter the league for the 1975-76 season.

Redding, along with Bing Juckes, co-owner of the Jets, is attempting to get a franchise in the British Columbia Junior Hockey League. The franchise has not yet been ratified by the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, the governing authority.

JACKLIN WINS

A Weekend to Forget For Penalty-Hit Macs

Victoria McDonalds may be wishing right now that the past weekend had never happened.

McDonalds absorbed a 25-10 pasting from leading Burnaby Cablevision in the mainland centre Sunday after dropping a 16-12 Saturday decision to third-place Surrey Salmonbellies and Memorial Arena Saturday.

To make matters worse Sunday, Victoria was assessed a total of 119 minutes in penalties, including game misconducts to goalkeeper Dennis McLean, Gord Neilson and Bill Munroe, to Burnaby's total of 41.

"We've never come close to that many penalties in a game before," said general manager Bob Reid.

Burnaby raced away to period leads of 10-5 and 18-7 while outshooting Victoria, 75-35.

Mike Walsh paced Victoria with three goals, Kevin Alexander had two and singles were fired by Neilson, Bob Cool, Ken King, Rick Holinshead and Jeevan Dillon.

On Saturday, the Bakers saw their chances of a fourth straight win go down the drain as Salmonbellies took a 6-5 lead after the first period and extended the margin to 12-8 after the second frame.

Neilson and Alexander each fired three goals for Victoria while King and Leigh Hegan added two each and singles came from Holinshead and Rick Lapointe.

Powerboat Confusion Reigns

KENNEWICK, Wash. (AP) — The Pay 'N Pak won the world championship regatta for unlimited hydroplanes Sunday in a confusing final heat highlighted by an apparent collision and more boats than the rules allowed.

George Henley, a 37-year-old rookie unlimited pilot, earned two firsts and a second in three heats in the Seattle-based Pak, including a first in the wild final heat.

His championship heat victory came relatively easily after the Miss Budweiser, Henley's chief rival all season, blew an engine and went dead in the water on the second lap.

Pizza Pete of Detroit was a surprise second for the day. Rookie Ron Armstrong in the Seattle-based Valu Mart was third.

Confusion began before the final heat started. Six boats had qualified for the final earlier. Bill Muncey in the Detroit-based Atlas just missed a spot in the championship, but was named as the alternate in case one of the six couldn't get started.

That was what happened — temporarily. The Valu Mart went dead in the water during warmup laps before the starting gun, and Muncey piloted the Atlas onto the course.

Then the Valu Mart got started again.

Muncey said later he didn't see the Valu Mart restart. Judges tried unsuccessfully to flag Muncey from the course and referee Bill Newton ruled Muncey disqualified while the Atlas was still on the course.

The first turn of the first lap was crowded, with seven of the big thunderboats trying to negotiate it. One of the boats apparently clipped the U-95, which displayed a mangled tailfin at the end of the heat.

VISITORS STAR IN CRICKET WIN

Two visitors from England stole the show Sunday when a Victoria XI defeated Nanaimo by eight wickets in an exhibition cricket match in Nanaimo.

With Nanaimo all out for 92, Victoria batted strongly to make 93 runs for the loss of only two wickets.

Time Bale, a former member of Incogs in the Victoria and District Cricket Association and now back visiting from England, scored 35 not out and David Taylor, an Englishman staying with John Schofield of Alcos, made 35.

In Saturday's league matches, Albion held on to nip Castaways in the battle of the top two at Beacon Hill Park; Incogs shocked Alcos by getting them all out for only 26 runs and winning easily at Windsor Park; Oak Bay beat Cowichan for its first win of the season.

Albions looked to have victory tucked safely away in the second round of 40-over matches when they got Castaways all out for 120 and then reached 112 for two wickets. But Albions got in trouble and lost six quick wickets before John Buchanan hit the winning run for a two-wicket decision.

Three Victoria juniors — David Waslynko of St. Michael's University School, Greywood Cook of Glenlyon and Scott Dunbar of Mt. Newton Junior High School — played in trials in Vancouver Sunday to select an under-18 team to go on a tour of the Okanagan. The team has yet to be announced.

Musso on Injured List, Lions Cut Down to Size

Times News Services

British Columbia Lions released five players Sunday, including veteran defensive back Mike Wilson, and made eight cuts Saturday to reach the Canadian Football League limit of 32.

Wilson, an import who played in the 1973 CFL all-star game, suffered a leg injury against Toronto Argonauts in the Lions' final pre-season game here July 16 and had been unable to practise.

Other imports released were tight end Steve Schultz and running back Sonny Campbell. Head coach Eagle Keys also released two non-imports, veteran Eric Guthrie, a quarterback-punter in his two years with the Lions, and rookie wide receiver Dave Kaduhr from Simon Fraser University.

Veteran running back Johnny Musso was placed on Lions' 21-day injured reserve list. He underwent surgery here Friday for removal of a torn knee cartilage.

Lions Saturday released import linebacker Leroy Johnson of East Texas State and import running back Eugene Teague of San Jose State. Non-imports released were centre Andy Jonassen from University of Calgary, defensive tackle Garry Adam of University of Alberta, linebacker Charlie Campbell of Simon Fraser, defensive back Joe Fabiani of University of Western Ontarie, tight end Brian Heiland of SFU and running back Glen Colwill of SFU.

The 30-year-old wide receiver said Saturday he was "shocked" when he learned that he had cleared CFL waivers.

"I found out I had been on waivers all through training camp because the team would not be using an outside receiver this season.

During five years with the Alouettes and four with Calgary Stampeders, he caught 466 passes which put him third on the all-time CFL list. He ranks fourth over-all in yards gained from passes, 7,608.

With Calgary in 1967, he teamed with quarterback Pete Liske for 96 catches — a league record — and 1,662 yards in 16 games.

Virtually ignored by Montreal quarterbacks last season, the Montreal native wound up with 278 yards on 18 receptions. He didn't score a touchdown until the final game of the season, giving him 62 for his career.

Also cut were defensive back Mike Law, by Ottawa; Tommy Pharr, quarterback, slotback and defensive back, by Winnipeg; quarterback Sonny Sixkiller and tackle Randy Halsall, by Toronto and linebacker Gary Chown, by Montreal. To reach the limit of 17 Canadians and 15 imports, several clubs put players on the three-game of 21-day injured players' list.

Among these were: receiver George McGowan of Edmonton, defensive back Tony Proudfoot and quarterback Sonny Wade, both of Montreal; and defensive back Peter Ribbins of Winnipeg.

Toronto traded defensive end George Wells to Saskatchewan for quarterback Jim Lindsey; Winnipeg sent tight end Paul Markle to Edmonton for the Eskimos' No. 1 1975 Canadian draft choice, and the Eskimos sent linebacker Mickey Doyle to Calgary for a future consideration.

Aztecs Eye Playoffs

By The Canadian Press

Los Angeles Aztecs, leaders of the Western Division, came a step closer to clinching a playoff berth in the North American Soccer League Sunday night by defeating Toronto Metros 2-1.

In other games, Washington Diplomats endged Denver Dynamos 1-0 and New York Cosmos topped Seattle Sounders 2-1.

In Saturday's games, Baltimore Comets defeated Philadelphia Atoms 2-1, Dallas Tornado beat St. Louis Stars 4-1, San Jose Earthquakes beat the Metros 2-1 and Boston Minutemen whipped Rochester Lancers 7-1.

The Cosmos had to come from behind to beat the Sounders, who opened the scoring with a goal by Jimmy Gabriel. New York tied the game at the 32-minute mark when Jorge Siega converted Mirko Oiveric's pass and Oiveric got the winner with 30 minutes remaining.

NFL Owners Break Off Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Football League owners broke off contract negotiations with striking players Sunday and told a federal mediator they will send only token representatives to talks requested by the mediator for 2 p.m. today.

Mediator James Scearce reported that there was "no progress toward consummation of a settlement" in the latest round of bargaining that began Friday.

The owners claimed dissatisfaction with what they termed the failure of the players' union to respond to a package offer on a host of player demands.

According to sources close to the talks, the players wanted to continue bargaining as their 21-day-old strike headed into the last week of training camp before the scheduled start of the exhibition season.

The owners announced earlier they were prepared to spend $4 million on added benefits for pre-season games, the Pro-Bowl and other monetary items.

At that point, the players accused the owners of failing to address the more controversial "freedom issues" at the crux of the dispute. The issues include the waiver and option clauses and fines as routine punishment.

CANADIAN GIRLS SPARKLE IN BRITISH TRACK MEET

LONDON (CP) — Yvonne Saunders of Guelph, Ont., and Jane Haist of Thornhill, Ont., starred Saturday in the British women's national athletics track and field championships, which included men's invitational events.

Miss Saunders, gold medalist in the Commonwealth Games earlier this year in New Zealand, won the 400 metres in 51.9 seconds. She dominated the race from the start to set a British championship record, only three-tenths of a second off her personal best.

Miss Haist got Canada's other two wins in the women's section. She took the shot put with a heave of 49 feet 3¾ inches and won the discus with a toss of 185 feet. Carol Martin of Thornhill, Ont., was third in the discus with a mark of 164-3½.

Canada had five victories in the men's program, including the 800-metre relay when Hugh Fraser of Ottawa, Marvin Nash of Toronto, Al Dukowski of Vancouver and Robert Martin of Paris, Ont., combined for a time of 1:24.6.

Paul Craig of Toronto took the 800 metres in 1:50.5, beating Peter Richardson of Fredericton, N.B., 1:51, and Randy Macolosky of Calgary, 1:15.1.

Ain Roost of Toronto won the discus with a toss of 193-5, while Grant McLaren of London, Ont., finished first in the 2,000 metres with a time of 5:04.8. Craig placed second in the 2,000 with a clocking of 5:05.2.

Fraser wound up first in the 100 metres in 10.5 seconds; Nash was second in 10.6.

In other women's events: Thelma Wright of Vancouver was second in the 1,500 metres, 4:10.7, and Glenda Reiser of Ottawa was third, 4:17.7; Debbie Brill of Haney, B.C., was second in the high jump, 5-11½, and Louise Hanna of Toronto third, 5-10½.

Seven Rescued By Yacht

TORQUAY, England (CP) — The British yacht Gumboots dropped out of the 150-mile offshore race in the one-ton cup series early Sunday to rescue seven persons who had abandoned their blazing vessel after an explosion.

Gumboots had been leading the series on points after the first two races in the five-race series.

It abandoned the 150-mile third race 14 miles off Britain's southwest coast after spotting red flares. The crew picked up the seven persons on a life raft from the yacht Amphion which sank after the unexplained explosion and fire. Amphion was not in the race.

The race was won by the United States yacht America Jane II.

She finished well clear of another American entry, Magic Twanger, with New Zealand's Hati third.

Fourth was the Belgian boat Braille, followed by the British entries Solent Saracen and High Tension.

Mileage wasn't important when gas was only 19 9/10 cents a gallon.

37 years ago, car owners didn't worry too much about saving money on gas. Not when the price was only 19 9/10 cents.

It's a different story today. With sky-high fuel prices, you're probably already doing everything possible to get more miles per gallon from your car.

But better mileage comes only if your engine operates at maximum efficiency, which requires special attention to lubrication.

That's where Bardahl additive oil comes in.

By adding Bardahl to your car's motor oil, you enhance the lubricating qualities of the oil. Bardahl's exclusive "polar organic" formula does this by creating a tough film layer that clings to metal surfaces, reducing wear and tear on vital engine parts.

The results show up in improved mileage and better performance.

For cars with less than 40,000 miles

For cars with over 40,000 miles

BARDAHL
The gas saver.

Alvarez-Welch Medical Report

By Dr. WALTER ALVAREZ

A person who has been ill or has some kind of chronic disease asks me whether it is safe for him to travel, and what is the safest way for him to travel. Naturally, I will then consider the person's age, his alertness and robustness, and the nature of his illness and its severity.

For instance, thousands of persons who have heart trouble, but whose heart is "well compensated" (other arteries have successfully taken over the job of the damaged artery) need not worry at all. Others who are short of breath may have to think seriously before they venture to leave home.

Some persons who have a mild arthritis can get by easily; others, with the extra exercise and fatigue involved in walking about through parks, museums and cities, or the stress involved in going through customs, or boarding airplanes or boats, should not attempt a long trip.

Some persons with a poor digestion may get into trouble because of complicated cooking in foreign countries, prepared with much more spice, pepper, and grease than they are used to at home. Such persons may get by well if they will eat only simple foods, cooked without a lot of condiments and sauces.

Persons with a poor stomach should be careful not to eat a great deal. They may get by if they will eat only small meals and not eat when they are very tired. Many persons with a tendency to indigestion and abdominal pain should be careful not to get constipated. They should take an enema bag with them, and if they get out of regular habits, they should immediately take an enema of a bagful of water with a tablespoon of table salt in it.

Persons with hemorrhoids should be particularly careful to carry an enema bag. If they should get badly constipated and then try to force a movement, they could get a torn, inflamed hemorrhoid which could be very painful for 10 days or so.

Persons who are subject to painful crises of some illness would do well to travel with some able companion who can help out in case of trouble.

Persons who have had trouble with their heart are sometimes afraid to travel by plane, but today this fear is not justified. Cabins are pressurized and it doesn't make any difference whether the plane is flying at 4,000 feet or 30,000 feet. An individual whose heart is good enough so that he can walk comfortably on the street can fly easily in an airplane.

Persons who suffer occasionally from a gallstone colic should carry with them a sedative for pain. Those who suffer from angina pectoris should carry tablets of nitroglycerine. Asthmatics should carry a small atomizer with a strong adrenalin spray, and those who suffer from bad migraines should take along some tablets of Cafergot or Wigraine.

Persons who have a little tendency to diarrhea will do well to take with them some capsules of Copavin (containing codeine and papaverine).

Persons who are going to travel into countries where the water supply is not well cared for, and who hence are likely to get attacks of amoebic dysentery might do well to take some capsules of carbarzone.

There are a number of good drugs today for persons who suffer greatly from motion sickness. Persons who are uneasy in a strange bed while traveling and cannot sleep might do well to take some good sleeping capsules.

Persons who have trouble with varicose veins or who have had an old thrombophlebitis (plugged-up vein in a leg) might do well, before walking for long periods of time, to put on elastic stockings, or an elastic bandage.

Every person who must wear glasses should take an extra pair with him. Persons whose eyes are highly sensitive, and particularly the migrainous person, should use dark glasses in bright sunlight.

Persons with a hearing aid will probably do well to take with them the necessary batteries because the ones obtainable in Europe might not fit. All travelers should go to their dentist before they leave home.

It would be helpful for a diabetic to carry with him a letter stating he is a diabetic, stating how much insulin he is taking and what type of insulin he uses. Anyone who gets a dangerous reaction from morphine, penicillin or other drugs should carry a physician's certificate to that effect.

Changes Improve Homemade Graham Wafers

By MARY MOORE

I tried the Graham Wafer recipe you sent me. It was good and my children liked them. I tried them again today and instead of the two cups of white flour I used 1¼ cups white flour and ¾ cup bran, also used honey instead of granulated sugar. I think they tasted a bit more like the real thing. Thanks again Mary. Gail M.

I in turn tried your substitutions in my graham wafer recipe and liked them. Since I made over 100 two-inch wafers I thought our serious bakers and budgeters would like to have a go at them.

GRAHAM WAFERS
(100 plus)

1 c. shortening
½ c. brown sugar
½ c. honey
1 tsp. vanilla
1¼ c. stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
1½ c. all bran
4 c. stirred fresh whole wheat flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
¾ c. milk (or sour or buttermilk)

In beater bowl cream together shortening, sugar, honey and vanilla. Combine all dry ingredients. Add to creamed mixture along with the milk and beat until thoroughly mixed. Smooth top, cover and chill (or refrigerate overnight).

Remove from refrigerator and warm dough to room temperature. Divide in halves. Roll out on floured board to ⅛" thickness. (This takes patience and muscle but the smoothness of the dough shows the difference between professional and amateur wafers.) Cut into 2" squares using a ruler to keep wafers uniform. Place ½" apart on buttered cookie sheets. (I filled four cookie sheets.) Bake two pans at a time at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes, switching pans at halftime. Watch them for they should be evenly tinged with gold to make them crisp and attractive.

Be sure to be neat. Make your lines straight and cut with a sharp knife. Excellent for reducers and exactly right for cheese.

Repeater Cheater

DEAR ABBY: Le Roy and I have been married for 38 years, and during that time I have had proof that he cheated on me with 33 different girls. I suspected 14 others, but never had proof. I thought maybe time would slow him down, but it hasn't.

Last Sunday, Le Roy spent the whole day in his pickup truck hauling this girl's stuff from her apartment to a trailer court. He didn't make it home until midnight.

Abby, I'm a good Christian woman who loves the Lord. I told, Le Roy I thought it was a sin for him to work on Sunday, but he said it wasn't work, it was an act of charity to lend a helping hand to a person in need.

This girl is not in need of anything but prayers, and I've been praying for her. I have also been praying for Le Roy.

Please ask your readers to pray for these two sinners, and tell me if you think Le Roy worked last Sunday, or was it charity?—A Christian.

DEAR CHRISTIAN: Let's say it was charity on his part, and work on hers.

DEAR ABBY: A girl friend of ours (I'll call her Molly) is scheduled to get married in two weeks. She met the guy three months ago and has seen him only twice since. (He's in the service.) Molly is a bit of a screwball. She's 23 and he's 24. Nobody we know has ever met him. Molly is planning everything herself. Two other girls and I want to give her a shower, but I honestly don't think there is going to be a wedding. (Neither does anybody else). Molly is a swell kid with a heart of gold, but she's done a lot of really nutty things, and we don't want to go to the expense and work of making a shower for her if the wedding never takes place.

She's not pregnant. We'd just make it a general shower. Please advise me so I can show it to the other two girls who are as puzzled about this as I am.—Molly's Friend.

DEAR FRIEND: Since there seems to be a question as to whether there will be a wedding, skip the shower. If Molly gets married, give her a gift and your best wishes at the wedding—and shower her later.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps mine is a unique problem, yet I think not. My wife complains constantly that I never do anything around the house. She says: "The people next door work together, painting, gardening, etc. and their place looks great. You never do a thing around here, and our place looks like a dump. All you want to do is play golf, or bring home extra work from the office." And she is right.

The reason I never do anything around the house is this: I once brought some paint home to paint a room, and she criticized the color. I started to work in the yard and she said: "Quit that — you are making a mess!" Frankly, no matter what I do, she finds fault with it. The golf course is pleasant and quiet. And when I'm doing work I bring home from the office, at least she doesn't yell at me.

I have complimented her on her cooking, the way she looks, her housekeeping, and everything I can think of, but she never even says: "Thanks."

I doubt if this could be of any help to me if it were printed. However, there must be other readers who could improve their family relations immensely by just learning to express a little warm, sincere appreciation. Thanks. — A Golf Widow's Golfer.

DEAR GOLFER: I Score your advice a birdie after a good recovery from a common marital trap!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "M" who works in an office with Pat: I think that whatever an adult does in his own home is his own business.

Although we think of tin punching as a Mexican craft, it actually dates back to American Colonial times and the Paul Revere lantern. Revere's design was quite similar to the funnel-topped can shown here. The only difference is that Revere's lantern had a window cut into the front face to accommodate a candle.

I've illustrated four designs for using tin cans or funnels as lanterns. After making one or two, you'll come up with your own innovations. Punch away and create exciting originals. Once you know the little tricks, it's easy.

how to punch metal

1. Fill cans with water and freeze.

If you're using a metal funnel stop up the spout with a cork. Fill with water. Prop up the funnel in your freezer, spout down, mouth up. The ice keeps the metal from collapsing when it's punched.

2. Designs can be drawn on the can with an indelible yellow felt-tipped marker or you can punch a random pattern. First time around it's best to use the felt marker.

3. Punch holes with a hammer and a medium-size nail. Try using small and large nails for design variety.

4. After the ice has melted wipe the can dry. You can leave the natural finish of the metal as is or you can give it a coat of enamel base paint. For a decorative design that retains the look of the metal, use wide indelible felt markers.

5. Use bond cement or epoxy to glue cans together.

MOCK REVERE LANTERN

At one end of the can, use a can opener to cut around one-third of the lid.

Push this open portion of lid into the can so that it folds back under the lid and lies flat. This forms a ledge for your candle.

Hammer two large holes into the spout of a large funnel so that it can be hung.

Glue the funnel to the unopened end of the punched can, wide opening of funnel against can.

CANDLESTICKS

Paint a large bottle cap silver or white and glue it to the top of a punched funnel. Cap should be glued with open side up to act as holder for a candle.

MEXICAN LAMP

Punch a hole into the centre of one end of a large punched can. Hole should be large enough for the cap on the funnel to fit through. Punch a large hole in the centre top of the can.

Slip the bottom of the can over the funnel and glue.

WALL SCONCE

Driving on super highways requires different safety precautions than driving in jam-packed city streets. One of the gravest dangers is a state known as highway hypnosis in which you become drowsy and your refelxes dulled.

Periodically change your body position. Also slightly change your speed every 15 minutes or so. Even a five or ten mile variation is bound to perk you up ad will prevent your reactions from slowing down.

Also, stop at regular intervals along the way and refresh yourself by getting out of the car. If you have to drive at night, reduce your normal daylight speed by at least ten miles an hour.

The folder also explains how to get safely on and off expressways and how to avoid accidents once you are on one. It recommends that you choose one lane and stay in it. Be sure to leave sufficient space between your car and the one ahead. Dont follow closer than one car length for every ten miles of speed.

Remember, expressways have reduced the number of minor accidents, but when an accident does occur it is more likely to be a major one.

Surgeon Continues 'Caring'

elizabeth forbes

What prompts a man to leave a lucrative practice in Victoria and go off for several months to work for CARE-Medico in a far-off developing country? Not once, mind you, but four times in the past 10 years.

In the case of Dr. Gordon Grant, well-known hand and reconstructive surgeon, I'd say it is the challenge that accompanies such work.

Also a sincere desire to share in Medico's humanitarian efforts in countries that so very gravely need professional medical help.

During several months of 1964 he was in Nigeria. Two years later it was Tunisia. In 1970 he went to Viet Nam and in the first three months of this year, he worked in Indonesia.

In all but Viet Nam he was accompanied by his wife Ginny who is convinced that Canadians should know "much more" than they do about CARE - Medico programs, "especially in Indonesia where it is almost an all-Canadian project."

There the Grants were situated at Mangkubumen Hospital in Java's city of Solo. (Surakarta).

"The medical surgical team in that hospital is almost completely Canadian," Dr. Grant tells you with more than a little pride, "and the team captain is Bill Sutherland, former chief surgeon and surgical administrator at Shaughnessy Veteran's Hospital in Vancouver."

The complete team includes two teachers, and a number of nurses and technicians "from just about every province in Canada — and a few from abroad — who back up the team leaders with vigor and dedication."

Team members serve two years or more and receive travel and living expenses along with salaries that are nominal by today's western standards.

A visiting specialist, on the other hand, pays his way. CARE provides the best quarters possible on a first-come, first-served basis and asks only reimbursement for actual outlay.

Grant and Semarang medics

Wyn, as with wives of all members of the two-year team "does a great many things in the way of teaching and unobstrusive nursing."

Sutherland, as chief surgeon and team captain has the responsibility of keeping things moving harmoniously and quietly.

"Too much hurry and visible impatience would swiftly wreck the fragile relationship between the Indonesian doctors and their curious well-intentioned visitors from far away," Gordon Grant says.

"What is essential is a neat blend of ability to ride with the punch and determination to get on with the thing as it can best be done under the circumstances."

Indonesians must battle, in disease and in injury, against a humid climate, against a low protein intake and so against anemia and low serum protein.

"Infection under these circumstances, strikes insistently and often disastrously."

In his role as visiting specialist, Dr. Grant functioned mainly in the field of trauma "with as many lectures to the students thrown in as could be managed."

And trauma, as he describes it, was "the horrendous pandemic" as it is about everywhere these days.

Solo's traffic conditions loomed in his eyes as "a mass try at suicide". And the Indonesian, on foot or on wheels, often fared badly.

He took out to Java along with his own favorite surgical instruments, a new Watson knife dermatome "that worked well, especially after we learned to gauge the thickness of Indonesian skin". It was left at the hospital.

The Canadians at Solo "could use reinforcements to their team ... especially a high qualified gynecologist-obstetrician and apediatrician," Dr. Grant says. And he suggests many more visiting specialists would be welcome, too.

"In fact visiting specialists of almost any discipline have a mighty contribution to make there."

However, he does point out that "solo is not for the squeamish." (Nor, any other Medico outpost, for that matter.)

The climate is "delightful" except for the cloudbursts. Cockroaches "do come in the large economy size but are easily subdued by Raid" and the streets are only for the hardy "when it comes to walking."

Nevertheless, he and his wife look back with some nostalgia on their months out there. And they say they received much more than they gave.

NOTE—The Grants' story will be continued in my next column.

JEFF LAWRIN, 8, seems relatively unimpressed by artist Margaret Hathaway's attempt at showing him the complexities of cut-out figures, and has decided he will do it his way. Jeff is one of many children involved in artists program sponsored by the Art Gallery of Ontario.

Sensible Snack Can Do Good

By HILDA BEASTALL

A speaker at a nutrition symposium in Victoria last winter told her audience that nutritionists were planning on recommending the commercial adding of vitamins to snack foods to help counteract the harmful effects of "empty calories" prevalent in such foods.

I gasped; then decided that next to abolishing snack foods, no doubt the idea had merits. We have two alternatives: one is to see that the family eats a satisfying meal three times daily, which will after a week or two eliminate the need for between meal snacks for the majority; the other is to produce the snack foods in our own kitchens, making them of ingredients we learn about as being more beneficial to our well-being.

Muffins and cookies made at home of wholewheat flour and whole rolled wheat or oats, fruit and nuts are a nutritious and delicious snack. Limit each person to one (between meals) so there is less problem of meal refusal later. Put out only one apiece to reduce arguments.

A lot of snacking is from boredom. "I've got nothing to do" wail the school-age youngsters in summer. Save a lot of worry and nervous energy, Mother, by using a little of your time learning a group game or two with the youngsters. Games on an outdoor table in yard or on sundecks which get so little practical use, keep children off street traffic areas, and are an investment if you have to buy one.

Muesli is a dry crunchy granular food, to eat either dry with a spoon or with homemade yogurt or buttermilk. I suppose a little orange juice could be poured over it too, but the flavor conflicts with the nuttiness of the mixture. You can call it cereal if you prefer.

CRUNCHY CEREAL OR MUESLI:

1½ cups rolled oats
½ cup wheat germ
½ cup ground or chopped raw peanuts
½ cup shredded coconut (unsweetened)
3 Tbsp soy oil or soft margarine
2 tsp demerara or grated hard sugar
one-eighth tsp salt

Mix and spread one-half-inch deep in shallow glass dish or on cookie tray. Bake in 250 deg. oven until lightly golden, stirring occasionally as edges brown first. May take two to three hours, so put in a milk rice or macaroni milk pudding to bake at same time. Let cool thoroughly in dish. Store in glass jar with lid in refrigerator. Will keep a month if it gets the chance.

As another project get one child to make up a small glass jar of Herb Butter to spread on your Date Nut Muffins as part of a garden picnic. Use a fortified soft margarine which is easy to handle. Take about a quarter cup of margarine into a wide mouthed glass jar.

Soften the margarine with the fork; then add a teaspoon of chopped fresh parsley, a half teaspoon of chopped chives (if everyone likes the flavor), or finely chopped sweet basil. Blend well. Don't mix too many herbs or you lose the separate flavors.

A very special treat, best used only on a strenuous day hiking when the family appetite will be at its peak, is an old fashioned candy recipe, called Raisin Peanut Creams.

RAISIN PEANUT CREAMS

2 cups demerara sugar
¾ cup evaporated milk, undiluted
½ cup chopped raisins
¼ cup peanut butter.

Cook the sugar and milk to softball stage, or 240 degs. on a candy thermometer. Or drop a little into a cup of cold water for testing. When a soft ball is formed, remove from heat. Add raisins and peanut butter. Stir just to blend and let stand until lukewarm. Beat with wooden spoon until creamy; pour into a buttered pan, mark in small squares. Cool thoroughly.

Here again, limit the amount eaten by each child by putting out the one piece for each. They themselves will more than likely see that no-one gets two pieces!

Participating by the youngsters in the production of these snack foods also is a regulating factor. We all like to show off our skills, and we like to share the results with visitors.

Glassware Passes Test

OTTAWA (CP) — Tests of Duralex glassware show that the product lives up to its French manufacturer's claim of being unbreakable "99.9 per cent of the time," a spokesman for the consumer affairs department said.

W. J. Virtue of the department's product-safety branch said complaints had been received from consumers who reported the glassware exploded under certain conditions.

But he said no one had been seriously injured by the breaking glass although one person reported a minor eye abrasion. He estimated shattering may occur in one of every 100,000 pieces sold.

Duralex is essentially a heat-tempered glass about six times stronger than normal glass, Mr. Virtue said in an interview. It might be weakened by impurities at the time of manufacture or by deep surface scratches or cuts.

"When that happens, you can get a spontaneous shattering," he said.

The explosions had little force and the glass was less jagged than normal glass.

Thomas Spitzer, president of Montreal Interglass Corp. of Lachine, Que., Canadian distributor of the product, said the company received only a dozen complaints in the last year. During that time 35 million pieces of Duralex were sold.

Spitzer said a special quality-control test was set up about 18 months ago at the request of the consumer affairs department for all of the French manufacturer's goods destined for sale in Canada.

Virtue said department officials have visited the plants in France "and the company is doing what we asked." It would be impossible to regulate the quality of the glass at the import level.

"All we could do is ban all sales of the product and there is no basis for a ban," Mr. Virtue said. Meanwhile, the Consumers Association of Canada said it plans to start tests on Duralex in two or three weeks. Results probably would not be available until late summer.

When you feel a snack food is warranted, serve a nourishing, versatile homemade muesli (a Swiss type breakfast food). Liked by all ages, it is easy to put together. Let the children measure the ingredients and prepare them too.

Muesli is a dry crunchy granular food, to eat either dry with a spoon or with homemade yogurt or buttermilk. I suppose a little orange juice could be poured over it too, but the flavor conflicts with the nuttiness of the mixture. You can call it cereal if you prefer.

CRUNCHY CEREAL OR MUESLI:

1½ cups rolled oats

½ cup wheat germ

½ cup ground or chopped raw peanuts

½ cup shredded coconut (unsweetened)

3 Tbsp soy oil or soft margarine

2 tsp demerara or grated hard sugar

one-eighth tsp salt

Mix and spread one-half-inch deep in shallow glass dish or on cookie tray. Bake in 250 deg. oven until lightly golden, stirring occasionally as edges brown first. May take two to three hours, so put in a milk rice or macaroni milk pudding to bake at same time. Let cool thoroughly in dish. Store in glass jar with lid in refrigerator. Will keep a month if it gets the chance.

As another project get one child to make up a small glass jar of Herb Butter to spread on your Date Nut Muffins as part of a garden picnic. Use a fortified soft margarine which is easy to handle. Take about a quarter cup of margarine into a wide mouthed glass jar.

Soften the margarine with the fork; then add a teaspoon of chopped fresh parsley, a half teaspoon of chopped chives (if everyone likes the flavor), or finely chopped sweet basil. Blend well. Don't mix too many herbs or you lose the separate flavors.

A very special treat, best used only on a strenuous day hiking when the family appetite will be at its peak, is an old fashioned candy recipe, called Raisin Peanut Creams.

RAISIN PEANUT CREAMS

2 cups demerara sugar

¾ cup evaporated milk, undiluted

½ cup chopped raisins

¼ cup peanut butter.

Cook the sugar and milk to softball stage, or 240 degs. on a candy thermometer. Or drop a little into a cup of cold water for testing. When a soft ball is formed, remove from heat. Add raisins and peanut butter. Stir just to blend and let stand until lukewarm. Beat with wooden spoon until creamy; pour into a buttered pan, mark in small squares. Cool thoroughly.

Here again, limit the amount eaten by each child by putting out the one piece for each. They themselves will more than likely see that no-one gets two pieces!

Participating by the youngsters in the production of these snack foods also is a regulating factor. We all like to show off our skills, and we like to share the results with visitors.

Glassware Passes Test

OTTAWA (CP) — Tests of Duralex glassware show that the product lives up to its French manufacturer's claim of being unbreakable "99.9 per cent of the time," a spokesman for the consumer affairs department said.

W. J. Virtue of the department's product-safety branch said complaints had been received from consumers who reported the glassware exploded under certain conditions.

But he said no one had been seriously injured by the breaking glass although one person reported a minor eye abrasion. He estimated shattering may occur in one of every 100,000 pieces sold.

Duralex is essentially a heat-tempered glass about six times stronger than normal glass, Mr. Virtue said in an interview. It might be weakened by impurities at the time of manufacture or by deep surface scratches or cuts.

"When that happens, you can get a spontaneous shattering," he said.

The explosions had little force and the glass was less jagged than normal glass.

Thomas Spitzer, president of Montreal Interglass Corp. of Lachine, Que., Canadian distributor of the product, said the company received only a dozen complaints in the last year. During that time 35 million pieces of Duralex were sold.

Spitzer said a special quality-control test was set up about 18 months ago at the request of the consumer affairs department for all of the French manufacturer's goods destined for sale in Canada.

Virtue said department officials have visited the plants in France "and the company is doing what we asked." It would be impossible to regulate the quality of the glass at the import level.

"All we could do is ban all sales of the product and there is no basis for a ban," Mr. Virtue said. Meanwhile, the Consumers Association of Canada said it plans to start tests on Duralex in two or three weeks. Results probably would not be available until late summer.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.
Don't allow the reader to speculate.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you information you give are the have to offer; the details and most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call:

Stick With Old Parties—Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former Social Credit cabinet minister Robert Bonner said on the weekend the best way to defeat the New Democratic Party in British Columbia is for opposition forces to rally around an established political party.

Bonner, talking to reporters following a speech to the Canadian Construction Association's summer convention, did not specify which established party he meant.

He said that in order to defeat the NDP the 60 to 70 per cent of the people who opposed the NDP in the last provincial election would have to rally together around an established party. He said such a policy was "usually the most practical and effective way."

In his address, Bonner appealed to all sectors of society, but particularly businessmen, to speak out on issues and government policies in B.C. and Canada.

He told about 100 construction company representatives that when the knowledgeable people in society speak out they help shape the public consensus which "makes the democratic machine work."

But despite his call for political participation, the former B.C. attorney-general declined to speculate on his own political future in light of his recent acceptance of the chairmanship of a Social Credit policy-making workshop this fall.

He refused to say whether or not he would run in the next provincial election, stressing that he has been a private citizen for six years, during which time he hadn't renewed his Social Credit membership.

Bonner resigned as chairman of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. earlier this year and returned to a corporate law practice.

He said the Social Credit policy workshop this September will draw together both members and non-members of the party to discuss and formulate programs to oppose the "ill-conceived" policies of the Barrett government.

Indians United Against B.C.

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The Union of British Columbia Indian Councils has given full support to the Kamloops Indian band in a suit against the provincial government.

The band filed a writ before the Supreme Court of B.C. against the city of Kamloops for inclusion of portions of the band reserve within the city, an action of the province.

Harry Rankin, lawyer for the band, said after a meeting with local members Sunday, the case is a province-wide problem.

He said he would be trying to arrange a meeting with the provincial cabinet as soon as possible.

"We have not made any headway with Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer so we hope to try dealing with the whole Cabinet."

"This is a very important issue for the Indian People," Rankin said. "They feel that taxes taken from Indians and and non-Indians on reserve land should be given to the Indian council for further development of the reserve."

"The Kamloops case is a test case and will set the pace for other bands who have the same problem. We hope to see a definite change in provincial legislation."

OTTAWA LISTS UNSAFE BABY TEETHING RINGS

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer affairs department has released a list of fluid-filled baby teething rings it says are unsafe.

The department said in a news release that the models cited are being removed from store shelves. Families owning one should boil it for 15 minutes to kill the germs it contains. If it falls apart during the sterilization, they should throw it out.

Hair Rinse Firm In Lather

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Alberto-Culver Co. has filed a $7 million damage suit against an advertising agency and the Gillette Co., charging them with deceptive practices and libel in television commercials for a hair cream rinse.

The suit charged that J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency of Chicago and the Gillette Co. of Boston, Mass., prepared and used television commercials which "falsely described and misrepresent Gillette's Tame cream rinses and conditioners" in comparison with Alberto's Balsam products.

The suit also charged that the commercials falsely imply that the Alberto Balsam products leave the hair unclean while Tame products completely rinse away and leave hair clean.

The suit said the commercials falsely claim that Tame products contain no oil.

"In fact," the suit said, "all Tame and cream rinses and conditioners contain oil."

A hearing was set for Tuesday before U.S. District Court Judge James B. Parsons on a temporary restraining order to prevent the airing of the commercials.

Butler-Lafarge Strike Notice

Seventy-two hours strike notice has been served by Teamsters Union Local 213 against Butler-Lafarge of Victoria, union business agent Frank Peters said today.

He said the move followed rejection by 20 employees of a company offer. He declined to release details of the offer and said no new talks have been scheduled.

Two Die In Jail Riots

CLAIRVAUX, France (Reuter) — About 400 police stormed a prison to put down a riot by 200 convicts today and discovered the bodies of two men killed in fighting between prisoners.

Officials said one man had his throat cut and the other his head smashed open. A third man was seriously wounded with a knife in his back.

The trouble started when a prison officer intervened to stop a dispute between two prisoners. The prisoners smashed furniture, set fire to sections of the prisons and climbed onto the roofs.

NEW AIRFARES IN EFFECT

A 9.5 per cent increase in airline fares went into effect Sunday for all domestic flights.

Persons who bought tickets in advance to fly after July 21 will be liable for the extra charge.

A spokesman for Air Canada said few of its customers would be involved in the surcharge because it began charging the new rate in June in anticipation of government approval. CP Air began charging the new rate in July.

Both companies urged a check with the ticket office if in doubt about the validity of the ticket.

Air West Buys Two STOLs

Air West Airlines Ltd. announced today from Vancouver it has ordered two new Stol (short take-off and landing) aircraft for its runs between Vancouver Island communities and the lower mainland.

The planes, costing $2½ to $3 million each, will carry 48 passengers, and are expected to go into operation sometime in 1977.

They are being built by de Havilland Aircraft in Toronto. The company is in partnership with the federal government in developing Stol aircraft for a world-wide market.

An Air West spokesman said the four engine prop-jet aircraft will be able to land on 2,000 foot runways, less than a third of the distance required for conventional aircraft of the same size.

The planes are planned primarliy for downtown Vancouver to downtown Victoria use. The establishment of new routes would be contingent upon new runways being built in the core section of each city, the spokesman said.

"We are hoping the need will be proven in the next three to four years," he said.

At present, Air West opreate 14 flights a day between Victoria and Vancouver using the amphibious Twin Otter.

"We are limited to only flying during daylight hours now," the spokesman said. "However, with the Stol we could operate on a 24-hour-a-day basis if need be."

He said the Stols will have special noise abatement equipment.

"It's the speed of the propellor that produces the noise," the spokesman explained." With the Stol the propellors have been increased in length to 18 feet from tip to tip and the speed reduced to half the normal, from about 2,200 rpm to 1,150."

Peonies' Beauty Increases As Years Go Rushing By

Not many gardeners think about peony plants after the blooms drop, yet they should be considered as garden decoration from early May to early October.

Five months beauty annually is worth three months watering and two meals a year. The return far exceeds the care expended, for peonies will flourish on these attentions for 20 years or longer without being moved or divided.

The fact is, a really mature planting of peonies increases in beauty as the years rush by. Their main enemy may be a tree or tall shrub growing up in their vicinity, eventually cutting off the supply of sunlight required to successful blooming.

Or a tall building may rise overnight with an even more complete blocking of sunlight.

Apart from these catastrophies, peonies will repay watering at the roots from early June to the end of August by maintaining the health and beauty of their ornamental leaves. A quarter cup of general fertilizer to each large plant just as flowering finishes not only keeps the leaves growing but furnishes food for the fine roots to take into the thick tubers as storage. Bonemeal in October will be slowly availby spring, so give a handful when cleaning up the old leaves at that time.

The continued watering during summer is necessary to take the fertilizer in as a solution. The work of the leaves transposes the food into usable chemicals.

Without summer watering, the dry fertilizer remains in the soil until fall and winter rains dissolve it and wash it away. In the winter soil water, the fertilizer may find its way to the roots of nearby evergreen plants which respond unfavorably in winter mild spells by putting out soft new shoots to be subsequently killed by frost.

Peony foliage of some varieties, the lovely singles for instance, is particularly handsome. Leaflets are finely dissected and coloring rich in shades of bronze, rose, russet, and gold. Even the early Paeonia officinalis in double red and double pink develops good coloring in their more simple leaf pattern if watered in summer.

Chrysanthemums (spray type) and fall asters (the perennial Michaelmas-daisies) blend their tints and tones with the rosy bronze foliage of certain peony varieties. Even the tall Canadian Goldenrod grown in gardens here shows off as a cut flower more effectively when accompanied by peony leaves.

You do not harm the peony roots by beginning to cut off leaves by the end of August, for the short dormant period commences about September 15, lasting only about four weeks to October 15. During that one month is the ideal time to lift, divide and replant peony tuberous roots, if this is needed.

SOLUTION TUESDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Two Californians who were rabid in their belief that Los Angeles was the best of all possible worlds, were having lunch during a violent rainstorm in their fair city. They watched the torrential downpour in embarrassed silence. Finally one of them said to the other: "Bill, some terrible weather blows in from Nevada. doesn't it?"

At the bridge table, it is not an uncommon occurrence to see one partner criticize the other for an allegedly bad bid or bad play. Later, after sober reflection and analysis, it is perceived that the critic was the one at fault. Today's deal is a case in point.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♡.

Upon winning the opening heart lead with his king, South cashed the ace and king of trumps. Luck was on his side, for he gathered in the four outstanding pieces. Hoping that spades were also divided favorably (3-3), or that one of the opponents possessed either the doubleton Q-x or 10-x, he next led the ace, king, and nine of spades. As is evident, East took two spade tricks with his ten and queen.

At the conclusion of play, South criticized North for the latter's overly-aggressive bidding. He had a point, but the fact is that South should have fulfilled his slam contract.

After winning the opening lead South should have cashed the ace and king of spades immediately. If he caught either the queen or ten, trumps could then be drawn. A spade would next be given away, for declarer's only loser.

In the actual deal, however, neither the queen nor ten would fall. Declarer would now have no choice but to lead a third spade, which East would capture with the ten. Presumably a trump would then be led, South's ace winning. Declarer's fourth spade would now be trumped. The remainder of the tricks would belong to declarer, since the king of trumps would catch East's queen.

Thus, with luck and skill combining, declarer would have made his slam. But, instead, he chose to criticize his partner for bidding too much.

Alan was examining the little charm. "A kalotan korbal, eh?" he commented. "Many thanks, but can you spare it?"

"Sure, I got plenty. They were cheap enough, 49 cents each the green and 45 cents the gold," replied Sam. "But there was something about the total. The dollars were the same as the number of gold I bought, and the cents as many as the number of greens."

How many of each did he buy?

Jockey Jorge Velasguez said he knew where Miss Musket was until the half-mile pole, then "she disappeared, or we disappeared."

His horse, Chris Evert, a three-year-old filly called the queen of the east in the United States, defeated Miss Musket by 50 lengths Saturday in a $350,000 winner-take-all match race.

Miss Musket, rated as the best western U.S. filly, appeared to bolt coming out of the gate and never figured after that. Her jockey, Laffit Pincay, pulled her up well before the finish line when it was apparent she could not win.

Chris Evert, named after the tennis star, ran the 1¼ miles in two minutes and two seconds at Hollywood Park in Inglewood, Calif.

Chris Evert returned $3.40 in the win-only wagering. Her owner, Catl Rosen, a Boston clothing manufacturer, and Aaron Jones of Eugene, Ore., owner of Miss Musket, each put up $100,000 and Hollywood Park threw in $150,000 to make it the richest of all match races.

At the same track, DiMaggio won the $132,000 Hollywood juvenile championship in his fifth start as a two-year-old. The horse was ridden by Pincay, who won in a photo finish and survived an inquiry. The Bagel Prince was second and George Navoned third.

At Vancouver's Exhibition Park, Jack Diamond's Battling Craig held off 1-to-2 favorite Sea Reason to win the $15,000-added Ascot Stakes.

Sea Reason, surprisingly taking up the chase instead of laying back when Battling Craig took the lead halfway through the mile and three-eights race, finished third. Trustwood, moving into the stakes ranks after three straight allowance victories, charged well in the stretch to take second place.

Elsewhere, True Knight defeated Forego with a strong stretch run to take the $114.800 Suburban Handicap at Acqueduct Park in New York . . . Sherby won the $58,450 Minutemen Handicap at Philadelphia . . . Northern Fling, a four-year-old son of Canadian-bred Northern Dancer, took the $38,550 Longfellow Handicap at Oceanport, N.J. . . . COUP RUMORED IN ATHENS

Bombs After Deadline

Times News Services

Turkish planes were still dropping bombs in Cyprus following the ceasefire deadline agreed on by both Turkey and Greece, the United Nations Security Council was told today by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Walkheim said Turkish planes struck at Nicosia airport after the 10 a.m. EDT dealine and that one bomb had hit a UN installation, wounding a British soldier.

As the fighting econtinued for the third day, concentrated along the northern coast, there were radio reports out of the Turkish capital of Ankara that Greek military officers had staged a coup against the Athens regime and arrested strongman Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ionnides.

Three hours before the ceasefire deadline, Turkey was reported flying in fresh troops, and two hours later the deadline, Turkey's armed forces general staff indicated that some bombing might continue.

At the deadline, monitors in Beirut, Lebanon, heard the Greek Greek-Cypriot radio broadcast orders for the Greek-Cypriots to stop shooting.

Earlier in the day both Greece and Turkey announced their forces on Cyprus would observe the United Nations sponsored ceasefire.

And in London, Foreign Secretary James Callaghan announced the two countries have ageeed to meet with Britain in Geneva to discuss a new Cyprus peace settlement.

The Turkish general staff in Ankara claimed Greek-Cypriots were slaughtering Turksih-Cypriots in the areas of Paphos in the western part of the island in Lefka in the north.

The general staff said that unless this stopped, the Turkish air force would bomb the areas heavily.

In a censored dispatch from Nicosia an Associated Press correspondent said Turkey had landed massive reinforcements by sea and air on the north coast as fighting raged for control of strategic areas.

Heavy pre-deadline fighting was reported around the seaport of Kyrenia where witnesses said at least 12 Turkish air force C-47 transport planes dropped a new wave of paratroopers on the beaches. Other troops charged out of amphibious landing vessels and from at least 30 helicopters.

The witnesses said they saw at least seven Turkish naval vessels lying off shore. Some five of them were in the destroyer class and one was a large troop carrier which discharged at least four landing boats.

There was no immediate confirmation of the reported coup from the Reuters news agency correspondent in Athens, who had earlier denied news agency reports that tanks were moving on the capital.

The Ankara radio report, said the coup had been led by a Gen. Davos and that Gen. Joannides, strongman of the army-backed Greek regime, had been detained. It said the Greek head-of-state, Gen. Phaedon Gizikis, was "trying to calm the people."

The reports quoted by the radio, which originated in Belgrade, said troops had surrounded Athens today.

In London, Callaghan said he had won agreement from the Turkish and Greek leaders to attend the proposed tripartite talks.

Callaghan told Parliament the Greek foreign minister informed him today of his willingness to attend the proposed conference with Britain and Turkey.

"This afternoon the prime minister of Turkey has indicated his agreement with Geneva as the meeting place," Callaghan said.

"I trust these talks will begin either tomorrow or Wednesday," he added.

Callaghan said he had continuous discussins throughout the weekend with U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and separate talks with the Turkish and Greek leaders.

"A great deal has to be done to ensure the return of constitutional rule in Cyprus which was destroyed last Monday and to devise arrangements which will produce the necessary confidence among all concerned that this willl be maintained in future," he said.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Sunday the United Nations peacekeeping forces in Cyprus will not withdraw from the island "at this time."

The UN forces, including the 480-troop Canadian contingent, were performing "a useful function" on the strife-torn island.

Sharp added that the Canadian contingent was doing "very fine work." The troops had worked to stop the spread of fighting and helped to achieve local ceasefires on the island.

He confirmed reports that nine Canadian soldiers had been wounded but said there were no severe injuries.

Meanwhile, Canadian civilians in the Cyprus capital, Nicosia, were being evacuated to Dhekelia in the south of the island.

7 Held In Brawl

Seven youths were arrested and an RCMP officer injured after a Metchosin baseball diamond turned into a battlefield Sunday.

Const. Bill Biden received a cut ear which required seven stitches.

Sgt. Ted Foster of Colwood said today the young people had been playing in an unorganized game about 6 p.m. at Dunsmuir School, 3341 Painter.

While questioning one player, several others interfered and Biden was knocked to the ground and kicked, Foster said.

Two persons living near the school called police, who sent two Colwood and four Saanich officers to the scene.

The fight was over by the time the Saanich officers arrived.

One of the arrested persons who had been handcuffed escaped from a police cruiser with the aid of a woman, Foster said, but he was recaptured.

Appearing in court this morning, on various charges of obstructing and assaulting a police officer and possession of liquor in a public place, were: Wayne Boldo, 22, of 318 Benhommer; Daniel Makow, 20, of 4075 Metchosin; Patrick Heslop, 19, and David Heslop, 21, of 1321 Sussex; John Heslop, 22, of 1340 Sussex; Reginald Wall, 18, of 487 Dressler; Terry Lee, 18, of Belmont Auto Court.

They were remanded to July 29 for plea.

Glycol Snapped At $10 Gallon

Panic-buying in anti-freeze has reached Victoria, pushing the price to nearly $10 a gallon from a high of $4.85 last winter.

Woolco Department Store has sold 200 gallons in the past week at $9.97 a gallon and expects to quickly sell its remaining stock of 800 gallons at that price.

"When it's gone, I don't think we will be getting any more at all," Woolco automobile centre manager Gordon Kawecki said today.

"We don't expect to get another order even for winter. We have been told that we should not expect any more. At this time last year we had a good supply and it was on sale at $1.99 a gallon."

The sudden escalation in price is due to warnintgs of a possible shortage due to a scarcity of ethylene glycol, a key ingredient.

The two major Canadian manufacturers of anti-freeze, Dow and Union Carbide, say they expect sporadic shortages across the country this winter but are hopeful of supplying most of the demand.

They said motorists should not have to pay more than $8.50 per gallon for anti-freeze this year.

However, dealers in Vic-

New Leases Scare Seniors

Many elderly tenants of the Orchard House highrise apartment in James Bay are moving out because they are anxious about tenure and feel "intimidated" by the owner's offer of 99-year leases on their suites, The Times learned today.

A spokesman for the tenants, who preferred not to have her name mentioned, said 21 tenants of the 210-suite building have given notice since June 1 and none had intended to move.

Despite reassurances from the tenants' committee, she said, tenants are "frightened and bewildered" as to their future, and their rights if they choose to decline the lease offer.

In many cases the residents are refugees from the strata title conversion of other apartments, including Bickerton Court, and they are afraid that they will have to move yet again, she said.

The woman said she has written to Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen and Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson, seeking official assurance that tenants are not obliged to vacate if they reject the lease offer.

In the letter to Pollen, she says a rumor circulating the building since the end of May was confirmed July 8 when copies of an unsigned, undated letter from Pacific Strata Services Ltd. were received by most tenants.

The circular letter begins: "As we expect you are aware, long-term leases are now available in Orchard House, but this in no way changes the month-to-month tenancies of present occupants.

"Pacific Strata Services Ltd., as agent for the owner, is preparing a program for the sale of long-term leases on all vacant suites and these will, of course, be available to present tenants. Tenants may leases on the suites that they also purchase long-term are currently occupying."

The woman spokesman told the Times that despite the firm's assurances concerning maintenance of existing tenancies, there has been a tendency for "rumor to feed on rumor" resulting in growing doubts and suspicion.

As she put it in her letter to Pollen: "Since then (July 8) tenants have been inclined to panic and move to whatever other accommodation they could find, thus playing into the hands of the landlord.

"The majority of tenants here are retired and many 65 and over. One can therefore understand their reluctance to live with an axe hanging over their heads."

In her suite today, and with a neighboring tenant supporting her stand, she said she would like to imbue tenants with a "fighting" spirit and encourage them not to panic.

She said the 99-year leases are absurdly high, and even if the term or price didn't deter elderly tenants they would find it a far better proposition to move into a new condominium, where suites were generally larger and better than the Orchard House units.

She said the figures quoted by the firm range from $21,700 for a studio suite on the 12th floor to $45,000 for a two-bedroom suite on the 17th.

The terms of the offer require a minimum $5,000 down-payment with the remainder carried on a mortgage at 10 per cent over 30 years.

IT'S TOUGH TO WIN $500,000

TORONTO (CP) — In Horatio Alger's stories, the poor but honest hero always adjusted perfectly to sudden riches, but it appears to be more difficult in real life.

Last week, Jim MacLean, a 26-year-old printer, had $53 in the bank, and his telephone had been cut off because he was unable to pay his $160 bill.

Last Tuesday, he won $500,000 in the Olympic lottery.

His financial record now impeccable, he was welcomed at his bank and with a loan and an extended credit-card allowance, went on a shopping spree, spent $1,200 on clothes and traded in his Volkswagen on a $4,800 Dodge Charger.

Then, off to Montreal to claim the prize—and all the headaches that go with it.

How to handle all that money?

Where should it be invested? What interest rate? What about the family? Will it change me?

All those questtions and more went through Mr. MacLean's mind.

"I feel excited all the time now," he said in a weekend interview. "I can't sit still."

"You're young, if you invest never have to use it," he said. your capital properly, you'll "But you'll have to be careful."

Mr. Cote told tthe winner to shop around for the highest interest rate he can get.

When Mr. MacLean said he had been offered 10¾ per cent by his bank manager, Mr. Cote urged him to be tough.

"That's when you were sitting on the other side of the table," Mr. Cote said. "Now you're in the driver's seat."

"Call up the other banks and say: 'Boys, I have $500,000 for five years. How much are you going to give me?'"

Then, Mr. Cote offered a list of accountants from across the country, suggesting the winner hire a firm to handle his income taxes, leaving the choice of a lawyer until he entered business deals.

70,000 Homeless

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — About 70,000 people have been left homeless and a further 700,000 affected by floods in Assam in north-eastern India, reports indicated. Crops over hundreds of square miles have been damaged by the third round of floods since the monsoon season began last month.

EARMUFFS that permit normal speech and noise levels to be heard, yet cut out any excessive noise above a present level were introduced recently in London, England. The ear defender muffs have a built-in controlled sound transmission channel comprising a microphone-amplifier-earphone combination, arranged so that they reproduce normal speech intensities but will not pass very high noise levels to the ears. Each ear is supplied via a signal channel that is independent of the other enabling the wearer to determine the direction of sound.

CHICAGO (AP) — Farm commodity futures rallied late on the Board of Trade today after early selling had sent soybeans, corn and soybean oil futures to limit declines.

The rally set in after July options had expired at noon. There appeared to be no particular outside influence at work on the rising prices, but as prices advanced much short covering developed.

Some selling came early on reports of rain in the Midwest on a somewwhat bearish soybeans crush report. The National Corn Growers Association, however, said it had conducted a survey that indicated this year's corn production might be as low as 5.518 billion bushels compared to the government's estimate of 5.950 to 6.350, on the basis of July 1 conditions.

At the close, soybeans were 2 to 8½ cents higher, August 7.52; Chicago wheat 7 lower to 6 higher, September 4.47; Gulf wheat 5 lower, September 4.55b; corn 1 to 6 lower, September 3.27; oats unchanged to 1¾ lower, September 1.70¼.

TORONTO (CP) — International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. reports profit for the six months to June 30 of $153.3 million or $2.06 a share, up more than 65.7 per cent from $92.5 million or $1.24 a share in the corresponding period a year earlier. Inco reports in U.S. funds.

Sales for the half year totalled $741.8 million against $534.4 million a year earlier.

First-Half Texaco Income Up

TORONTO (CP) — Texaco Canada Ltd. reports first-half earnings 22.5 per cent higher than for the corresponding period last year.

Earnings for the six months to June 30 were $30,794,000 or $3.16 a share compared with $25,152,000 or $2.58 a share in 1973.

Texaco said all phases of the company's operations contributed to the improvement in earnings.

Money Merely 'Scorekeeper'

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Richardson Securities of Canada's highest paid salesman lives in Charlottetown and to him "money is the way we keep score."

Stockbroker David Hyndman, 33, says: "The stock market is my life. I enjoy it. It's a fascinating game. I look forward to coming into the office every morning."

It may surprise some people to find the company's best salesman in this quiet capital, but Hyndman says: "I have no wish to go to Toronto or Montreal. They are no place to raise kids. The only reason I would go there is for the challenge, nothing else."

A graduate of King's College in Windsor, N.S., and the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, he says he worked "damn hard" when he started five years ago.

It was not unusual for him to work day and night all week.

"I was lucky. Some of my first clients recommended me to their friends."

He has the confidence of some of P.E.I.'s most influential potato growers, a confidence shared by his company.

"They allow me to spend more," he says, "they allow me to call New York and Chicago when I want to. "When I phone a client I have to be able to give him my opinion on whether he should buy or sell. My opinion is formed on the opinion of our research experts, the stock exchange, my clients, and the news and other factors.

"You have to separate the wheat from the chaff."

Although he handles regular stocks, most of Hyndman's business transactions are done on the speculative side, namely potatoes.

"Most of my clients have a speculative urge. They have the money. Farming is the avenue they make money to invest in the market."

Depending on the season, he may handle thousands of dollars a day.

"Spring and fall is when trading is the heaviest. Farmers want to know how the planting and harvesting are. That's when it gets hectic."

The pressure does not bother him. "I have always been interested in financial matters. When I was a kid, I read every book I could get my hands on. There aren't too many I haven't read."

The market "is my niche in life. I couldn't leave it. If I were to retire, I would always be here. I'd go crazy if I weren't."

Kaiser Claims Credit

VANCOUVER (CP) — Kaiser Resources Ltd. Monday reported consolidated net earnings of $5,652,000 in the second quarter of 1974, including an extraordinary income tax credit of $3,419,000 from application of tax losses carried forward, on sales of $35.5 million.

The results are equivalent to 24 cents per share based on a weighted average of 24 million shares outstanding during the period, including 14 cents per share from the extraordinary item.

For the second quarter of 1973, the company had consolidated net earnings of $1,238,000, equivalent to 12 cents per share based on a weighted average of 10 million shares outstanding during the period, on sales of $28 million.

Those results included foreign exchange gains of $963,000 resulting primarily from retirement of U.S. dollar debt, and extraordinary income of $400,000 from application of tax losses carried forward.

Edgar F. Kaiser, Jr., president and chief executive officer, said the improvement in earnings for the second quarter over the comparable period last year is attributable primarily to higher coal prices under the company's long-term sales contracts and reduced interest costs resulting from debt repayments. The price the company receives for coking coal shipped to Japan increased by $5 per long ton, effective June 1.

On June 14 the company prepaid $6.4 million of debt reducing the total debt outstanding at June 30 to $45.6 million.

Three Firms To Seek Oil In Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — Three American oil companies have signed $53.5 million worth of agreements for oil exploration in Egyptian territory. A total of 4,788 square miles will be explored.

The companies, Union Oil, Amoco and Mobil, also agreed to pay a total of $14 million in bonuses to Egypt with signature of the agreement. They also will provide production assistance of $27 million.

Mobil will spend $21½ million over eight years looking for oil in a 903-square-mile area. It will pay $6 million as a signature bonus and $12 million if oil is discovered.

Ameoc received an offshore concession south of Ras Ghareb in the Suez Gulf. The company agreed to invest $2 million in the work over two years, to pay a $3-million signature bonus within 30 days and a $5 million production bonus.

Union Oil of California will explore a 3,846-square-mile concession in the Benas area along the Red Sea coast and spend $30 million over 10 years. The company agreed to pay a $5-million signature bonus and a $10-million production bonus.

Under all three agreements, Egypt will take 80 per cent of the production once oil is found in commercial quantities.

Egyptian Oil Minister Ahmed Hilal said Egypt will give concessions to several more American and European oil companies, after ratification by parliament.

Thoughts on Adventure Or Why I Ain't A-Going

Comes a time in the life of every man, I suppose, when the call to adventure, once a trumpet blast, becomes so muted that it's hard to hear even with an ear-trumpet.

That time seems to have come to me. To tell you the truth I don't know whether to weep or laugh.

The adventure in my life at this red hot moment is limited to painting the kitchen ceiling in something called Light Caprice Yellow which strikes me as pretty daring. But it's been a week when I've been constantly reminded of what a clod I've become.

For one thing the Haighs — Ernest and Val — are back from their five-year circumnavigation of the globe in their 45-foot sailing trimaran, Tryste. They visited no less than 21 different countries. We've been hearing all sorts of exotic stories about their experiences.

Time was when such yarns would get the adrenalin pumping rather furiously in my veins. Now I just feel a curious lassitude. Indeed, I had just spent an evening hearing about the Haigh's adventures — and had progressed to the kitchen walls (Ramona Green) — when the mailman brought me the missive that causes today's true confession.

The letter was from my old friend, Mark Gibson, the Montreal writer and photographer, an inveterate searcher of life's thrills, who, it seems, has himself purchased a sailing boat and plans to venture under canvas down the St. Lawrence, thence to the Panama Canal and then north to Vancouver.

"I realize that you are probably getting somewhat long in the tooth," he writes (we are, in fact, exactly the same age), "but if you want to sign on as cook and first mate the position is open. Break those chains, man. Time is running out on both of us."

I gave it some thought, all of 45 seconds, but down deep I knew I wouldn't be going and, what's more, that I didn't really want to go all that much. Not so long ago I'd have idealized it all quite madly, pictured the glinting seas and the warm sun and swimming in the blue lagoon at Acapulco, but now I was just thinking only of hidden reefs and hungry sharks and sudden hurricanes. I did not say it in my declining letter to Mark, but clearly the time has come to hang up your dreams when reality intrudes on fancy.

True adventurers, I suppose, are more apt to be born than made. I've chronicled the stories of a good many of them. Almost always they've turned out to be men (or, occasionally, women) who were clearly fated for lives of excitement and fierce challenge, just as some men are fated to paint kitchens.

The appetite, itself, is there with most of us. I daresay if you could gaze with X-ray eyes into the skulls of any bus-load of stony-faced commuters going into the city each morning, those apparently most dutiful and dull of the world's male species, you'd find them full of fantasies. The deeper a man gets into a rut the more he's apt to reflect on what life might be like out of it.

There have been, of course, instances when this imagery was powerful enough to be translated into action. I remember an old police court reporter named Dennis Clarke who dreamed of soft seas and soft maidens in Tahiti and astonished us all by actually going there, though I've heard that, like Gauguin, he died a rather horrible death soon afterwards. But usually that lust for adventure remains permanently bottled and, like champagne of great age, eventually goes sour.

Even when it is attempted it will fail miserably if the person is not truly of the adventurous breed, like the Haighs.

The saddest misfit I ever met was a Torontonian in the Mexican resort of Mazatlan who'd rather courageously acted on the cerebral whimsy that "going native" would be the way to a carefree life. He was sick. He hated the dirt that was part of the price of his beach-comber's existence. He was purposeless and plagued by the guilt of it. In short, he couldn't take the adventure when it became the truth.

Strikes me, too, that those who seek challenge are very often on an ego trip, that many of the people you see standing on the summit of the highest peaks or rafting the worst rapids are there mainly to say, "Wow! Look at me!" I strongly suspect, looking back on my own adventures, that that was the real motivation. If it was that may explain why it's now so easy to give it up.

It does me no good to make the confession, but there it is. I must find my consolation in the fact that any man who would combine Light Caprice Yellow with Ramona Green is living just a little bit dangerously.

Sunday Was One Of Those Days...

Sunday was no ordinary day for K. C. Clarke, 860 Rockheights.

Vandals stole $19 from his office and fire did its best to take the rest.

Clarke was called to office at 497 Garbally about 8 a.m. by police who reported that vandals had broken a door window, gained entry to the office and stolen $19.

He swallowed that piece of luck, repaired the door with a piece of plywood and left, only to be called back 20 minutes later when fire broke out in the office causing $5,000 damage.

Fire department spokesmen said the blaze started in a carton at the front door. The cause is still under investigation.

Cause of that fire hasn't yet been determined, but deputy Victoria fire chief Carl Coates reports there was no damage.

Playing the Art Market Pays Big Dividends

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

There's a story about a Vancouver man who phoned an art gallery and bought three Toni Onley paintings at $600 apiece, sight unseen.

When they were delivered to his home he put them in his safe and locked it.

Today, about a year later, each painting by the B.C. artist is worth $750.

The story may be apocryphal but it says something about the state of the art business in B.C. today.

There's a lot of money in it.

British Columbia's artistic geniuses are not starving in attics selling their paintings for a few dollars to pay the grocery bill.

If they're good, and sometimes even if they're not, today's artists see their works rise in price every year, at rates that far outstrip the national inflation rate.

Paul Wong, a Vancouver art dealer in contemporary art, states flatly that the painting of any artist he represents will be worth 20 per cent more in a year, and could more than double in value.

Art is a safer investment than the stock market these days, Wong said in an interview.

Any painting his gallery sells can easily be resold by the buyer, never at a loss and almost always for a profit, he said.

Wong tells of selling a painting by Group of Seven painter Lauren Harris for $300 in 1958. Today, he said, that painting would be worth a minimum of $50,000.

Illyas Pagonis, Art Gallery of Greater Victoria curator, said he ordered some prints by American artist Andy Warhol last year at $3,000 each.

By the time the prints arrived, two months later, they were worth $7,000, he said.

A Victoria family this spring sold an early Emily Carr painting at an auction for $27,000. While she lived Carr herself never made that kind of money, and had to support herself by running a boarding house.

The situation is largely a matter of demand far exceeding supply.

A resurgence in interest in Canadian culture has brought Canadian art works in great demand by the public. At the same time, both provincial and federal governments compete strongly in the market for paintings.

Add to that galleries and corporations building up art collections.

But the artists in demand can't step up their production to meet the demand, unless they become blatantly commercializd. A good artist can't really do more than 100 paintings a year, said Wong.

One international artist that success has affected is Salvador Dali, according to local art dealer Brian Klassen.

"A lot of his things are getting very commercial," Klassen said. He said he considers paintings by local artists like Bruce Crawford a better investment than a Dali lithograph, which the famous artist now turns out by the hundreds.

The thing that really makes art prices jump is the death of the artist, Wong said. That doubles the value of all his works in no time.

A painting by Jack Shadbolt, at 65 B.C.'s best-known living artist, today sells for $5,000, which Wong considers amazingly low for a man of Shadbolt's stature. The reason — he's still alive and painting.

Of course Shadbolt's paintings have doubled in price in about the last year, Wong said.

Another area that is a sure-bet investment if you know what to buy is antiques.

Local antique dealer Peter Cotton recently bought back for $400 a chair he had sold a man for $200 several years ago.

Cotton said he knows people who have bought antiques strictly as an investment, but said most who buy them like them so much they can never bear to sell them again.

"Right now early clocks are being very sought after," he said. This pushes up the prices, and Cotton has old clocks on sale for close to $700.

Quest Gets Boat

Former Sooke teacher Tom Dykes will make his third attempt to send a boatload of students on a field trip along the B.C. coast in September.

And this time, he swears, nothing but the boat sinking or a world-wide depression will stop him.

Dykes heads Project Quest, a non-profit society that twice has tried, and failed, to organize eight-day cruises along the coastline to Alaska for high school students.

This time, he said he's got the money and the boat—and nothing to stop him. The boat is the Edgewater Fortune from New Westminster.

The 11-day trip is scheduled to start Sept. 15, with 40 high school students from Saanich school district and Eugene, Oregon on board.

Ten faculty members, including teachers from both districts, people from the University of Victoria, Provincial Museum, University of Oregon and other places are also going.

They include a geographer, biologist, historian, anthropologist and artists who will make the trip an interdisciplinary experience.

Students will learn about marine life, see different resource industries along the way, and study communities as large as Vancouver and as small as Bella Bella.

On the boat they'll help prepare meals and learn something about seamanship by watching and helping out the crew.

The trip will be filmed as a record for other trips.

Dykes said he can "sink a bloody battleship" with the letters he's received priasiing the idea of the cruise, but could find no organization willing to help support the first one.

The two previous attempts, one in May and the first the previous spring, were to charter the Princess Patricia and take 300 students at a time.

Projhect Quest has been given use of an empty store in the Mayfair Shopping Centre by Mayfair owners and Dykes has set up an information display about the cruise for the public.

CRUSHED CANS — 15 tons of them — are loaded into rail car at regional recycling depot in Saanich by Tracy Yeend, 14. They will travel by barge to Seattle where they will fetch about $30 a ton, money used to help finance the recycling program. Regional depots collect about 70 tons a year. Cans, cleaned, stripped of labels and flattened, can be brought to depot at Borden and McKenzie Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Irving Strickland photo.)

BULLDOZER HITS MAN

A 48-year-old construction worker is in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital after he was struck by a bulldozer this morning at a Donald Street construction site in Saanich.

Police report Rennie Scott, 1334 Pembroke, was shovelling earth when a rock got stuck in the tread of a nearby bulldozer, throwing it off course and against Scott.

Severance Pay, But Jobs Kept

About 360 employees at the federal Veterans' Hospital will receive severance pay — a week's salary for each full year of service — when ownership of the hospital is transferred to the province next month.

But the employees, while technically being laid off, won't lose any work because they are being transferred along with the hospital to provincial jurisdiction. Many will be earning higher provincial rates of pay for doing the same work.

They would have received the severance pay sooner or later in any event, he said, because it is payable at retirement.

The contract provides severance pay of two week's salary for the first year and a week's pay for each additional full year in the event of layoff or at retirement.

Employees look upon the severance pay feature of their contracts as one of the accumulating benefits they earn over years of service, he said.

If they quit, the contract calls for a half-week's salary in severance pay for each full year of service.

The employees at Veterans are being technically laid off because there is no other machinery to complete this sort of move, the spokesman said.

The severance pay feature is common to all jobs in the federal civil service and employees at Veterans are coming under contracts that do not currently have such a benefit, he added.

The same severance pay situation prevails at Shaughnessy Hospital in Vancouver, where the transfer from federal to provincial jurisdiction takes place in a week.

Federal veterans' hospitals across Canada are in the process of being turned over to the provinces or already have been in recent years.

Cabinet Okays Spectrum

Approval was granted by cabinet order today for construction of Spectrum Community Secondary School for $3.7 million, to be repaid within the next 25 years by Greater Victoria School District.

The cabinet order sanctions borrowing of $3 million for the building, $112,000 for the site, $205,000 for equipment and $335,500 for fees and contingencies.

The cabinet also approved a change in expenditures for Saanich School District in its 1974 building program. The amount of spending for North Saanich Elementary-Junior School was increased from $240,000 to $256,000 and for Beaver Lake Elementary School, spending is reduced to $8,300 from $28,300.

The total outlay remains the same at $421,600 and eliminates work at Bradley Dyne Elementary and the school board offices.

Sex Killings Don't Dim Lure of the Open Road

Young people who line the roads leading out of and into Victoria, smiles on and thumbs out, are not about to give up their "cheap, easy and interesting" way of travel because of warnings that it may be dangerous.

Hitch-hikers interviewed in Victoria agreed that Attorney-General Alex Macdonald's warning was something to consider, but all said they would not give up hitching.

Macdonald said last week he is in favor of an education program to warn the public of the dangers. His warning came as a result of the recent sex slayings of seven young B.C. women along provincial highways. Some of the women had been hitch-hiking.

"I think it's kind of like locking up everything you own — if you're always going to be paranoid about things like this, then you're really not going to have much of a life," said Lisa McMinning, 18, of Regina.

Lisa and a friend, Janice Orley, 17, also of Regina, were standing thumbs out, at the entrance to the Trans-Canada Highway Friday afternoon. On their way to Long Beach after a one-day stay in Victoria, they had both heard about the murders and Macdonald's warning.

"We heard a lot of people talking about it in a hostel we stayed at in Vancouver, but it didn't seem to really bother anyone and it doesn't really bother me," McMinning said.

Both girls said they had had occasional invitations out for dinner or a drink from men who had picked them up," but most people are really friendly and they stop for you because they probably hitched themselves sometime," Orley said.

"I guess I hitch because it's cheap and you get to know an area better and meet more people," she said.

Mary Stanley, 22, of Vernon and a student at University of B.C., and Jack Mclintock, 24, of Vancouver, also a UBC student, were on their way back to Vancouver after staying with friends in Victoria.

Neither had heard about the murders or the warning, but both said they wouldn't give up hitching.

"I haven't really heard anything about this thing, but why should only one person who's doing these things all of a sudden make everybody think they're going to get killed," Stanley said.

She admitted it was easier to get rides when she was hitching by herself or with another girl, but said nothing "really bad" had ever happened to her.

"Sure I've had some guys say some stupid things to me, but if you're not expecting that to happen at least once, then you shouldn't be hitching.

"My parents will be really worried when they hear about these murders, but sure, I'll keep on hitching. it's the only way to go."

She said her main reason for travelling by thumb was the "simplest in the world — I get bus sick."

COUP RUMORED IN ATHENS

Bombs After Deadline

Times News Services

Turkish planes were still dropping bombs in Cyprus following the ceasefire deadline agreed on by both Turkey and Greece, the United Nations Security Council was told today by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Walkheim said Turkish planes struck at Nicosia airport after the 10 a.m. EDT deadline and that one bomb had hit a UN installation, wounding a British soldier.

As the fighting ccontinued for the third day, concentrated along the northern coast, there were radio reports out of the Turkish capital of Ankara that Greek military officers had staged a coup against the Athens regime and arrested strongman Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ionnides.

Three hours before the ceasefire deadline, Turkey was reported flying in fresh troops, and two hours later the deadline, Turkey's armed forces general staff indicated that some bombing might continue.

At the deadline, monitors in Beirut, Lebanon, heard the Greek Greek-Cypriot radio broadcast orders for the Greek-Cypriots to stop shooting.

Earlier in the day both Greece and Turkey announced their forces on Cyprus would observe the United Nations sponsored ceasefire.

And in London, Foreign Secretary James Callaghan announced the two countries have ageeed to meet with Britain in Geneva to discuss a new Cyprus peace settlement.

The Turkish general staff in Ankara claimed Greek-Cypriots were slaughtering Turkish-Cypriots in the areas of Paphos in the western part of the island in Lefka in the north.

The general staff said that unless this stopped, the Turkish air force would bomb the areas heavily.

In a censored dispatch from Nicosia an Associated Press correspondent said Turkey had landed massive reinforcements by sea and air on the north coast as fighting raged for control of strategic areas.

Heavy pre-deadline fighting was reported around the seaport of Kyrenia where witnesses said at least 12 Turkish air force C-47 transport planes dropped a new wave of paratroopers on the beaches. Other troops charged out of amphibious landing vessels and from at least 30 helicopters.

The witnesses said they saw at least seven Turkish naval vessels lying off shore. Some five of them were in the destroyer class and one was a large troop carrier which discharged at least four landing boats.

There was no immediate confirmation of the reported coup from the Reuters news agency correspondent in Athens, who had earlier denied news agency reports that tanks were moving on the capital.

The Ankara radio report, said the coup had been led by a Gen. Davos and that Gen. Joannides, strongman of the army-backed Greek regime, had been detained. It said the Greek head-of-state, Gen. Phaedon Gizikis, was "trying to calm the people."

The reports quoted by the radio, which originated in Belgrade, said troops had surrounded Athens today.

In London, Callaghan said he had won agreement from the Turkish and Greek leaders to attend the proposed tripartite talks.

Callaghan told Parliament the Greek foreign minister informed him today of his willingness to attend the proposed conference with Britain and Turkey.

"This afternoon the prime minister of Turkey has indicated his agreement with Geneva as the meeting place," Callaghan said.

"I trust these talks will begin either tomorrow or Wednesday," he added.

Callaghan said he had continuous discussions throughout the weekend with U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and separate talks with the Turkish and Greek leaders.

"A great deal has to be done to ensure the return of constitutional rule in Cyprus which was destroyed last Monday and to devise arrangements which will produce the necessary confidence among all concerned that this willl be maintained in future," he said.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Sunday the United Nations peacekeeping forces in Cyprus will not withdraw from the island "at this time."

The UN forces, including the 480-troop Canadian contingent, were performing "a useful function" on the strife-torn island.

Sharp added that the Canadian contingent was doing "very fine work." The troops had worked to stop the spread of fighting and helped to achieve local ceasefires on the island.

He confirmed reports that nine Canadian soldiers had been wounded but said there were no severe injuries.

Meanwhile, Canadian civilians in the Cyprus capital, Nicosia, were being evacuated to Dhekelia in the south of the island.

Glycol Snapped At $10 Gallon

Panic-buying in anti-freeze has reached Victoria, pushing the price to nearly $10 a gallon from a high of $4.85 last winter.

Woolco Department Store has sold 200 gallons in the past week at $9.97 a gallon and expects to quickly sell its remaining stock of 800 gallons at that price.

"When it's gone I don't thihk we will be getting any more — at all," Woolco automobile centre manager Gordon Kawecki said today.

"We don't expect to get another order even for winter. We have been told that we should not expect any more. At this time last year we had a good supply and it was on sale at $1.99 a gallon."

The sudden escalation in price is due to warnings of a possible shortage due to a scarcity of ethylene glycol, a key ingredient.

The two major Canadian manufacturers of anti-freeze, Dow and Union Carbide, say they expect sporadic shortages across the country this winter but are hopeful of supplying most of the demand.

They said motorists should not have to pay more than $8.50 per gallon for anti-freeze this year.

Officer Beaten

Seven youths were arrested and an RCMP officed beaten after a Metchosin baseball diamond turned into a battlefield Sunday.

Const. Bill Biden received a cut ear which required seven stitches.

Sgt. Ted Foster of Colwood said today the young people had been playing in an unorganized game about 6 p.m. at Dunsmuir School, 3341 Painter.

While questioning one player, several others interfered and Biden was knocked to the ground and kicked, Foster said.

Two persons living near the school called police, who sent two Colwood and four Saanich officers to the scene.

The fight was over by the time the Saanich officers arrived.

One of the arrested persons who had been handcuffed escaped from a police cruiser with the aid of a woman, Foster said, but he was recaptured.

Appearing in court this morning, on various charges of obstructing and assaulting a police officer and possession of liquor in a public place, were: Wayne Boldo, 22, of 318 Benhomer; Daniel Makow, 20, of 4075 Metchosin; Patrick Heslop, 19, and David Heslop, 21, of 1321 Sussex; John Heslop, 22, of 1340 Sussex; Reginald Wall, 18, of 487 Dressler; Terry Lee, 18, of Belmont Auto Court.

They were remanded to July 29 for plea and all but one released on bail.

New Leases Scare Seniors

Many elderly tenants of the Orchard House highrise apartment in James Bay are moving out because they are anxious about tenure and feel "intimidated" by the owner's offer of 99-year leases on their suites, The Times learned today.

A spokesman for the tenants, who preferred not to have her name mentioned, said 21 tenants of the 210-suite building have given notice since June 1 and none had intended to move.

Despite reassurances from the tenants' committee, she said, tenants are "frightened and bewildered" as to their future, and their rights if they choose to decline the lease offer.

In many cases the residents are refugees from the strata title conversion of other apartments, including Bickerton Court, and they are afraid that they will have to move yet again, she said.

The woman said she has written to Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen and Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson, seeking official assurance that tenants are not obliged to vacate if they reject the lease offer.

In the letter to Pollen, she says a rumor circulating the building since the end of May was confirmed July 8 when copies of an unsigned, undated letter from Pacific Strata Services Ltd. were received by most tenants.

The circular letter begins: "As we expect you are aware, long-term leases are now available in Orchard House, but this in no way changes the month-to-month tenancies of present occupants.

"Pacific Strata Services Ltd., as agent for the owner, is preparing a program for the sale of long-term leases on all vacant suites and these will, of course, be available to present tenants. Tenants may also purchase long-term leases on the suites that they are currently occupying."

The woman spokesman told the Times that despite the firm's assurance concerning maintenance of existing tenancies, there has been a tendency for "rumor to feed on rumor" resulting in growing doubts and suspicion.

As she put it in her letter to Pollen: "Since then (July 8) tenants have been inclined to panic and move to whatever other accommodation they could find, thus playing into the hands of the landlord.

"The majority of tenants here are retired and many 65 and over. One can therefore understand their reluctance to live with an axe hanging over their heads."

In her suite today, and with a neighboring tenant supporting her stand, she said she would like to imbue tenants with a "fighting" spirit and encourage them not to panic.

She said the 99-year leases are absurdly high, and even if the term or price didn't deter elderly tenants they would find it a far better proposition to move into a new condominium, where suites were generally larger and better than the Orchard House units.

She said the figures quoted by the firm range from $21,700 for a studio suite on the 12th floor to $45,000 for a two-bedroom suite on the 17th.

The terms of the offer require a minimum $5,000 down-payment with the remainder carried on a mortgage at 10 per cent over 30 years.

IT'S TOUGH TO WIN $500,000

TORONTO (CP) — In Horatio Alger's stories, the poor but honest hero always adjusted perfectly to sudden riches, but it appears to be more difficult in real life.

Last week, Jim MacLean, a 26-year-old printer, had $53 in the bank, and his telephone had been cut off because he was unable to pay his $160 bill.

Last Tuesday, he won $500,000 in the Olympic lottery.

His financial record now impeccable, he was welcomed at his bank and with a loan and an extended credit-card allowance, went on a shopping spree, spent $1,200 on clothes and traded in his Volkswagen on a $4,800 Dodge Charger.

Then, off to Montreal to claim the prize—and all the headaches that go with it.

It wasn't until he reached Montreal and checked into a luxurious hotel that the worries began.

How to handle all that money?

Where should it be invested? What interest rate? What about the family? Will it change me?

All those questions and more went through Mr. MacLean's mind.

"I feel excited all the time now," he said in a weekend interview. "I can't sit still."

Although Mr. MacLean worried about hiring an accountant or even a lawyer, Julien Cote, a lottery official, sat down with him and offered counsel.

"You're young, if you invest your capital properly, you'll never have to use it," he said. "But you'll have to be careful."

Mr. Cote told tthe winner to shop around for the highest interest rate he can get.

When Mr. MacLean said he had been offered 10¾ per cent by his bank manager, Mr. Cote urged him to be tough.

"That's when you were sitting on the other side of the table," Mr. Cote said. "Now you're in the driver's seat."

"Call up the other banks and say: 'Boys, I have $500,000 for five years. How much are you going to give me?'"

Then, Mr. Cote offered a list of accountants from across the country, suggesting the winner hire a firm to handle his income taxes, leaving the choice of a lawyer until he entered business deals.

And Mr. MacLean headed back for Toronto, with a long list of questions that Horatio Alger's heroes never seemed to worry about.

HIGH... AND DRY

High tide later in the day floated the vessel owned by Henry Andress, 3655 Beach Drive, from its ignominious perch. Pacific Air and Sea Rescue attended early in the morning but the rescue job was left to the tide.

EARMUFFS that permit normal speech and noise levels to be heard, yet cut out any excessive noise above a present level were introduced recently in London, England. The ear defender muffs have a built-in controlled sound transmission channel comprising a microphone-amplifier-earphone combination, arranged so that they reproduce normal speech intensities but will not pass very high noise levels to the ears. Each ear is supplied via a signal channel that is independent of the other enabling the wearer to determine the direction of sound.

CHICAGO (AP) — Farm commodity futures rallied late on the Board of Trade today after early selling had sent soybeans, corn and soybean oil futures to limit declines.

A strong speculative demand lifted nearby soybean oil options to 100 points above the previous close. Two options had a range of some 200 points.

The rally set in after July options had expired at noon. There appeared to be no particular outside influence at work on the rising prices, but as prices advanced much short covering developed.

Some selling came early on reports of rain in the Midwest on a somewwhat bearish soybeans crush report. The National Corn Growers Association, however, said it had conducted a survey that indicated this year's corn production might be as low as 5.518 billion bushels compared to the government's estimate of 5.950 to 6.350, on the basis of July 1 conditions.

At the close, soybeans were 2 to 8½ cents higher, August 7.52; Chicago wheat 7 lower to 6 higher, September 4.47; Gulf wheat 5 lower, September 4.55b; corn 1 to 6 lower, September 3.27; oats unchanged to 1¾ lower, September 1.70¼.

Money Merely 'Scorekeeper'

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Richardson Securities of Canada's highest paid salesman lives in Charlottetown and to him "money is the way we keep score."

Stockbroker David Hyndman, 33, says: "The stock market is my life. I enjoy it. It's a fascinating game. I look forward to coming into the office every morning."

It may surprise some people to find the company's best salesman in this quiet capital; but Hyndman says: "I have no wish to go to Toronto or Montreal. They are no place to raise kids. The only reason I would go there is for the challenge, nothing else."

A graduate of King's College in Windsor, N.S., and the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, he says he worked "damn hard" when he started five years ago.

It was not unusual for him to work day and night all week.

"I was lucky. Some of my first clients recommended me to their friends."

He has the confidence of some of P.E.I.'s most influential potato growers, a confidence shared by his company.

"They allow me to spend more," he says. "they allow me to call New York and Chicago when I want to. "When I phone a client I have to be able to give him my opinion on whether he should buy or sell. My opinion is formed on the opinion of our research experts, the stock exchange, my clients, and the news and other factors.

"You have to separate the wheat from the chaff."

Although he handles regular stocks, most of Hyndman's business transactions are done on the speculative side, namely potatoes.

"Most of my clients have a speculative urge. They have the money. Farming is the avenue they make money to invest in the market."

Depending on the season, he may handle thousands of dollars a day.

"Spring and fall is when trading is the heaviest. Farmers want to know how the planting and harvesting are. That's when it gets hectic."

The pressure does not bother him. "I have always been interested in financial matters. When I was a kid, I read every book I could get my hands on. There aren't too many I haven't read."

The market "is my niche in life. I couldn't leave it. If I were to retire, I would always be here. I'd go crazy if I weren't."

Three Firms To Seek Oil In Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — Three American oil companies have signed $53.5 million worth of agreements for oil exploration in Egyptian territory. A total of 4,788 square miles will be explored.

The companies, Union Oil, Amoco and Mobil, also agreed to pay a total of $14 million in bonuses to Egypt with signature of the agreement. They also will provide production assistance of $27 million.

Mobil will spend $21½ million over eight years looking for oil in a 903-square-mile area. It will pay $6 million as a signature bonus and $12 million if oil is discovered.

Amcoc received an offshore concession south of Ras Ghareb in the Suez Gulf. The company agreed to invest $2 million in the work over two years, to pay a $3-million signature bonus within 30 days and a $5 million production bonus.

Union Oil of California will explore a 3,846-square-mile concession in the Benas area along the Red Sea coast and spend $30 million over 10 years. The company agreed to pay a $5-million signature bonus and a $10-million production bonus.

Under all three agreements, Egypt will take 80 per cent of the production once oil is found in commercial quantities.

Egyptian Oil Minister Ahmed Hilal said Egypt will give concessions to several more American and European oil companies, after ratification by parliament.

COUP RUMORED IN ATHENS

Times News Services

Turkish planes were still dropping bombs in Cyprus following the ceasefire deadline agreed on by both Turkey and Greece, the United Nations Security Council was told today by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Walkheim said Turkish planes struck at Nicosia airport after the 10 a.m. EDT deadline and that one bomb had hit a UN installation, wounding a British soldier.

As the fighting ccontinued for the third day, concentrated along the northern coast, there were radio reports out of the Turkish capital of Ankara that Greek military officers had staged a coup against the Athens regime and arrested strongman Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ionnides.

Three hours before the ceasefire deadline, Turkey was reported flying in fresh troops, and two hours later the deadline, Turkey's armed forces general staff indicated that some bombing might continue.

At the deadline, monitors in Beirut, Lebanon, heard the Greek Greek-Cypriot radio broadcast orders for the Greek-Cypriots to stop shooting.

Earlier in the day both Greece and Turkey announced their forces on Cyprus would observe the United Nations sponsored ceasefire.

And in London, Foreign Secretary James Callaghan announced the two countries have ageeed to meet with Britain in Geneva to discuss a new Cyprus peace settlement.

The Turkish general staff in Ankara claimed Greek-Cypriots were slaughtering Turkish-Cypriots in the areas of Paphos in the western part of the island in Lefka in the north.

The general staff said that unless this stopped, the Turkish air force would bomb the areas heavily.

In a censored dispatch from Nicosia an Associated Press correspondent said Turkey had landed massive reinforcements by sea and air on the north coast as fighting raged for control of strategic areas.

Heavy pre-deadline fighting was reported around the seaport of Kyrenia where witnesses said at least 12 Turkish air force C-47 transport planes dropped a new wave of paratroopers on the beaches. Other troops charged out of amphibious landing vessels and from at least 30 helicopters.

The witnesses said they saw at least seven Turkish naval vessels lying off shore. Some five of them were in the destroyer class and one was a large troop carrier which discharged at least four landing boats.

There was no immediate confirmation of the reported coup from the Reuters news agency correspondent in Athens, who had earlier denied news agency reports that tanks were moving on the capital.

The Ankara radio report, said the coup had been led by a Gen. Davos and that Gen. Joannides, strongman of the army-backed Greek regime, had been detained. It said the Greek head-of-state, Gen. Phaedon Gizikis, was "trying to calm the people."

The reports quoted by the radio, which originated in Belgrade, said troops had surrounded Athens today.

In London, Callaghan said he had won agreement from the Turkish and Greek leaders to attend the proposed tripartite talks.

Callaghan told Parliament the Greek foreign minister informed him today of his willingness to attend the proposed conference with Britain and Turkey.

"This afternoon the prime minister of Turkey has indicated his agreement with Geneva as the meeting place," Callaghan said.

"I trust these talks will begin either tomorrow or Wednesday," he added.

Callaghan said he had continuous discussions throughout the weekend with U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and separate talks with the Turkish and Greek leaders.

"A great deal has to be done to ensure the return of constitutional rule in Cyprus which was destroyed last Monday and to devise arrangements which will produce the necessary confidence among all concerned that this willl be maintained in future," he said.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Sunday the United Nations peacekeeping forces in Cyprus will not withdraw from the island "at this time."

The UN forces, including the 480-troop Canadian contingent, were performing "a useful function" on the strife-torn island.

Sharp added that the Canadian contingent was doing "very fine work." The troops had worked to stop the spread of fighting and helped to achieve local ceasefires on the island.

He confirmed reports that nine Canadian soldiers had been wounded but said there were no severe injuries.

Meanwhile, Canadian civilians in the Cyprus capital, Nicosia, were being evacuated to Dhekelia in the south of the island.

Glycol Snapped At $10 Gallon

Panic-buying in anti-freeze has reached Victoria, pushing the price to nearly $10 a gallon from a high of $4.85 last winter.

Woolco Department Store has sold 200 gallons in the past week at $9.97 a gallon and expects to quickly sell its remaining stock of 800 gallons at that price.

"When it's gone I don't think we will be getting any more at all," Woolco automobile centre manager Gordon Kawecki said today.

"We don't expect to get another order even for winter. We have been told that we should not expect any more. At this time last year we had a good supply and it was on sale at $1.99 a gallon."

The sudden escalation in price is due to warnings of a possible shortage due to a scarcity of ethylene glycol, a key ingredient.

The two major Canadian manufacturers of anti-freeze, Dow and Union Carbide, say they expect sporadic shortages across the country this winter but are hopeful of supplying most of the demand.

They said motorists should not have to pay more than $8.50 per gallon for anti-freeze this year.

Officer Beaten

Seven youths were arrested and an RCMP officed beaten after a Metchosin baseball diamond turned into a battlefield Sunday.

Const. Bill Biden received a cut ear which required seven stitches.

Sgt. Ted Foster of Colwood said today the young people had been playing in an unorganized game about 6 p.m. at Dunsmuir School, 3341 Painter.

While questioning one player, several others interfered and Biden was knocked to the ground and kicked, Foster said.

Two persons living near the school called police, who sent two Colwood and four Saanich officers to the scene.

New Leases Scare Seniors

Many elderly tenants of the Orchard House highrise apartment in James Bay are moving out because they are anxious about tenure and feel "intimidated" by the owner's offer of 99-year leases on their suites, The Times learned today.

A spokesman for the tenants, who preferred not to have her name mentioned, said 21 tenants of the 210-suite building have given notice since June 1 and none had intended to move.

Despite reassurances from the tenants' committee, she said, tenants are "frightened and bewildered" as to their future, and their rights if they choose to decline the lease offer.

In many cases the residents are refugees from the strata title conversion of other apartments, including Bickerton Court, and they are afraid that they will have to move yet again, she said.

The woman said she has written to Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen and Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson, seeking official assurance that tenants are not obliged to vacate if they reject the lease offer.

In the letter to Pollen, she says a rumor circulating the building since the end of May was confirmed July 8 when copies of an unsigned, undated letter from Pacific Strata Services Ltd. were received by most tenants.

The circular letter begins: "As we expect you are aware, long-term leases are now available in Orchard House, but this in no way changes the month-to-month tenancies of present occupants.

"Pacific Strata Services Ltd., as agent for the owner, is preparing a program for the sale of long-term leases on all vacant suites and these will, of course, be available to present tenants. Tenants may also purchase long-term leases on the suites that they are currently occupying."

The woman spokesman told the Times that despite the firm's assurance concerning maintenance of existing tenancies, there has been a tendency for "rumor to feed on rumor" resulting in growing doubts and suspicion.

As she put it in her letter to Pollen: "Since then (July 8) tenants have been inclined to panic and move to whatever other accommodation they could find, thus playing into the hands of the landlord.

"The majority of tenants here are retired and many 65 and over. One can therefore understand their reluctance to live with an axe hanging over their heads."

In her suite today, and with a neighboring tenant supporting her stand, she said she would like to imbue tenants with a "fighting" spirit and encourage them not to panic.

She said the 99-year leases are absurdly high, and even if the term or price didn't deter elderly tenants they would find it a far better proposition to move into a new condominium, where suites were generally larger and better than the Orchard House units.

She said the figures quoted by the firm range from $21,700 for a studio suite on the 12th floor to $45,000 for a two-bedroom suite on the 17th.

The terms of the offer require a minimum $5,000 down-payment with the remainder carried on a mortgage at 10 per cent over 30 years.

IT'S TOUGH TO WIN $500,000

TORONTO (CP) In Horatio Alger's stories, the poor but honest hero always adjusted perfectly to sudden riches, but it appears to be more difficult in real life.

Last week, Jim MacLean, a 26-year-old printer, had $53 in the bank, and his telephone had been cut off because he was unable to pay his $160 bill.

Last Tuesday, he won $500,000 in the Olympic lottery.

His financial record now impeccable, he was welcomed at his bank and with a loan and an extended credit-card allowance, went on a shopping spree, spent $1,200 on clothes and traded in his Volkswagen on a $4,800 Dodge Charger.

Then, off to Montreal to claim the prize and all the headaches that go with it.

It wasn't until he reached Montreal and checked into a luxurious hotel that the worries began.

How to handle all that money?

Where should it be invested? What interest rate? What about the family? Will it change me?

All those questions and more went through Mr. MacLean's mind.

"I feel excited all the time now," he said in a weekend interview. "I can't sit still."

Although Mr. MacLean worried about hiring an accountant or even a lawyer, Julien Cote, a lottery official, sat down with him and offered counsel.

"You're young, if you invest your capital properly, you'll never have to use it," he said. "But you'll have to be careful."

Mr. Cote told tthe winner to shop around for the highest interest rate he can get.

When Mr. MacLean said he had been offered 10¾ per cent by his bank manager, Mr. Cote urged him to be tough.

"That's when you were sitting on the other side of the table," Mr. Cote said. "Now you're in the driver's seat."

"Call up the other banks and say: 'Boys, I have $500,000 for five years. How much are you going to give me?'"

Then, Mr. Cote offered a list of accountants from across the country, suggesting the winner hire a firm to handle his income taxes, leaving the choice of a lawyer until he entered business deals.

And Mr. MacLean headed back for Toronto, with a long list of questions that Horatio Alger's heroes never seemed to worry about.

HIGH... AND DRY

High tide later in the day floated the vessel owned by Henry Andress, 3655 Beach Drive, from its ignominious perch. Pacific Air and Sea Rescue attended early in the morning but the rescue job was left to the tide.
